ASK U. S. TO JOIN PROTEST TO CZAR IN "RITUAL" CASE

Chicago Massmeetings Seek Government Influence Against Persecution of Beilis.

THOUSANDS DENOUNCE TRIAL

No Such Doctrine as Blood Sacrifice in Hebrew Religion, Resolutions Recite.

DUNNE AND LEWIS SEND MESSAGES

Chicago yesterday joined in protest against the Russian government's treatment of Mendel Beilis, now on trial for his life at Kieff, Russia, for an alleged "ritual murder."

Jew and gentile, Catholic and Protestant, white men and negroes, Christian women and rabbi, jurists and educators, lawyers and sociologists, governor and congressmen united in asserting their belief that the brickyard watchman is guiltless of the crime of which he is accused.

The so-called blood ritual," credited to Judaism, was declared to be a superstitious invention handed down from medieval days and without the slightest foundation in fact. This declaration, made by ministers of Christian faiths and lay students of religious dogmas, was reiterated by the clergy of the synagogue.

Big Protest Meetings Held.

Two downtown theaters were inadequate to house the outpouring of indignant people who assembled to lend their presence to the denunciation of what was declared to be a prejudicial attempt on the part of the Greek church of Russia and the powers that rule the czar to incite the wrath of Nicholas' ignorant subjects against the Jews of his domain.

Hundreds unable to gain entrance to Cohan's Grand Opera house and the Garrick theater filled to congestion Clark and Randolph street in the vicinity of the county building. Police reserves were called out to keep women from being trampled upon in the crush. As it was, several women fainted in the packed theater lobbies.

It originally had been intended to utilize only the Grand for the protest meeting. At 2 p. m., the hour set for the exercises, this playhouse was besieged by a crowd that might have comfortably filled the Coliseum Arrangements hurriedly were made to hold a second meeting at the Garrick. When this announcement was made the overflow ran the block and a half to the Garrick and quickly filled every available inch of space.

Overflow Crowd Hears Addresses.

The crowds kept coming, and the police in a futile effort to keep the thoroughfares open, pushed hundreds up against the walls of the county building. There speakers sent from the theaters told them of what was transpiring inside and reviewed the causes for the demonstration.

In both theaters, as well as by the masses on the street, resolutions were adopted calling on the state department at Washington to notify the czar's government through the Russian ambassador, of Chicago's protest against making the laborer Beilis a victim of Russian hatred for his race.

Some speakers went so far to urge that Russia be ostracized by other nations until it indicates a willingness to join with the enlightened people of the world in a spirit of universal brotherhood.

Text of the Protest.

This is the resolution, however, that met with the commendation of all who participated:

Whereas, Mendel Beilis, a Jewish laborer, is now being tried at Kieff, Russia, for the alleged murder of a Christian boy, Andre Yushinski, in March, 1911; and,

Whereas, the prosecution has accused the said Beilis of having murdered the boy in order to obtain his blood for use for ritualistic purposes, usually termed the "blood ritual"; and,

Whereas, this alleged use of blood is absolutely abhorrent to the doctrine, spirit and practice of the Jewish religion and has been so proven by non-Jewish theologians, scientists, publicists, and historians; and,

Whereas, over 700 rabbis, the heads of the Jewish church, located all over the world have just taken public oath and solemnly asserted that there was nothing in the doctrine or practice of the Jewish church to warrant any allegation that the use of human or even animal blood was permitted for any purpose, religious or secular; and,

Whereas, the 6,000,000 Jews living in Russia are exposed to public shame and contumely by having spread far and wide the accusation that they practice so barbaric a rite as the "blood ritual" is alleged to be, and over 2,000,000 American citizens of the Jewish faith are distressed and mortified by this attack made on the morality and practice of their faith; and,

Feare Further Outbreak.

Whereas, even the conservative public press of Russia has assailed the charge of ritual murder as barbarous, absurd, superstitious and malicious, and accuses the court of acting arbitrarily, and holds the higher authorities responsible for the elimination of all evidence favorable to the accused, and the liberal press of Russia fears that the populace may be incited to fresh pogroms as a result of the excitement induced by the superstitious and bigoted charge made against the defendant; therefore be it

Resolved, That we, citizens of Chicago, in massmeeting assembled, do hereby express our indignation and voice our protest against the use of so barbaric an accusation and so medieval an insult, which can result only in exposing an in-

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—Wintry weather is predicted for the next few days in the greater part of the country east of the Rocky mountains.

"It is probable," the weekly bulletin says tonight, "that general frosts will occur the first half of the week in the great central valleys, the eastern states, and the interior of the south. Normal temperatures will prevail during the week on the Pacific slope.

"There will be rains Monday in the eastern states, the upper Ohio valley, and the region of the great lakes; otherwise the weather during the next several days will be generally fair east of the Rocky mountains.

"The next disturbance of importance to cross the country will appear in the northwest Tuesday or Wednesday, move eastward, and cross the great central valleys Thursday or Friday and the eastern states near the end of the week. This disturbance will be preceded by a general change to higher temperature, be attended by rains in the north Pacific states, and the southern and middle states east of the Rock mountains, and by rains and snows along the northern border.

"It will be followed by colder weather, which will appear in the northwest about Thursday."

SUFFRAGETS MAKE INVASION OF TWO LONDON CATHEDRALS.

Fifteen American Women Said to Have Taken Part in Demonstration, According to Militants' Report.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Suffragets again interrupted the services today at St. Paul's and also at St. Luke's, Kensington, where the bishop of London was preaching, by reciting a prayer for "Mary Richardson and Annie Kenney, who are being forcibly fed."

After the women were ejected from St. Paul's they attempted to hold a meeting on the steps of the cathedral, but the police interfered. A scuffle ensued and two women were arrested, charged with assaulting the police.

According to the official report of the militant organization, "fifteen American women also went to the cathedral in order to demonstrate their sympathy with their English sisters and to protest against the action of the authorities at New York in preventing Mrs. Pankhurst from landing."

The report also says that the women were ejected with great violence by the vergers.

Similar scenes occurred at the morning services at the Birmingham and Norwich cathedrals. No attempt was made to interfere with the suffragettes, who, when they had finished their litany, quietly walked out in both cases, and the services proceeded undisturbed.

BURNS TERMINAL IN EAST ST. LOUIS

Fire Causes Heavy Losses to Several Railroads and Grain Companies.

CAR-FILLED YARDS BLAZE

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 20, 1 a. m.—The entire railroad terminals of East St. Louis, said to be the largest in the United States, are threatened with destruction by fire.

The blaze began on the banks of the Mississippi river at 10 o'clock last night and rapidly spread in three directions.

The damage already amounts to several hundred thousand dollars.

The fire soon attacked properties of the Advance Grain company, the Chicago and Alton freight house, the Baltimore and Ohio freighthouse, and the car jammed railroad yards.

The glare of the conflagration then illuminated as bright as day the vicinity within a radius of five miles.

Shortly before midnight the elevator of the Advance Grain company, where the fire is believed to have started, collapsed, part of the burning debris sliding into the river.

The fire then spread to the Clover Leaf warehouse and part of the business section of East St. Louis.

All telephone and telegraph wires in the vicinity are down.

Fire Levels Ottumwa Block.

Ottumwa, Ia., Oct. 19.—The third disastrous fire in three years swept the business district of this city tonight, causing a loss of $415,000. A half city block, containing two hardware stores, two furniture stores, the Ottumwa Gas company's building, and a flour and feed store, was swept clean by the flames. The fire was under control shortly before midnight.

BARN FIRE COSTS $20,000.

Two large hay barns at Fifty-fifth street and Central Park avenue, owned by the firm of Doud & Keefer, were burned to the ground last night, the loss of barns and hay amounting to $20,000. The cause is unknown.

ROBBERS REMOVE SHOES OF VICTIM IN SEARCH FOR CASH.

Kick Man Into Submission and Hit Him Again Because He Hasn't Got Enough.

Two men leaped on W. E. Cummings, 5064 Lincoln avenue, near Harrison street and Fifth avenue early yesterday and dragged him into a near by alley, kicking him into submission. They found $9 and a $50 watch.

"Whatcha got in your shoes?" one demanded.

"Nothing but my feet," returned the indignant Cummings. "They aren't big enough to hold a house and lot."

"Hit 'im again, Bill," advised the robber, who proceeded to remove Cummings' shoes and examined the lining. "You'd oughta carry more money. You've made us a lot of trouble."

After the pair had left Cummings, fuming, replaced his shoes and ran down the street two blocks to the South Clark street police station, where he told his troubles.

Paying no attention to the screams of Miss Rose Schmidt of 738 North Clark street, another pair of robbers struck down the girl a escort, John Meisch of 1748 Augusta street, and robbed him of $22, escaping before the Hudson avenue police arrived.

Two Chicago Physicians Prove Heroes After Wreck Caused by Spreading Rails.

JAM AT TIFFIN, O.; SCORES CRUSHED

Meridian, Miss., Oct. 19.—Twenty soldiers of companies 30 and 170, United States Coast artillery, were killed and about 100 others injured this afternoon when a special troop train on the Mobile and Ohio railroad crashed through a trestle near State Line, Miss. Division Superintendent Pigford of the Mobile and Ohio in a report sent to headquarters of the road at Mobile, gives this number as the extent of the casualties.

Report Death List to Washington.

An official report sent the war department at Washington by one of the army officers on the train said one officer and two corporals were killed.

Some reports put the death list as high as twenty-six.

An official report received here gives a partial list of the dead as:

Joseph Teben,	——— Remsen,
Ernest Parquette,	——— Gruckle,
Clyde Teel,	——— Acres,
H. B. Bishop,	Corporal Kohler,
G. C. Burleson,	Corporal Chlewski,
Joseph Provence,	——— Van Stebbins,
W. H. Brim,	One body unidentified with initials
Capt. Johnson,	"H. T." on cap.
——— Goodes,

All were privates and members of company 170.

It is reported that Harvey E. Jones, general passenger agent of the railroad, and Conductor S. D. Pruitt of Meridian, Miss., are among the injured.

Three Coaches Off Trestle.

The wreck was caused by the engine tender jumping the track when about 200 feet from a trestle. It broke loose from the engine and with the baggage car and three coaches plunged twenty-five feet to the ground.

At 9 o'clock tonight sixteen bodies had been taken from the wreckage and Supt. Pigford said he was sure four more bodies were in the debris, which will not be cleared away for twenty-four hours.

One hundred and seventy-nine soldiers were on the special train. They were from Fort Morgan and Fort Barancas and were on their way here to participate in the Mississippi-Alabama joint state fair. The men had gone to Mobile today and at noon their special left Mobile.

The coaches were well filled, and when the three cars plunged through the trestle the men had little chance to escape. The dead and injured were entangled in a twisted mass of wreckage, making it difficult to remove dead bodies or rescue injured.

Because of the confusion, due largely to poor wire communication, it was impossible to ascertain the names of the injured or how many of them may die.

Fifteen Persons Hurt at Alton.

Alton, Ill., Oct. 19.—Fifteen persons were injured, two perhaps fatally, when a "Midnight Special" of the Chicago and Alton railroad, bound from Chicago to St. Louis, was wrecked here early this morning.

The lives of thirty-three other passengers, in all probability, were saved by a steel cable bracing a telegraph pole, which caught the chair car and prevented it from overturning. The car was left standing on end and all its occupants were hurled in a mass to the bottom.

Dr. August G. Haerpher and his son-in-law, Dr. Galvin W. Brown of Chicago, were the heroes of the wreck. Unmindful of their own cuts and bruises, they walked up and down the wreckage calling, "Who needs a doctor?" and rendering aid to the injured.

The wreck is believed to have been caused by spreading rails.

The injured were brought to this city. Among the less seriously injured were L. G. Dorsey and wife of Chicago.

Three Fatally Hurt at Tiffin, O.

Tiffin, O., Oct. 19.—Three persons were probably fatally injured, four were seriously hurt, and scores were cut and bruised when a southbound Big Four passenger train was wrecked today three miles south of this city. The engine, baggage car, and two coaches left the track and rolled down an embankment.

THRASHER MAGNATE VERY ILL.

Racine, Wis. Oct. 19.—Stephen Bull, one of the founders of the J. I. Case Thrashing Machine company, is critically ill. He is 80 years old. Mr. Bull for more than twenty years was president of the Milwaukee Harvester company and president of the Case company.

TWO TERMINALS, WALLACE'S IDEA

Finding of Engineer Reported to Advise One on the West Side and One South and East of State.

MAY SINK FREIGHT RAILS

Depression, It Is Pointed Out, Would Open Up Streets Interrupted by Many Tracks.

Intimations emanating yesterday from members of the council committee on railway terminals gave a general idea of some of the features of the report of John F. Wallace, engineering expert counsel, which is to be delivered to the committee today.

Considerable reticence was observed by the aldermen, to whom the nature of the report has been disclosed, in discussing its contents.

Various aldermen who were interviewed by reporters for THE TRIBUNE seemed to be agreed on two points. Mr. Wallace is understood to suggest a plan for the depression instead of the elevation of the freight tracks. He is also said by well informed aldermen to be against a single grand central terminal, indorsing rather the Pennsylvania company's passenger station plan for the roads in the Pennsylvania group now using the union station, and suggesting another station on the south side, east of State, and, according to one alderman, possibly in conjunction with the new Illinois Central terminal.

Was Engaged Last Spring.

Mr. Wallace was engaged by the council committee on railway terminals last spring to make a survey of Chicago's problems and to recommend ways and means of relieving the central section of the city from the constricting grip of the almost unbroken belt of railroad properties. Members of the committee regard his finding on the main issue as differing radically from any of the plans hitherto presented.

A policy of depressing the freight tracks instead of track elevation would serve two purposes. The embankments now shut off many streets completely and limit others to an insufficient width. Track depression would permit the opening of many streets now ending in a maze of tracks or proceeding across them for such a distance that they are little used.

Track depression would permit the carrying of these obstructed streets directly across the tracks at their correct levels, so that traffic barely would notice the crossing.

What West Side Site Will Do.

Members of the council committee let it be understood that the expert finds that the proposed Pennsylvania passenger terminal will care for all the lines entering the city from the west without carrying them unnecessarily through congested districts or in long, roundabout ways around the edge of the city. The south side terminal will be adequate for all the roads not coming in directly from the west.

Mr. Wallace's report is expected to have a good deal to say about the electrification problem.

The subject of locomotive smoke prevention is before the council committee that will receive the expert's report. It was for the consideration of the mandatory electrification ordinance that today's session was called before Chairman Geiger received word the terminal report was ready.

The measure was sent back on request of organized railroad employés that they be given a hearing before its passage. The chairman has received word they will ask a continuance until a committee they have sent to New York to gather statistics is ready to report.

May Hold Two Sessions.

If that program is followed the Wallace report will be presented at the morning session. If the road employés wish to present preliminary argument on their case, an afternoon session will be called to receive the terminal report.

The disposition that will be made of it temporarily is not clear in the minds of the committee. It is possible that it will be read in full, but there is no expectation in any quarter that definite action will be taken on the recommendations.

There was a tacit understanding that the council's representatives will not act until they have received a report from Bion J. Arnold, who last summer was engaged by the Citizens' Terminal committee to review Mr. Wallace's findings. This body is composed of a group of citizens headed by Alfred L. Baker, who subscribed $25,000 for the investigation in contrast to the city's appropriation of $10,000 for the same purpose.

Co-Operated with Arnold.

Mr. Wallace and Mr. Arnold co-operated in the collection of statistical information on the railroad situation, but Mr. Wallace's conclusions have been reached independently. Recently when Chairman Geiger informed the citizens' committee through Mr. Wallace that it was hoped council action could be obtained "before the holidays," the committee issued a statement that Mr. Arnold's work would be completed as soon as possible after he had received Mr. Wallace's conclusions.

At that time it was suggested that Mr. Arnold should have three or four weeks for this purpose, and it is expected a request for that allowance will be made upon the council committee. The reason for haste set up by Chairman Geiger was that the new state utilities commission might take the matter out of the city's hands at the first of the year.

An allowance of four weeks would set the date for Mr. Arnold's report shortly after Nov. 15, leaving a full month for council action.

T. E. WATSON ON TRIAL TODAY.

Former Populist Candidate for President Will Claim "Freedom of Press" for His Defense.

Augusta, Ga., Oct. 19.—The constitutional provision that "congress shall pass no law abridging the freedom of the press" will be the basis of the defense of Thomas E. Watson, once presidential nominee of the Populist party, when he is placed on trial in the federal court here tomorrow on charges of sending obscene literature through the mails.

Charges against Watson are based on articles in two of his magazines, denouncing the Roman Catholic church.

PRESIDENT CALLS CONFERENCE ON PANKHURST CASE

Meeting Today Expected to Result in Granting Suffraget Right of Entrance.

TWO METHODS ARE OPEN

Caminetti Refuses Release on Bond Pending Hearing of Appeal from Decision.

MAKES THREAT OF HUNGER STRIKE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—The president of the United States is to take a hand in deciding the question of whether Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, militant suffraget of England, shall be admitted to this country.

President Wilson tonight called a conference for early tomorrow with Secretary Wilson of the department of labor and Commissioner General Caminetti of the immigration bureau. High government officials, who are believed to know the attitude of the president, predicted that Mrs. Pankhurst would be admitted.

Though the statutes give the secretary of labor final authority in immigration cases, presidents hitherto have indicated the construction they desired placed on such cases.

Caminetti Hears Arguments.

Commissioner Caminetti today refused to release Mrs. Pankhurst on bond pending final adjudication of her appeal from the order of deportation, issued yesterday by the special board of inquiry at Ellis island.

His decision was reached after hearing arguments by two lawyers from New York. He set the time for a further hearing at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, but in view of the call from the president for a conference the formal hearing will be set back until a later hour.

Commissioner Caminetti said today that his desire was "not to be rushed into a decision of a case nationally and internationally important," but that he had done and would continue to do all in his power to facilitate its determination. Unprecedented efforts to dispose of the case were made by the immigration officials and they succeeded practically in "clearing the decks" for positive action tomorrow.

Admission Seems Assured.

It is regarded as a certainty that Mrs. Pankhurst will be admitted. The terms under which she will gain admittance are the only question. If the attorneys seeking her admission prove her offenses have been political ones she will come in without any reservation. Commissioner Caminetti intimated that he would entertain favorably proof to the effect that her offenses have been only political.

If Mr. Caminetti upholds the ruling of the Ellis island board, that Mrs. Pankhurst should be deported, then she will be admitted under bond, as was Marie Lloyd, the music hall singer. The bond will provide that as soon as Mrs. Pankhurst concludes her engagements she shall leave the country.

The list of engagements must be filed with the department of labor, and if she does not leave at their conclusion she will be deported forcibly.

Differences of Friends Hurt.

It is possible Mrs. Pankhurst would have been released from Ellis island today had it not been for the lack of coöperation between her supporters in New York and Washington.

The Washington headquarters proposed to take no appeal from the decision of the immigration board, but to obtain the English woman's admission under bond. Authoritative assurances were given the women that this would be done.

But after retaining local attorneys and making the necessary arrangements for the admission under bond, Miss Alice Paul, chairman of the congressional committee of the National American Woman Suffrage association, discovered that Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont of New York is in sole charge of Mrs. Pankhurst's case and had dispatched New York lawyers to the capital.

Two Hearings During Day.

Without consulting the national leaders or their counsel, the New York attorneys argued their appeal before Mr. Caminetti at two hearings today.

Mr. Caminetti opened the way to the admission of Mrs. Pankhurst on proof that the English suffraget movement is political in character and that Mrs. Pankhurst is guilty of only political offenses.

He asked the attorneys to present the character and scope of the English suffrage movement. Mrs. Paul and her counsel were prepared to give detailed information on this phase of the question, but they were not consulted by the New York attorneys, who confessed their unpreparedness, and sought to obtain the facts from Mrs. Pankhurst by telephone.

Mr. Caminetti then adjourned the hearing till tomorrow morning.

Moral Turpitude Only Issue.

When Commissioner Caminetti opened the hearing this morning he announced that the only question before him was that of moral turpitude. He said Mrs. Pankhurst could not be kept out of this country because of her acts in seeking to petition parliament for a vote, as the right to petition is so solidly grounded in the minds of all Americans it cannot be questioned on moral grounds.

This afternoon, after hearing F. S. McNeil and H. R. Reeves, the New York lawyers, explain their views on moral turpitude, the commissioner said the chief question then before him was whether Mrs. Pankhurst's conviction was the result of political differences or not. He asked the attorneys to give him information on the political phase of the case. They were unable to do so and he granted a recess until tomorrow.

Meanwhile they are consulting New York over long distance telephone and ignoring the Washington headquarters entirely in their effort to get information on the extent of the suffrage movement in England.

No Bond Pending Appeal.

If Commissioner Caminetti does not decide the case tomorrow there is only one way by which Mrs. Pankhurst can fill her engagement to speak at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. That is for her to accept the order of deportation and ask to be permitted to fill her speaking contracts, under bond to leave this country at their conclusion. She cannot be admitted under bond pending a decision on her appeal from the ruling of the Ellis island authorities.

To facilitate matters, Miss Paul, in charge of the Washington headquarters, had arranged for Mrs. Pankhurst to be released under bond on the order of deportation last night. Mrs. Belmont's activity in New York prevented this, and the failure of the New York lawyers to impress Commissioner Caminetti today has further delayed Mrs. Pankhurst's entrance.

Effort to Agree Fails.

A local suffrage leader conferred with New York leaders over long distance telephone late tonight in an effort to bring the two factions together on a plan of action for tomorrow. She failed. Mr. Reeves, the New York attorney, who is now here, refuses to have anything to do with the attorneys retained by the local leaders to prepare the case.

It was learned tonight that Mr. Reeves will base his argument tomorrow on the property rights of which Mrs. Pankhurst will be deprived if not allowed to carry out her contracts. If he does so, Commissioner Caminetti will have no ground on which to reverse the Ellis island board's ruling of yesterday. Then the case will revert to its status of last night, when the Washington leaders wanted to accept the Ellis island ruling and release Mrs. Pankhurst under bond that she might fulfill her engagements.

Attorney Reeves apparently does not care to enter into a discussion of the political phase of the case. It is on this phase that the local suffragists are most strongly fortified.

No Plea from Britons.

During the hearing today Mr. Caminetti took the opportunity to say the English government had not approached this government with reference to Mrs. Pankhurst's deportation. Mr. McNeil said he understood the American government had received several secret reports from England on the matter. Mr. Caminetti said if this was so, they had not come to his knowledge, and as he had charge of the case they would not enter in.

In order to disprove any charge of star chamber proceedings, he ordered all protests, petitions, and papers in the case to be put in the record. These papers included a report from Consul General Griffiths on Mrs. Pankhurst's trial last April, when she was convicted of conspiracy to burn the house of Chancellor Lloyd-George. Mr. Griffiths sent several articles from the London Times with his report, and the attorneys objected to their being included in the record. Mr. Caminetti announced that they would affect his decision in no way, and that at the close of the proceedings he would entertain a motion for their exclusion.

"I am putting them in," he said, "only to avoid all inference of withholding matters presented to me in connection with this case."

Sees Property Right Loss.

Mr. McNeil first argued that Mrs. Pankhurst be permitted to enter so that she might fulfill her contracts for speaking engagements in the United States.

"It will deprive her of a valuable property right to restrain her from entrance," he said.

Then he stated that she was now being held a prisoner at Ellis island. Mr. Caminetti obected to this, arguing that she was in no way a prisoner, that in seeking admission to this country she had come voluntarily, and that she must submit to the regulations of this country before she can enter.

Taking up the question of moral turpitude, on which grounds Mrs. Pankhurst was ordered deported yesterday, Mr. McNeil said there were two kinds of crimes. One involved moral turpitude and the other did not.

Denies Any Criminal Intent.

"We must look into Mrs. Pankhurst's heart for moral turpitude," he said. "The jury which convicted her recommended mercy, on the ground of the purity of her motives. The judge who sentenced her said if she would say she was sorry for speaking, as she had he would reconsider the verdict of the jury and release her.

"The essence of crime is criminal intent. Mrs. Pankhurst had no criminal intent. Your honor can conceive of a religious fanatic throwing her babe into the Ganges. In the eyes of the law that is murder. But it surely does not involve moral turpitude. Congress never intended to exclude women from this country who are found guilty as Mrs. Pankhurst was found guilty in her last trial."

Mr. Reeves argued that Mrs. Pankhurst's speech should not be considered proof of moral turpitude.

"She was tried as an accessory before the fact," he said, "and it is a question in my mind how far a person can be held responsible for utterances which excite others to action. Mrs. Pankhurst did make strong statements, but if the people misconstrued her statements and her motives she should not be held responsible for their acts. Nowhere in the record of this case is there any evidence showing that she ever advocated the destruction of property or life.

Does Not Know Firebugs.

"The whole case simmers down to this: Were the acts of which she was convicted—namely: the making of public speeches—crimes involving moral turpitude? She said something. Some one else went out and fired the house. She said at her trial, and she says now, she did not know who did it. The judge who presided at her case accepted the view of the jury that her motives were pure, and promised, if she would say she was sorry for speaking as she had, to set aside the verdict."

At the close of Mr. Reeves' argument Commissioner Caminetti said:

"Mrs. Pankhurst stated in her hearing yesterday that she was a political offender only. She has failed to sustain this. As her attorneys, you have offered nothing to sustain that statement. Have you anything to offer on it now—chiefly on what constitutes a political offense?"

The attorneys had nothing, asked a recess to communicate with Mrs. Pankhurst, and the hearing was adjourned until 9 a. m. tomorrow.

The Prisoner of Ellis Island.

COPYRIGHT BY UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD
MRS. PANKHURST READY TO GO TO ELLIS ISLAND

THREAT OF HUNGER STRIKE.

New York, Oct. 19.—"If I am deported, the ship taking me back will carry me to my death."

These words, carrying a veiled threat of a hunger strike, were uttered today in the immigration detention station of Ellis Island by Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst.

Mrs. Pankhurst was talking to Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch and several other woman suffrage leaders who had been given special permission to visit her. She is quoted as having said that, in view of the fact that her physical being had been undermined by six hunger strikes in prisons abroad, she did not believe she would be able to survive a seventh.

Today Mrs. Pankhurst waited on Ellis Island, and not without some impatience, word from Washington as to whether she would be permitted to land under bond to carry out her lecture tour, or whether she must go back to France, whence she came.

"Have there been any despatches from Washington on my case?" she frequently asked.

Still Hopes for Success.

She still hopes that her case will be decided in her favor by tomorrow and that she will be able to speak at Madison Square garden tomorrow night, or at least be allowed to land under bond to keep her engagement to address that meeting.

Mrs. Pankhurst kept to her decision of yesterday not to begin a hunger strike while the prospects seemed favorable to an early decision of her case. Her appetite, in fact, was good, and she appeared to relish each of the three meals sent to her room. For breakfast, for instance, she ate grapefruit, toast, and coffee. For luncheon she was served with two broiled lamb chops, French fried potatoes, lettuce, buttered toast, and strong coffee. She ate heartily of this repast.

She said she has given up tea for coffee, maintaining that coffee is the more strengthening.

At 9 o'clock Mrs. Blatch, Mrs. John Rodgers Jr., and Miss Alice Perkins were ushered into Mrs. Pankhurst's room. The militant leader was reclining upon her bed, propped up with pillows. Each of the visitors she kissed upon the cheek. "I am a prisoner; don't forget that," she said by way of introduction.

Will Not Submit Tamely.

"I have never submitted to unjust imprisonment in England," she said, "and I will not submit to it here. If the steamer La Provence carries me from New York next Thursday, as the result of an order issued by the immigration authorities in Washington, the steamer will carry me to my death. I feel that I cannot last long after six hunger strikes—not much more than twenty-four hours—if I enter upon a seventh.

"As a result of those hunger strikes my stomach is in a weakened condition. On the way over I was sea sick. I am a good sailor and I have been on ships when the sea was much rougher than it was during the trip over. The vibration of the ship affected me because, I suppose, my stomach was in a weakened condition.

"I do not fully understand my detention. This moral turpitude clause is vague and difficult to understand. I suppose, however, that the meaning of it all will be made plain before long."

Cheered by Many Messages.

The English woman read to her callers several telegrams she had received since her detention.

"They have cheered me some," she said, "because when I read them and reread them I realize that there are people in America who are looking at my case from the standpoint of a 'sympathizer.'"

One of the telegrams embraced a resolution passed by a woman's organization in Chicago and was signed by Miss Jane Addams of Hull house and others.

The resolution protested against the "flagrant violation of our law and established policy" in detaining Mrs. Pankhurst, and asked that the decision of the immigration authorities be reconsidered and "this distinguished English woman" admitted.

Emily Pierson, chairman of a woman's organization of Middletown, Conn., sent a resolution requesting President Wilson to use all expediency in helping to secure the suffraget's release "and removing the disgrace" that debarring her must bring to the country.

Makes Trip of Inspection.

After her visitors had left Mrs. Pankhurst made an inspection of Ellis island. Particular interest was shown in the large dining room where the immigrants take their meals. Several times she tenderly patted little immigrant children on the head. After the inspection she said the question of caring for immigrants had been more scientifically studied here than in England.

During the afternoon Mrs. Pankhurst granted the reporters an audience.

"If the immigration authorities at Washington decide your case against you, will you enter upon a hunger strike?" she was asked.

"I cannot talk about that now," she replied. "As yet I am unwilling to make public my plans or to say definitely what action I will take."

"If you are taken back and imprisoned, will you go upon another hunger strike?"

Will Go to "Any Extreme."

"Certainly," was the emphatic reply. "As far as any action which the authorities at Washington may take is concerned, I will only say that if such action upholds the decision of the special board of inquiry, which ordered my deportation, I will go to any extreme to secure my entrance to the United States. It is my purpose to remain here only until December, when I will sail away."

"'By any extreme' do you mean a hunger strike?" was asked.

"I have said that I cannot talk on that now," she said.

Sacrifice Better than Words.

Among Mrs. Pankhurst's callers late in the day was Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, to whose home the English militant had intended to go on landing. Just before Mrs. Belmont's arrival Mrs. Pankhurst received another group of newspaper men.

"You can talk till doomsday on things theoretical and do little good," she said. "But suffering and sacrifice for a cause or an ideal is worth more than words can accomplish.

"If you look deep down into what led to our militancy," she continued, "you will see that the awful conditions required and warranted our methods of gaining reform."

She pointed to the "frightful laws" affecting woman's position and rights in England, such as the divorce law and other laws having to do with the relations of husband and wife, alluding also to the industrial situation as affecting women, and the manner in which the white slave problems are handled by the courts. As to her own position before the law, she indignantly insisted that she was not a felon.

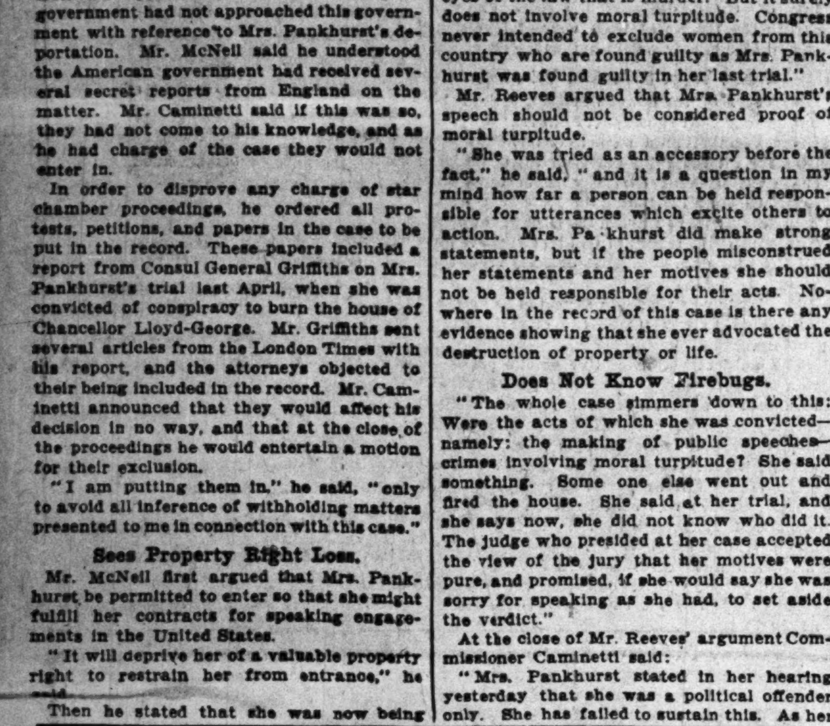

Asked why she assumed responsibility for the placing of a bomb in what was supposed to be a house intended for Lloyd-George, she replied:

"Because I believe that the people who urge people on to such measures should take the responsibility for their acts. The Irish leaders repudiated certain acts done by people whom they had aroused. I would not arouse people to such deeds and not take the responsibility."

CASE PUZZLE TO DAUGHTER.

PARIS, Oct. 19.—Christabel Pankhurst, daughter of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, said today that she could not understand the attitude of the United States in excluding her mother.

The existence of that country, Miss Pankhurst said, arose from militancy against exactly the same thing which the suffragets were opposing—that is, taxation without representation.

A Medium Price—
An Uncommon Value in This

Gossard Corset at $8.50

Some of our models enjoy a larger sale than others. This is particularly true of Model 408 shown below. Since eight out of every ten women—possibly more—find this the ideal corset for them, and its price a medium one as compared with the extreme value, it must of necessity be a "popular seller," and it is.

Aside from its general adaptability it has a style all its own and so pronounced is it, that the sale of this model has met with unusual success both here and in the foreign style centers we supply. We call it a model of international vogue. Its uses are varied.

The Gossard Bulletin of Advance Modes

Paris, Oct. 13th

Skirts faced with color to lend a brightening touch to walking costumes are a new feature.

Fur bands are tremendously used, skunk leading, with fox and fitch close seconds.

Necklaces made of huge beads of amber and topaz are all the rage.

Many Parisians intend adopting short skirted evening dresses for the coming winter, owing to the present craze for the new walking step dances.

The latest fashion in hats is broad sailors in velvet, trimmed with skillfully made bows of moire ribbon.

Evening wraps in three-quarter length have gained the major portion of attention thus far in the new showings of wraps.

Every imaginable style of fichu, kimono, and surplice arrangement of guimpe are now on sale in the stores in Paris.

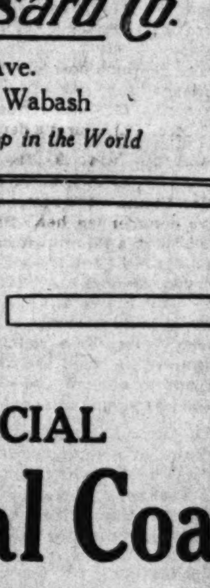

A stylish finish for the back of an evening dress is an enormous Japanese bow of gold or silver lace.

There is no cessation in the popularity of cog le roche.

Many of the tailored dresses of the moment are finished with belts trimmed with suede or patent leather.

Model 408

has an extremely long skirt, with three elastic sections—one at each side and one in back. Above the waist it is quite full, making it a favorite with the women of heavy shoulders and full bust. The waist meets the present vogue—hips are reduced from 2 to 5 inches. The general appearance of this model leaves little to be desired.

The novelty coutil and scientific boning of this model make for a fitting that charms you instantly. It will be a mutual pleasure for us to fit you in Model 408, since a fitting alone can convey to you the impression of its beauty. Priced at....... $8.50

PANKHURST CASE DIVIDES LEADERS

Many Uphold Deportation Order, Deploring English Militant's Visit to America.

OTHERS ASSAIL NATION.

Assert Principles of Freedom Are Abused and Say Detained Woman Is No Criminal.

Arguments for and against the deportation of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst formed the chief theme of discussion yesterday at many meetings in Chicago. While the Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones in the pulpit was upholding the action of the immigration authorities, the Methodist Brotherhood was drafting resolutions protesting against the detention of Mrs. Pankhurst. While Mrs. Franc P. Allore of the Sunday Afternoon forum was attacking Mrs. Pankhurst as a "criminal who ought at least to be put in an insane asylum," the Federation of Labor was denouncing those responsible for her detention.

Many who belligerently were active in Mrs. Pankhurst's behalf on Saturday were reconciled in the opinion she will be released today, and no mass meeting of protest against the action of the immigration authorities was called. Many women, incensed by the report on Saturday, had become cool and refused to be excited further on the subject.

Will Hold Nov. 2 Meeting.

An expedient against the possible carrying out of the federal order was decided on by the leaders of the Illinois Equal Suffrage association. They resolved to do all in their power to convince the immigration authorities Mrs. Pankhurst never has been guilty of "moral turpitude," but in the event the militant Englishwoman is deported the meeting she is scheduled to hold in the Auditorium on Nov. 2 will not be called off.

Mrs. Grace Wilbur Trout, president of the suffrage association, during the day said if Mrs. Pankhurst is deported tickets will be sold and other speakers dated for the event. The proceeds, which are expected to amount to a large sum, will be sent to Mrs. Pankhurst to aid her movement in England.

Women Openly Favor Deportation.

Many women voters were outspoken in their antagonism against Mrs. Pankhurst and in their attack on her visit to America. They openly were in favor of her deportation. The reasons they advanced were that her visit would have a deteriorating effect on the suffrage movement in America. They said while Mrs. Pankhurst does not intend to advance militant ideas in this country, the recital of her story, which will be the theme of her lectures, will arouse antagonism against suffrage in this country.

Mrs. Allore, at the Forum meeting in the Auditorium hotel, caused a heated discussion by her attack on Mrs. Pankhurst. The session was under the auspices of the Hamilton club, and Robert S. Iles, vice president of the latter organization, presided. Following addresses by Harry R. Rathbone and George T. Buckingham, in which both orators pointed out advantages to be gained through the balloting by women, Mrs. Allore took up the discussion of Mrs. Pankhurst's deportation.

Attack on Mrs. Allore.

"No woman is better than her deeds," she said, "and Mrs. Pankhurst's actions certainly never have commended her. She really ought to be placed in a lunatic asylum where she belongs. If she had died long ago, the women in England would have had the ballot. She advocates arson, anarchy, and destruction. She should be deported as a criminal and always classed as a criminal. The suffrage movement in the United States would suffer a great setback if she were permitted to remain in this country and make her talks."

The discussion was taken up immediately by Mrs. Ora Willoughby Greene and Mrs. J. A. Hayworth, who said the action of the immigration authorities was "inexcusable and would arouse the indignation of the women of the whole world."

"As Mrs. Allore says, Mrs. Pankhurst's actions do not commend her," said Mrs. Greene, "but her actions might be excusable under the conditions which the suffragists of England are forced to contend. She does not intend to advocate militant methods in America. That is not the object of her visit. She intends only to make her speeches to get money to help her movement in England.

"True to Her Cause."

"It is absurd to class Mrs. Pankhurst as a criminal. She is true to her cause, even to the extent of being willing to die for it. If she advocates destruction of buildings in helping her cause it is because she has found there is no other way of helping it, and not from an inborn delight in incendiarism. We want Mrs. Pankhurst to tell her story to us, and it would be an act against the freedom and hospitality America always has extended to foreigners."

Mrs. Hayworth took exception to Mrs. Allore's assertions. After the meeting many women gathered in groups and discussed the issue.

Dr. Jones Calls Her Peril.

Dr. Jones, during his morning sermon in Abraham Lincoln center, took a hand in the Pankhurst deportation question and upheld the immigration authorities in their action. "Mrs. Pankhurst and her associates," he said, "in defying law and order, in violating the sacred safeguards thrown around the individual in the home, the school, and the church, strikes at the foundations of civilization. No 'cause' can be advanced by a primal denial of or defiance to the groundwork of the social fabric, in which all righteous causes are rooted and out of which all 'rights' spring. All militant maneuvers against the fundamental conditions of society, although led by angels, are movements towards the anarchy which defeats government and promotes the lawlessness of the average man."

The Methodist brotherhood, on the other hand, protested against the deportation of Mrs. Pankhurst as "bigoted and narrow" during an afternoon meeting. The department of citizenship of the brotherhood, of which Mrs. H. C. Newton is president, drew up a set of resolutions, which will be sent to the department of labor in Washington.

Here Are Other Opinions.

A symposium of opinions regarding Mrs. Pankhurst was taken, as follows:

Mrs. Harriette Taylor Treadwell: "Mrs. Pankhurst is not a criminal. The United States has done her a great injustice in detaining her a moment on Ellis island, and if it sends her back to England, it will arouse the indignation of women all over the country and in other countries. Mrs. Pankhurst is not coming here to become our leader, or even to propagate militant methods in this country. We have our own national leader and our own state leaders.

"We are going about securing suffrage in an educational way and do not have to fight against the legal prejudices and handicaps the women of England have to contend with. Over there the newspapers are in league with the government against woman's suffrage. Mrs. Pankhurst has done more than any other woman living to give publicity to the woman's suffrage movement. She loves her cause more than herself. She means to tell the American women her story, which the English newspapers never have printed. We want to see the other side of the question of the militant movement."

Mrs. M'Culloch's Sober Views.

Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch, author of the woman's suffrage bill of Illinois: "Mrs. Pankhurst's visit to America is not designed to help the cause of suffrage here. In fact, I should seriously think it would hinder it. Her outspoken advocacy of militant tactics would only naturally prejudice men over here against the movement. She will, if allowed to remain, take much money out of America which we suffragists would do well to keep at home. The action of the immigration authorities is regular, and she has been given the right of appeal. I see nothing to be aroused about, if she is not admitted."

Miss Catherine Keith, debutante of the social season and leader of the equal suffrage organization in the University of Chicago: "I understand Mrs. Pankhurst more than I sympathize with her principles. As long as she is not going to advocate militancy in this country we can only gain from her visit. She should not be classed as a criminal or an undesirable."

Miss Jane Addams: "Let Her In."

Miss Jane Addams: "Mrs. Pankhurst has been in America twice before and never has suggested militant methods to American suffragists. I do not believe the immigration authorities are justified in their action, which can only draw many sympathizers to her, and create an antagonism against the federal authorities."

Mrs. Trout: "Mrs. Pankhurst undoubtedly will be released today. The United States cannot afford to make the mistake of deporting her and thus be held up in contempt by other countries. Mrs. Pankhurst undoubtedly will be allowed to tell her story to American women."

Will Wear Mourning.

Mrs. L. Brackett Bishop: "Mrs. Pankhurst is one of the grandest women that ever lived. There is not a drop of criminal blood in her, and it is absurd for the immigration authorities to brand her as such. I shall wear mourning until she is released and allowed to tell American suffragists the inside history of her fight for suffrage in England."

Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, and many others expressed similar opinions.

Shades of Tim Woodruff! Women to Wear Vests.

Some domestic Sherlock Holmeses may be developed

Atop the trouser effect slit skirt and the mannish coat—or rather, under the coat—women next spring are going to wear vests, regular fancy vests with louder colors than any man—except perhaps Col. J. Ham Lewis or the late Tim Woodruff—would dare to wear—stripes and polka dots and flower patterns. That was the decree Saturday of the Chicago Designers' Association of Woman's Apparel, whose members showed not the slightest concern over the danger that a meek husband may have to quarrel to secure possession of his own waistcoat.

Mrs. Robins Charges Violation.

Mrs. Robins charged the principle, on which was founded the government of the United States, was being violated in refusing Mrs. Pankhurst admittance to the United States because of her political beliefs and activities.

Text of Resolutions.

The resolutions follow:

Whereas, Mrs. Pankhurst has been ordered deported by the board of inquiry at Ellis island; and,

Whereas, Such action is in direct violation of the traditions and customs of America, which always have been hospitable to political revolutions of all nations; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Chicago Federation of Labor, in regular meeting assembled, representing an organization of 250,000 men and women, protest against this flagrant injustice and violation of our long established public policy; and, be it further

Resolved, That we ask the department of labor to reverse the decision of the board of inquiry, to admit Mrs. Pankhurst, and maintain America's right as an asylum for the political refugees of all nations.

Calls Offense Political.

"The order of the board of inquiry is a direct contradiction of our principle of government," Mrs. Robins said. "All the world knows the offenses charged against Mrs. Pankhurst are political and not criminal. We are not being punished for what we believe, but that is the only reason the board of inquiry can have for its action. There is not one of us in this audience today who has not some belief, some principle, that we would go to the stake for.

"Mrs. Pankhurst has her convictions, and she is standing up for them with all the courage she has. But the question which strikes home to all free thinking American citizens is whether our nation still is to be an asylum for political refugees or are the doors to be closed on a person who comes here for justice.

"All nations are represented here. We welcome rebels and from that kind of immigration we have received a great free spirit. Shall Mrs. Pankhurst suffer because she thinks differently from others?"

"The dregs of foreign population have been imported to this country in time of labor strikes," Delegate Straube said. "and many of them were ex-convicts. They were admitted. But when a free thinking woman, convicted of no criminal offense, and zealously pleading for freedom for women, comes to our nation she is ordered out. It's time the men of the United States fought such procedure."

Only One Dissenting Vote.

Several others spoke in favor of the resolutions. They were adopted with only one dissenting vote. Immediately telegrams were ordered sent to the immigration and labor authorities at Washington urging them to admit England's militant leader of women.

The report of the delegation to the Illinois State Federation of Labor was read by a member of the delation. The election of John H. Walker of Danville as president was approved by the Chicago Federation.

John Helm, president of the State Association of Barbers, told of a campaign which his organization has planned against insanitary shops in Chicago. He advocated Sunday closing and told the delegates a vigorous effort was being made by the Illinios organization to give the barbers Sundays off.

Robbed at "Soap Box" Meeting.

Pickpockets robbed I. W. Miller of Washington, Ill., while he was listening to a "soap box" orator discussing socialism at Congress and South State streets yesterday. They took his watch without breaking the chain.

LABOR LAUDS MRS. PANKHURST

Organized labor in Chicago yesterday denounced the ordered deportation of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst in resolutions adopted by the Chicago federation. The resolutions were introduced by Mrs. Raymond Robins of the Woman's Trade Union league, and their reading brought applause from the men delegates at the federation meeting.

Several delegates spoke in behalf of the resolutions, vigorously attacking the immigration officials on the basis they were usurping the prime principle of American government—freedom to all, regardless of "race, color, or previous condition of servitude."

THE STORE FOR YOUNG MEN

What We Offer Young Men at $25.00 and $35.00

This is a Store of one idea for young men of many ideas. Our one idea is to offer only such reliable clothing as conforms to the highest approved standard of good taste. The many ideas of young men regarding their apparel change with the seasons and their own speeding years, and we accommodate the cut of our garments to their desires. But this one fundamental idea—of conformity to good taste—that is behind every garment we offer established for all time.

The Suits and Overcoats in our $25.00 and $35.00 lines demonstrate splendidly the force of this statement. Suits in a wealth of models show a diversified assortment of checks, stripes and fancy mixtures in the season's favored colors, blue, green, brown, gray, and novelty mixtures, at $25.00 to $35.00, others to $45.00.

Overcoats, snug fitting, single and double breasted shawl, velvet, and self collars, some with half-belt back. The correct Fall style in melton, vicuna, cheviot, Shetland and chinchilla. An especially fine ratine, close knot chinchilla in two shades of gray and navy blue, made with shawl, or velvet collar; single or double breasted at $25.00, others to $55.00. Fourth Floor.

Cotton was more valuable than silk when this rug was woven.

Every ounce of long-fibre Egyptian cotton in this Oriental rug had to be brought thousands of miles by caravan from Egypt. It was worth its weight in gold.

The old Turcoman used its hardy fibres here because it was the best he knew. With its sheer whites—suggestive of mountain snows—he picked out a jeweled pattern as dainty and exact as a Venetian inlay. The rest is wool, knotted in tawny reds and rich browns, that delight the eye of all who see it.

It is a beautiful rug that would add a luxurious touch to the most sumptuous room. A similiar fabric, at the Art Institute, is held to be almost priceless. Yet we will sell our specimen at a moderate figure because we secured it at a fair price in Asia. Antique Pendik Boukhara, 5.7x4.2, $400.00.

CRASHES TWICE INTO SAME CAR

Oak Park Autoist, Not Content with One Collision, Does It Over.

OWNER HAS HIM PINCHED

Motorcycle Police Fail to Capture Fleeing Machine Which Wrecks Buggy.

Because he was not satisfied with smashing into another man's automobile once, but returned and bumped into it again, William Ferdinand of 708 Scoville avenue, Oak Park, was arrested last night. He is charged with driving a car while intoxicated.

George Higgins of 1901 West Jackson boulevard left his car in front of his house. Ferdinand, driving west at a fast clip, crashed into it. Neither machine was much hurt.

"Beg pardon, old man, didn't see your machine," explained Ferdinand.

"O, that's all right," said Higgins pleasantly."

Does It Over Again.

Ferdinand sped on. Five minutes later Higgins saw him speeding east. Again he crashed into the standing car.

"That'll be about all from you," said Higgins, leaping into Ferdinand's machine, grabbing him by the collar, and holding him until a nearby policeman arrested him.

Another arrest for driving an automobile while intoxicated took place at Michigan avenue and Sixteenth street. A park policeman took Adam Noerschbaecher of 901 Rush street to the South Clark street station.

Fail to Capture Auto.

A pursuit of several miles out onto Milwaukee road by two motorcycle police last night failed to bring to justice the driver of an automobile which smashed a buggy from which three persons were thrown into the street. They were slightly bruised.

In the buggy were John Corbett of 4806 Milwaukee avenue, his daughter, Florence, and Cootze Mezereau, a friend. The automobile approached from behind and attempted to pass the buggy on Milwaukee avenue at Kilpatrick avenue. The rear wheels of the buggy were knocked from under it, and the automobile sped on.

Motorcycle policemen stationed in West Madison street arrested sixteen motorists for speeding.

GIRL KILLED IN AUTO SMASHUP.

Erie, Pa., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Miss Minnie Ethridge was killed and six other persons were seriously hurt today when an automobile crashed into the curb at Sixth and Poplar streets and turned over, pinning the occupants under it. The automobile belongs to Davenport Galbraith, president of the Erie Trust company. It was driven by Johnson, his chauffeur, and the occupants were returning home from a social affair.

Auto Kills Boy; Vanishes.

Racine, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Jens Anderson, aged 14, was killed by an automobile south of the city tonight. The police are seeking the owner of car numbered X32 W., which ran the boy down.

Husband and Wife Killed.

Dayton, O., Oct. 19.—Walter Kreitzer and his wife were instantly killed and their son, Wilbert, aged 4, was perhaps fatally injured when their automobile was struck tonight by a fast passenger train on the Pennsylvania railroad at a crossing near their home in Trotwood, O.

Twenty Taken in Resort Raids.

Thirteen men and seven women were arrested by the police yesterday in raids on two alleged disorderly houses. Ten men and four women were arrested in a raid on a flat at 25 North Morgan street. Three men and three women were taken in a raid of a flat at 928 West Lake street.

ACTRESS, JILTED, ENDS LIFE

May Walsh Takes Poison When Sweetheart Rejects Her.

LEAVES NOTE FOR MOTHER.

Orlando Fuller Shoots Himself; Marriage Unhappy.

A young vaudeville actress and her sweetheart sat in a room at 1249 Michigan avenue early yesterday morning. He had a mother and little sisters. She asked him to marry her.

"I can't. I have my mother and sisters to support," the man replied.

The girl walked to a cabinet on the wall, took out a bottle and drank. The man ran to her and tore the bottle from her hand but it was useless. She sank to the floor and in a few minutes the last curtain had been rung down.

The young woman was known as May Walsh but her real name she kept concealed, according to Albert Graham, the sweetheart. She became stage struck early in life. She graduated from the chorus to vaudeville but soon her popularity waned. In the night life of the cafés she met Graham, chauffeur for the Auto Livery company. He is being held by the police.

Disappointed in Marriage.

Disappointment in his married life is supposed to have brought the bullet which probably fatally wounded Orlando Fuller of 1847 West Adams street, taken to the county hospital in a critical condition. On the dresser in his room was a pitiful letter to his mother, Mrs. J. R. Bird of 2240 Jackson boulevard.

"Dear mother," it read, "this will hurt you more than any one else, but after the first sorrow has passed you will be happy, for you will know my troubles are over.

"You have stood by me in everything. There were times when you were the only friend I had on earth, and at all times you have been the best.

Too Late, He Declares.

"The sacrifices you have made for me I never could repay. Had I only realized this three years ago this would never have happened, but it is too late now to think what might have been. I have had my fling and now I must pay the fiddler. The price is too high and I have taken the easiest way out.

"You better than anyone else will understand it. You know a good deal of what I have gone through. There is a great deal you do not know, a great deal that I shall carry with me. Make whatever disposition you please of my body. Send it to Mentor. Bury it here or in potter's field, it will make no difference. Give my love to the rest of the family.

"Tell dad I appreciate the efforts he made to have me make something of myself, and that although I might some day repay him for the money he gave me, I could never repay the debt I owe for all he has done for me.

"Thank God, it will soon be over. I am tired and going to rest. Good-by and God bless you."

Killed by Overdose of Drug.

An overdose of a drug used to induce sleep and gas from an open jet brought death to Mrs. Mahla Matzer of 4214 Milwaukee avenue. She was dead when her husband returned after several hours' absence. He said she had been ill for three years.

Two Irving Park policemen plodded up to the residence of Mrs. Olga Johnson of 3711 North Kimball avenue last night. They wanted to question her about her husband, who is held at the county jail charged with receiving stolen goods. A woman's face appeared at the window, then disappeared.

The policemen walked around to the rear door and entered. They found the woman unconscious on the floor and believe she took poison. They called a physician and, setting to work with a stomach pump, revived her.

The police believe Mrs. Johnson thought she was to be arrested and was frightened into an attempt on her life. She will recover.

CATHOLIC MISSION CONGRESS OPENED

Sixty-six Prelates and More than 500 Clergymen Meet at Boston.

ILLINOISANS AT SERVICE.

Archbishop Quigley and Others Participate at Vespers in Churches.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The second American Catholic missionary congress opened here today, with solemn masses in all the parish churches, at most of which some visiting prelate was the preacher.

The service at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross was perhaps the most elaborate ceremony ever held here. Apostolic Delegate Bonzano was the celebrant, and Cardinal O'Connell preached the sermon and welcomed the visitors, among whom are six archbishops, sixty bishops, and more than 500 other clergymen from throughout the United States and Canada, including mitered abbots, seminary heads, and missionaries.

The congress goes on for a week, and is a joint session of the Society for the Propaganda of the Faith and the Catholic Church Extension society, engaged in foreign and home mission work.

The vesper services this evening were on an unusually elaborate scale, the visiting clergymen being the preachers.

Archbishop Quigley of Chicago pontificated at the Back Bay Catholic church, and the Rev. Robert D. Condon of La Crosse, Wis., was the preacher.

Mr. Deering, who is 87 years old, is understood to be in no immediate danger, but with more or less of an outdoor life essential it was considered best to take him south at the opening of cold weather.

Milwaukee Slayer Meets Victim on Lonely Street; Clubs Her.

SCARED AWAY BY AUTOISTS.

Murderer Later Walks Into Police Station While Hunt Is On.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Surprised in a revolting murder tonight, the slayer of an unidentified woman escaped. After two hours' futile search had been made by the police the murderer walked into a police station and surrendered. He gave the name of George Schultz.

The police have no hint at the identity of the woman, who the confessed murderer says he never saw her until he accosted her on a lonely west side street.

The story Schultz told the police was that he met the woman about 10 o'clock, strangled her with the scarf she wore over her head, then beat her with a club until her skull was fractured.

The slayer had dragged his victim into an alley at Thirty-fifth and Cherry streets when an automobile on its way to a garage entered the alley and frightened him away.

GOLDSMITHS, SILVERSMITHS AND JEWELERS

A tone of intimacy characterizes the rather unusual advertising which we are issuing this season. Our motive is not wholly a selfish one. We are confident that in delivering these "messages" we are giving information of real value to those who have occasion to buy goods such as dealt in by us. On the subject of we want especially to take you into our confidence.

Nowadays there are more things made in leather than were even dreamed of a few years ago.

LEATHER NOVELTIES have been and are today very much "in vogue." They appeal to the majority of people.

To be wholly satisfactory any article made of leather must be well gotten up — smart in appearance — and made of good material by workmen who know their trade.

If you are not an enthusiast about Leather it is because you have undoubtedly purchased something that looked well but did not give satisfactory service.

A "cheap" article of leather is always expensive. That is the danger in buying on appearance only.

We protect our customers from "expensive" Leather Goods by having our goods honest all the way through and reasonably priced.

We spend months each year in the preparation of the goods we offer and are continually bringing out new things.

Each Spring the great leather workers of Vienna, Paris and London are visited and their best products secured for the Chicago trade. If they are not made up to our requirements we have them made to our order, believing that the Spaulding standard is worth the extra cost.

Furthermore, we probably create more new ideas for Leather Goods than any other dealers in America.

That is why our Display of Leather is so fascinating—why our business is increasing so rapidly.

We shall announce this week some special features of this Department.

DO you ever look at the other fellow because you cannot "see yourself as others see you"?

The ultra-fashion this fall calls for an extreme snug fitting suit.

There's never been the opportunity for the expert designer to display his art that this season affords, because the suit should look "tight" but fit comfortably. It is the "roomy snug fit" that the young fellows are looking for. It is the kind of suit the real people appreciate.

The Titchell suit or overcoat provides individuality and comfort designed into it by an expert designer. Each suit an individual creation.

A $60 quality suit or overcoat for $40, tailored and designed to your order. A $50 quality suit or overcoat for $35. I mean the suits and overcoats that the best tailors in Chicago charge $60 and $50 for. You'll be proud to say designed by "Titchell."

dustrious and law-abiding race to the universal scorn and in some parts of the world to certain violence of person and destruction of property; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the secretary of state of the United States to be presented by him, through the proper channels, to the court of Russia.

Additional resolutions framed by the Chicago Society of Rationalism, the Exiles and Prisoners of Russia, and the Zeta Mu Phi fraternity, an organization of Jewish collegians, also were approved by the crowds.

The stage at the Grand Opera house was occupied by many of Chicago's leading citizens of all nationalities and creeds when the curtain was raised shortly after 2 o'clock. Judge Edward O. Brown of the Illinois Appellate court presided. Back of him, seated in rows, were 100 men and women whose names are familiar in the religious, legal, educational, and scientific world.

Judge Brown States Purpose.

"We meet today for a purpose," Judge Brown said, "for a purpose which I believe must excite sympathy and the desire and cooperation in the minds of rightminded people everywhere.

"We are not here merely to protest as lovers of justice against the persecution to death in a foreign country of an innocent and obscure man. Injustice and wrong to individuals are a proper object for the resentment of good men everywhere. But they are unfortunately too common all over the world to make it possible for us to do more than to endeavor to resist and lessen them at home and where our immediate influence may extend.

"It is a question here today of a far different matter. The public prosecutors of Russia, representing the government of a great empire, have placed their stamp of official approval and authority on a monstrous, infamous invention of superstitious savagery which accuses a whole race and a world wide religion of the most horrible of crimes—the murder of children for sacrificial rites.

"The atrocious fabrication of which I speak is no new thing. Thousands of people have died in unspeakable torture, in massacres, to which forgeries and perjuries, asserting this infamous product of wicked hate, have excited mobs of fanatical, ignorant, and superstitious people."

Mayor's Representative Talks.

Kee D. Mathias, assistant corporation counsel, who appeared as the representative of Mayor Harrison, was the first speaker introduced by Judge Brown.

"We gather here today," he said, "to protest against the slander that the race of which Moses was the leader should sacrifice human blood in conformance with its ritual. We know it is a lie, and every government should order the cessation of this persecution in Russia."

Judge Brown read telegrams from Gov. Dunne, Senator James Hamilton Lewis, and Congressmen Mann, McAndrews, Gorman, Buchanan, and Sabath.

Dunne Sends Message.

The governor, who regretted his inability to attend the meeting, wired:

No intelligent person believes for a moment that the Jewish religion calls for the sacrificing of human blood under any of its rituals. To make such an accusation, even in a court of justice in any land in the twentieth century, brands the accuser as a malignant perjurer or a gullible fool. The wonderment is that any self-respecting court could be prevailed upon to consider seriously such an accusation. I am in hearty sympathy with the object of your meeting, which I understand is a protest against the farcical claims being made in a so-called court of justice.

Senator Lewis Protests.

Senator Lewis telegraphed this message:

All civilization will protest against such slanders upon so great a people. Christianity will rise up to resent such injustice upon a God fearing race. Justice to the Jew as to the Gentile over the whole world should be the demand of free Americans.

The congressmen couched their protests in similar language and pledged themselves to support the resolution introduced in the house by Congressman Sabath calling for an official protest from the United States government. Mr. Sabath notified the meeting he would attempt to call up his resolution tomorrow.

Jane Addams Cheered.

Miss Jane Addams was cheered when she arose to speak. She had been one of the signers of the call for the massmeeting.

"There seems nothing for me to say that will not be said later regarding this blood lie," she said. "It seems to me this question of persecution must be governed by the same social control that exterminated the black plague and the cholera epidemic. They were eliminated by international control. Something of the same sort must be done in the moral world. Nations must come together and say that things once believed must no longer be tolerated."

Prof. George B. Foster, who holds the chair of comparative religion at the University of Chicago, said he had spent his life in studying religious phenomena and shouted a denial of the charge that the Jewish ritual calls for sacrificial murder.

Catholic Priest Cheered.

The Rev. Father O'Callaghan was cheered. He said:

"It is well for Christians on this day not only to protest against this evil in Russia, but to confess our iniquity for permitting the growth of religious hatred by our silence.

"I never hear a boy speak disrespectfully of a Jew that I do not caution him against that religious prejudice that sometimes manifests itself here by the stoning of an inoffensive old man on our west side.

"The greatest glory of the Catholic church is that it is Jewish, and the greatest honor any man may have is that he may say in some sense that he is of the House of Israel. The greatest work we can do is to stamp out the hatred of the Jews by men who call themselves Christians."

Booker Washington Talks.

Dr. Booker T. Washington, the recognized leader of the negro race, a Chicago visitor, attended the meeting and was enthusiastically received when introduced.

"When I came this afternoon in the vicinity of this meeting," he said, "I saw one of the most interesting sights of my life—hundreds of men and women struggling to get into a meeting for the purpose of seeing that justice is brought to a great people."

He said differences in language, color, and religion had been forgotten by those who had gathered for a single humane purposes. He predicted good will come out of the persecution of the Jews in Russia and that a sentiment will be created in America that will teach Russia a lesson it long has needed to be taught—that if she would perpetuate her government she must mete out justice to all subjects and not to oppress any class.

Horace T. Bridges, president of the Chicago Ethical society, said the Jewish problem was artificially created by the gentiles and that there would be no problem where common humanity in the two people was given fair scope.

He asserted the fact that the accusation had been made in Russia against the Jewish ritual proves that Russia is barbarous and should not be treated on the same plane as civilized nations "until it purges itself of this barbarous disease."

Negro Minister Protests.

The Rev. Archibald J. Cary, negro pastor of the Institutional church, said he spoke for a people who know what oppression is. He praised the Jewish people and paid a special tribute to Julius Rosenwald, who sat on the platform, for overstepping the bounds of his religion to build a home for negro members of the Young Men's Christian association.

Jenkin Lloyd Jones of Lincoln Center said he was at the meeting to protest against the persecution of Beilis and against an obsolute superstition. He said:

"Russia is not on trial, but the priest craft and czardom of Russia is. Yesterday we may have been Republican and Democrat, tomorrow Jew and Gentile; today we are brothers in sending a wireless message of sympathy to the brickyard watchman. The czar and not Beilis needs sympathy, however. The czar and not Beilis is the victim of superstition, ignorance, and aristocracy."

Hirsch Makes Closing Speech.

Rabbi Emil G. Hirsch of Sinai temple made the closing speech at the Grand Opera house meeting. He began:

"Fellow Men: Neither I nor any one who shares with me the name of Jew is the defendant at this hour. If I or Beilis or any Jew was the accused I should feel it my duty to render thanks to the great and loyal men who have raised their voices in his defense. I would feel it an insult to say they have uplifted us. Nor am I here to arraign the czar. I pity him from the bottom of my heart. The powers that control him are the defendant here."

Dr. Hirsch said the attack on Beilis, like similar attacks on Jews, had been plotted as counter irritants by rulers to silence a people discontented on other scores. When-ever a ruler feels himself tottering he looks around for a means of diverting the attention of his subjects. This Dr. Hirsch charged to Napoleon among others.

"Another trick," he said, "has been to bring the Jew to the forefront as the culprit, the scapegoat, so that by sacrificing him the people will for a little time longer submit to conditions. The Jew is handy in all countries of Europe and sometimes even in America, always as a counter irritant.

"Rush the mob to the Jew, is the cry. Russia has now picked out poor Beilis, innocent as I believe, as I know him to be. For the first time in history a public prosecutor, or persecutor in this case, has charged that a Jew may commit a murder under the sanction of his church.

Calls Charge "Black Lie."

"Thus he commits a slander and utters the blackest lie that has been disproved time and again. Never was it sanctioned by orthodox Judaism. Christian ministers even more than Jewish ministers have refuted this infamous fabrication. Why, a good orthodox Jew—and I believe Beilis is one—will not even partake of the blood of an animal. Any one familiar with the care taken in a kosher meat shop knows this. It is only necessary to state the proposition against Beilis and it refutes itself.

"But the Russian government wants somebody to justify the Russian pale. The atrocities in Cuba for which we went to war are like child's play compared to the treatment by the czar and his police of the 6,000,000 people whose only crime is their refusal to adopt the Russian orthodox religion."

Dr. Hirsch closed with an appeal for justice for the American negro and a criticism of Chicago clubs that keep alive the prejudice against the Jew by refusing them membership.

Jenkin Lloyd Jones, Booker Washington, Father O'Callaghan, Miss Jane Addams, and the Rev. Mr. Carey went from the Grand Opera house to the Garrick theater meeting, where they made addresses. Other speakers at the Garrick were Prof. Foster, Judge Joseph P. Rafferty of the Municipal court, Judge John P. McGoorty of the Circuit court, and Rabbi A. B. Golderson, who spoke in Yiddish.

Judge Thomas Scully of the Municipal court arranged for the Garrick meeting and presented Circuit Judge Kickham Scanlan as chairman. Judge Scully read the resolutions, which were unanimously adopted.

Praises Massmeeting Results.

"Chicago has in a noble way lifted her voice in the chorus of protests that are being heard now in the whole civilized world against the infamous, barbaric trial in Kieff," said Abraham J. Liebling, publisher of the Jewish Daily Press. "The massmeetings today had a great moral effect.

"They represented in every sense the whole population, both Jewish and Gentile, of this great cosmopolitan city. They were truly representative gatherings, and through their strong character will no doubt have the desired beneficial effect."

The Open Forum in the afternoon adopted resolutions denouncing the Beilis trial as a "manifest attempt to arouse the religious animosities of the Russian people against the Jews."

MINISTERS JOIN PROTEST.

Ministers in many Chicago pulpits voiced indignation at the action of the Russian government in the trial of Mendel Beilis at Kieff on the charge of having committed murder under the guise of the Jewish ritual.

"This protest of a Christian nation against a trial upon unfounded charges like those against Beilis is an evidence of a glorious advance in the attitude of Christendom," Bishop Samuel Fallows said at St. Paul's Reformed Episcopal church.

"The Jew, after long years of persecution and prescription, is coming into his own. The Holy Orthodox church of Russia and all that empire which was once so favorable to our nation must swing into line. Anti-Semitism everywhere must be held as treason to humanity. The Jew and the Christian are to clasp hands in firmest accord, and with the hands will go the heart. God will overrule for good this infamous revival of the spirit of the darkest of the dark ages of the past. I join in the protest with all my heart."

MANIFESTOES AGAINST JEWS.

KIEFF, Oct. 19.—Telegrams from Minsk and other towns report anti-Semite activity and the distribution of manifestoes calling upon the populace "to avenge on the Jews the murder of Yushinsky."

The trial of Mendel Beilis, who is charged with having murdered the boy, was continued today, but no important testimony was forthcoming.

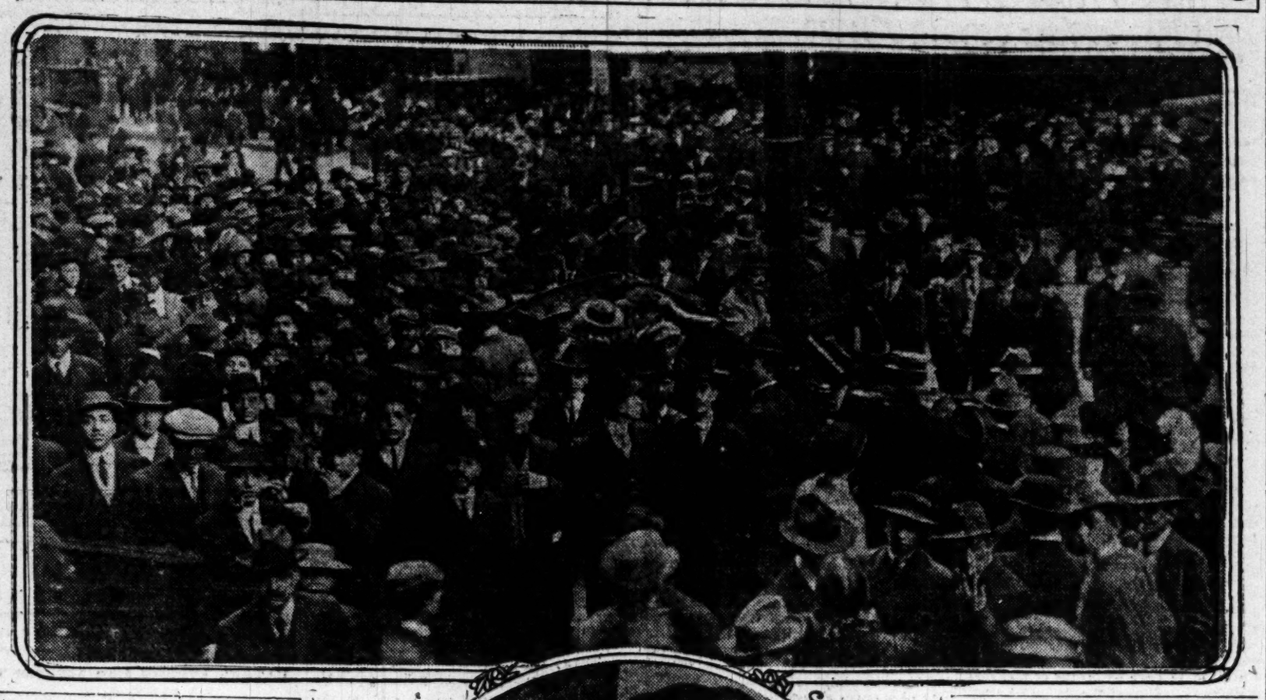

An old neighbor of the Tcheberiaks named Tishimirsky testified that about two months after the murder the wife of his friend Ravitch told him that she had seen Yushinsky's body in a bath in the Tcheberiak house. Ravitch and his wife have since emigrated to the United States, their passage, Ravitch told Tishimirsky, having been paid by Vera Tcheberiak, the reputed head of a band of thieves.

This was the only interesting testimony at the sitting, but it made little impression because Tishimirsky had not mentioned it when previously examined by a magistrate.

PROTEST FROM MILWAUKEE.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—That touch of nature which makes the whole world kin brought 6,000 persons to the Auditorium tonight, all creeds and nationalities being represented, in a protest against the trial of the Jew, Beilis, at Kieff.

A HARBOR EDITORIAL.

While discussing inland harbors, be they river harbors, Chicago or Calumet, or lake harbors, or more river and harbor improvements, it should be borne in mind that Chicago has now as perfect an inland harbor as can be devised.

The main drainage channel stretches nearly forty miles from Robey street to Lockport, furnishing twice this much dockage, most of it lying in utter idleness. For nearly one-half its length through the rock sections the canal has perpendicular sides, furnishing its natural docks which can be utilized without the expenditure of any money, and beside which a reasonable number of ships could lie without any detriment to the flowage capacity of the canal.

At the north end, where the canal is practically a continuation of the built up Chicago river, it is cut through a soft clay into which docks can be driven with the utmost ease, and out of which, if desired, slips and laybys can be dredged at small cost.

This potential harbor has the advantage of direct connection with the industries along the Chicago river and the building outer harbor at its month. It is crossed by belt railroads and main transportation lines from which industrial spurs can readily be run.

In former years an enlightened policy brought it a steady increase of industries located upon the canal banks with a rental revenue to the public, an increase in taxable property, and all the indirect benefits accruing to a community from the creation of new enterprises.

Unfortunately, under the present Democratic administration the former efficient real estate department has been turned into a home for decrepit and useless politicians.

Large sums of money are laid out in salaries to drones, allies, and intimates of the trustees.

No effort is made to develop the properties, and, indeed, business men are kept away by their repugnance to deal with men who look upon a public trust as a means of private emolument.

There is little room to argue for the construction of another inland harbor while this ideal one is allowed to lie idle, nor to trust the construction of further public utilities to an organization which is so utterly unfit to conduct the one now in charge.

A PUBLIC SPIRITED OFFER.

In editorial comment upon the lessons of the Volturno disaster, THE TRIBUNE suggested the equipment of ships with breeches buoy apparatus, believing that the obvious mechanical difficulties could be mastered. "Messrs. George B. Carpenter and Company," addressing THE TRIBUNE corporately and sarcastically, promptly declared this proposal to be "laughable." So was "curving" a baseball "laughable" to some scientific experts. But it was "curved" just the same.

Well, another reader of THE TRIBUNE, Mr. Harold Rowntree of Burdett-Rowntree Manufacturing company, an expert in the mechanics of hoisting, seems not to think THE TRIBUNE'S suggestion "laughable," but, on the contrary, writes that "it is certainly a most excellent suggestion." He also makes a most generous and public spirited offer to which THE TRIBUNE is glad to give publicity. Here is Mr. Rowntree's letter and offer:

"[Editor of The Tribune.]—This letter is not for publication unless you specially desire to use it in that way. I have noted with great interest THE TRIBUNE suggestion that all seagoing ships should be equipped with breeches buoy and apparatus, and it is certainly a most excellent suggestion.

"It has been stated, however, that the pitching and tossing of ships in heavy storms would render the use of breeches buoy impossible, as the connecting supporting cable or rope would be dipped in the ocean at one time and strained until it would break at another time.

"My object in writing is to say that it would be entirely practical to have each ship equipped with an automatic tensioning device to which one end of the breeches buoy supporting cable would be attached, and which would automatically keep a certain tension of the rope or cable so that, no matter how much the vessels pitched or tossed or how much they varied their distance apart (within, of course, certain limits, perhaps within a variation of 200 feet), the same tension would be kept upon the supporting ropes at all times.

"I have been in the automatic hoisting business for many years. I have taken out something like 100 patents, a great many of which are on automatic hoisting mechanism, so that I think that I know what I am talking about in this regard, and I have in mind and can furnish you, if desired, a sketch of the mechanism that will automatically accomplish the result.

"I do not know, of course, whether the idea is patentably new, although I rather think it is. If it is, I would be glad to donate the idea through THE TRIBUNE to the public for public use. HAROLD ROWNTREE."

Mr. Rowntree's device should be investigated by the government without delay and should be considered in connection with any legislation which may be planned. The situation in which the Volturno and rescuing ships were placed by the high seas was by no means abnormal, and the possibilities of duplicating it in the future should be exhausted.

AMERICA'S "OPEN DOOR."

The women of America who believe in suffrage owe a vote of thanks to whoever inspired the closing of this country's door in Mrs. Pankhurst's face.

Possibly before long we shall learn the identity of the man whose preformulated mandate was made known when an immigration inspector let the visiting militant know that America's passion for "open doors" did not begin at home.

When he is revealed no attempt should be made to burn him in vocal oil or incinerate him at the Therefore—Be It—Resolved stake. Rather a garland should be placed upon his receding brow, if there be room for such a token between the long ears that flank an obviously narrow forehead. Once before, so scripture tells us, human speech came from this species, the interval of silence extending from the time of Balaam to last Saturday morning. The first vocalization was a miracle, the second a miraculous blunder.

Nothing, deliberately contrived, could have done more good for the cause of suffrage in America. There was division among the women of this land over the visitor. Those who believe militancy to be unwise have not hesitated to criticise both visit and visitor. With her physical presence the discussion would have grown and the rift in the lute more nearly would have resembled a chasm.

Now all antagonisms and differences of opinion have been laid aside and the advocate of moral suasion is resolving and resoluting and denouncing and demanding in one harmonious chorus with the proponent of the theory that the end justifies the means. They are united against a common foe, and when this episode goes into history they never will be as far apart as they were before La Provence glided past the Statue of Liberty.

The sojourn on Ellis island also will have its effect on those women who to date have had but a purely academic interest in the suffrage question. There will be converts and converts worth while. There are few arguments so potent as an unjust blow in the face.

The escape from the island of Elba set France aflame. The release from Ellis island—and that is inevitable unless all sense and reason have fled overnight from Washington, D. C.—will make Mrs. Pankhurst's tour through America more than doubly as successful as it would have been but for the attempt to deport her. She will be a martyr, a victim of the very thing she is fighting. The unpleasant experience she has undergone will furnish the best argument of the righteousness of the cause of which she is a veteran.

When the authorities have receded from a position repugnant to every believer in the fundamentals of American democracy they have another duty to perform, a duty that cannot be dodged or evaded. It is to render impossible in the future any repetition of the idiotic proceeding staged in New York. This is neither the first, second, nor third example of this kind of thing. It must be the last. Keep America's door open.

BENEVOLENT ERRORS.

It will be regarded as fortunate in the city hall that the human disposition to error did not devastate the contracting firm favored for the construction of the lake pier. Four errors were made in the specifications, and by a kindly miracle of chance each error operated to aid the Byrne Brothers' Dredging and Engineering company.

As Mr. Hewitt has explained, there were found in the specifications a typographical error, a clerical error, a stenographic error, and a draftsman's error, and each contributed its little share towards making it possible for Byrne Brothers' firm, in which an H. and H. politician is prominent, to submit the lowest bid.

It might be pointed out that after the contract was awarded the errors undoubtedly would have been discovered, and in that case it would have been found that Byrne Brothers' bid was much higher.

These four errors may be accepted as human. The fifth error may be regarded in the city hall as inexcusable—the other four were discovered too soon.

Why doesn't the administration just honestly and frankly put its favored contractors on the pay roll and then make an attempt to let contracts without "mistakes"?

CURE YOUR MALARIA.

IN the United States malaria is one of the fast disappearing diseases. In another generation it should be as rare in the gulf states as it is in Illinois today. Half a century ago the New Englander was afraid to emigrate to Illinois on account of the dreaded malaria. The more active the efforts made to control this disease in a malarial region, the more quickly the disease will disappear.

We are just now in the midst of the most important season from the malarial standpoint. The people who have been repeatedly bitten by infected mosquitoes are in greater danger of losing their lives now than earlier in the season.

After each infection they have taken enough treatment to stop the chills, but not enough to kill all the parasites in the blood. In consequence many of them have a few malarial parasites of the tougher kind in their spleens and livers.

In certain phases of the life of the malarial parasite quinine is a deadshot remedy. In other phases the parasite is not so easily killed by quinine. In the fall those who have been chilling from time to time are liable to have outbreaks of malignant malaria.

King, in writing of malaria in central Africa, says: "The cold weather brings out the fever in those natives who have suffered from it in previous months."

Rosenau tells us that as the troops returned from Cuba after the Spanish war "many cases of malaria broke out among those previously in good health upon reaching the cold winds about Cape Hatteras."

It is wise to cure up one's malaria as completely as possible before going into the winter, to cure it up with plenty of quinine followed by an arsenic-iron tonic. This policy is wise from the standpoint of the individual. It is also wise from the standpoint of the community.

The mosquitoes that are to carry over into next year are searching out sheltered places in which they will manage to keep alive through the winter. Those that come out next spring will be free from malaria infection. Mosquitoes have such a hard time in living through the winter that it is certain the sick ones will die.

If there is to be any malaria next spring the mosquitoes to spread it must get infected. They will get infected through biting the people who now have malaria in their blood and who will go through the winter only half-cured, having chills once or twice but feeling fairly well most of the time.

After the intelligent people have cured themselves completely it would be wisdom as well as charity to help the less fortunate people to get to complete cure.

BETTER EAT BREAKFAST.

R. S. K. writes: "Do you think that going without breakfast would, in an adult, decrease his efficiency at work as it does in the case of school children? Many grownups eat little or nothing for breakfast."

REPLY.

The harm would not be as great. School children must grow as well as go to school. It is not wise for a grown person to go without breakfast.

SHOULD SEE PHYSICIAN.

H. B. P. writes: "What is psoriasis? Would you recommend arsenic injected into the veins as a remedy? Would it be dangerous to a woman who is pregnant? Would a swelling of the breast in a woman of 22 denote cancer?"

REPLY.

1. Psoriasis is a chronic, dry, patchy, scaly skin disease. It is usually incurable. It is somewhat inconvenient, but beyond that, does little harm.

2. Arsenic has been used as a remedy for psoriasis for ages. These newer arsenic preparations, containing large proportions of arsenic, have not given better results than the older preparations. Nothing is gained by giving it by injection into the veins.

3. Yes.

4. Any tumor of the breast in a woman of 22 is unusual. This is true of cancer and of benign tumors also. Any tumor of the breast should be carefully examined by a physician.

ANOTHER FIBROID PROBABLE.

Perplexed writes: "Every morning on awakening there is phlegm in my throat, which about one cough ejects. I do not cough any more all day. I have had catarrhal trouble in the ears. Is this phlegm from the lungs or head? I am 39 and recently had profuse menstruation and also pain down the back of the neck for a few days. Would that indicate change of life? I had a few small fibroid tumors removed a few years ago."

REPLY.

1. Could be from either.

2. You are too young for change of life. Having had fibroids, it is more than possible that another fibroid has appeared.

INJURY TO ARM.

Y. T. writes: "I fell on my arm and it seems to be out of joint at the elbow. On the right side of the left arm there are two bones sticking out, while on the left there is only one. The arm is in good condition otherwise, and bends as easily as the right one. Will it grow into shape again or can I have it fixed?"

REPLY.

As I understand you, your arm is not sore, is not swollen, and moves as well as the other arm. If so, you can safely leave it alone. If, on the other hand, your arm is sore, and you notice that the bony points of the two arms are not the same, you had better have an X-ray made. Most elbow joint deformities can be corrected.

CURABILITY OF ASTHMA.

W. T. H. writes: "Kindly let me know if there is any positive cure for asthma that you know of. I know it can be helped through medicine; also that a change of climate sometimes effects a cure."

REPLY.

Some cases of asthma are due to heart disease, some to kidney disease, some to bronchitis, some to polyps, etc. The question as to the curability must be answered for each case.

OPERATION NOT ADVISED.

E. L. writes: "Do you advise an operation in the case of varicocele, when it seemingly gives the person no trouble? Is there any cure aside from an operation? Is allowed to go without attention what is the possible result?"

REPLY.

1 and 2. No.

3. None.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

[Copyright: 1913: By the Brentwood Company.]

LORD ROSEBERY, probably the most brilliant and versatile statesman of all those who have filled the office of premier of the British empire during the last hundred years, is becoming more and more of a misanthrope, displaying a craze for seclusion and even isolation which is alarming his relatives and friends.

He has virtually turned over his principal Scotch country seat, Dalmeny, in Linlithgowshire, to his eldest son and heir, Lord Dalmeny, and to pretty Lady Dalmeny, who is a grand-daughter of the first Duke of Westminster, and has retired to his much smaller place in Midlothian, known as Rosebery, and from which he takes his principal title.

There he is now devoting himself to the construction of a private chapel, and, above all, of a family mausoleum, including a tomb for himself. The new buildings occupy a tree shaded site at the northern end of the mansion. The chapel and mausoleum, which are of red sandstone, are modeled on the ancient fabric of the parish church in the neighboring hamlet of Temple, which is part of a monastic edifice erected by King David I. for the Knights Templar or the Red Friars. This establishment originally was called Balantradoch, and was the chief seat of the Knights Templar in Scotland.

Rosebery is beautifully situated along the Moorfoot hills and was purchased by the earl's ancestor, Sir Archibald Primrose, in the reign of Charles II. It was sold by the second Earl of Rosebery and was out of the family for more than a century, when about ninety years ago it was repurchased by the fourth earl, Lord Rosebery's grandfather and immediate predecessor.

Lord Rosebery can boast of a medical ancestor, for he is descended from Archibald Primrose, who was president of the Edinburgh Royal College of Surgeons as far back as in 1580. One of his sons, Duncan, was surgeon to King James I. of England.

At the instance of the prince regent of Bavaria the prime minister of that kingdom, Baron von Hertling, has just issued an official statement bearing upon the persistent rumors current of late, according to which the crazy King Otto is to be deposed at the end of the current year and the regent to be then proclaimed sovereign in his stead.

The statement is to the effect that, in the opinion of the royal family, of the government, and of the most eminent judicial authorities and legal experts in Bavaria, no such step is practicable under the terms of the existing constitution. Before Otto could be deposed as incurably insane and his crown placed on the head of the prince regent, the constitution would have to be revised. This would be a somewhat lengthy and tedious process, even if all the necessary votes were assured.

When a proposal by the government was made on the death of the late Prince Luitpold to initiate a revision in this sense, the Center or Conservative party expressed a disinclination to adhere to any such move, not because its members entertained any objection to the new regent, Prince Louis, but owing to their fear that any alteration of the constitution for this purpose might lead to popular demands for a revision of the constitution in a more liberal and democratic sense. The greatest safety of the dynasty, so they declared, lay in the principle of the inviolability of the constitution. As their votes were necessary for any revision, that ended the matter for the time being.

It is asserted that since then they have changed their mind and have come to the conclusion that it would be better to take the risk attendant to a modification of the constitution rather than continue as at present, with a lunatic king on the throne, who has never had a sane moment since his accession to the crown, and have the sovereignty of the nation vested in the hands of a prince regent.

The latter, they argue, can never exercise the same degree of necessary authority, either in domestic affairs or in his relations with the German empire, or with foreign nations, as could a full fledged king.

That Otto in due course will be deposed, in view of this altered state of sentiment among the Conservatives, is now an assured fact, especially as the rumors of his illness have been officially denied and the fact proclaimed that he is likely to survive for many long years to come in the seclusion of his gilded prison of the Château of Fuerstenried. But nothing of this kind will be done just yet, and the present regency of Prince Louis will be maintained until the revision of the constitution has been duly voted upon by the people and enacted.

The police in several big cities of the United States and also of Canada will be interested to learn of the arrest at Berlin of 30 year old Baron Ivan Englehardt of the German speaking provinces of Russia, formerly an officer of one of the crack regiments of the czar's guards, on a charge of obtaining a couple of hundred dollars from one of the leading restaurants on a check of the Credit Lyonnais, to which he had signed the name of Prince Dolgorouki.

It is an alias of which he made plenty of use on this side of the Atlantic, as well as of the name of Baron and Count von Rosen. Indeed, his activities over here under the latter alias were a source of considerable annoyance to the then Russian ambassador at Washington, Baron Roman Rosen.

The Berlin police, since his arrest has become known, have been busy receiving accusations against him from all over Germany, and have been made acquainted with his criminal record in Vienna, London, St. Petersburg, Paris, and along the French and Italian Riviera. Good looking, with excellent manners, an inexhaustible fund of anecdote and conversation, he made friends everywhere easily and found no difficulty in obtaining money by false pretense and fraud. Now he is booked for a long term in jail at Berlin.

King George's new minister plenipotentiary at Lisbon is Lancelot Carnegie, hitherto councilor of the British embassy in Paris, and a half brother of the present and seventh Earl of Southesk. His is a delicate post, carrying with it a salary of $20,000 a year, plus an officially furnished legation building.

Owing to the residence in England of the deposed king of Portugal and of the similarly exiled queen mother, where they are treated with royal honors at court, and as near and dear relatives of the British reigning house, there is a considerable amount of ill feeling against England among the Republican leaders and authorities at Lisbon, which makes the government there reluctant to live up to the terms of the old standing treaties between the two countries. Lancelot Carnegie, however, is a man of great tact, coupled with decision of character, just the diplomat to deal with such a situation. His appointment to Lisbon meets with universal approval.

Lord Southesk, his half brother, is chieftain of the great Scottish clan of Carnegie, to which the Laird of Skibo belongs, and it may be recalled that a few years ago he came to America to receive the honorary degree of doctor of laws of the Western University of Pennsylvania on the occasion of the Founders' day exercises of the Carnegie institute.

ON Thursday of this week, Oct 23, 1913, at 9 a. m., this world will be 5917 years old. We are not keen on birthday celebrations, but it occurs to us that this coming anniversary is something worth making a fuss about. Is the subject too large for an ode? or too large for modern poets, who twitter notes almost inaudible?

AT least one may salute the venerable earth. And so it is our intention to bump our head thrice at 9 o'clock next Thursday morning. Now, who will kneel at our right hand and bump his head with us?

FOR the benefit of inconstant readers who peruse this department only e. o. d., we reprint the anecdote about Winston Churchill:

Winston Churchill, the young English statesman, once began to raise a mustache, and while it was still in the budding stage he was asked at a dinner party to take in an English girl who had decided opposing political views. "I am sorry," said Mr. Churchill, "we cannot agree on politics." "No, we can't," rejoined the girl, "for, to be frank with you, I like your politics about as little as I do your mustache." "Well, remember that you are not really likely to come into contact with either," replied Mr. Churchill.

WHAT might the young lady have said in reply? Suppose you were she. On the way home, or the next day at least, you would have thought of a clever come-back. Now we are giving you a week to devise one. Surely you can think of SOME witty retort.

PATROL SYSTEM FOR WESTERN AVENUE.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Judging from reports in THE TRIBUNE, we are to have improved highways leading out from Chicago next year. Why not give some attention to the roads now? To cite one instance: Western avenue south from Seventieth street could be much improved by the simple combination of a man and wheelbarrow. By dumping stone into the holes with a team a few days' work would repair miles of roadway. This system prevails in European countries, why not here? It's the stone in time that counts. GOOD ROADS.

Providing the necessary appropriations are made, it is the intention of the bureau to install the "patrol" system on Western avenue and other country roads next year—that is, putting a man in charge of a certain portion of a macadam roadway and holding him responsible for filling in holes as soon as they appear.

WILL LIGHT THE LAMP.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—[To the Friend of the People.]—One hundred feet south of Sixty-ninth street on Morgan there is a light post, but for a year there has been no light on it. Corresponding posts on Peoria, Green, and Sangamon streets were equipped with lights six months ago. F. M. OHMS.

I am today ordering a flaming arc lamp placed on Morgan street at the alley south of Sixty-ninth street.

I am assured by the sanitary district that this lamp will be in service before the end of the present week. RAY PALMER, City Electrician.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—I was recently employed by a reliable firm to solicit orders on a commission basis of 10 per cent for every order secured. There being no further agreement, I contend my money is due and payable as soon as the order is secured. The firm takes the position that no money is payable until such time as a part payment is made on the order, as all goods are made subject to individual order. T. H. C.

Your rights in this situation depend on the agreement made with the company, and from your brief statement of this agreement it appears that you are entitled to your commission as soon as the order is secured and turned over to the company. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

WHY NO PAVING?

Chicago, Oct. 16.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Last spring the property owners residing on Carpenter and Aberdeen streets, between Fifty-fifth and Fifty-eighth streets, petitioned Mr. Solon, superintendent of streets, through the aldermen of the Thirty-first ward, to have said streets resurfaced, expense to be paid by the wheel tax fund.

The block between Fifty-fifth and Fifty-sixth streets on Aberdeen has been done, but Mr. Solon refuses to do the remaining blocks. Nearly all the streets in the Thirtieth ward are resurfaced. We would like to know or learn from the only source at our disposal, "The Friend of the People," why Mr. Solon persists in ignoring our rights as taxpayers. If cedar block pavements do not come under the class of paving for which the wheel tax money was intended why are some blocks done and others are not? M. MCGREAL.

The money available for the repair of streets in the Thirty-first ward is not sufficient to take care of the hard pavements, and therefore no attention can be given to the cedar block streets, which have been down for many years. In the Thirtieth ward there is not such a large proportion of hard pavements, and the moneys available are used as far as they will permit on cedar block streets as well. WALTER G. LEININGER, Supt. of Streets.

RECEIPT FROM TAX OFFICER.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Does it make any difference who holds the tax receipt? For instance, I buy a lot in Florida. The seller pays the taxes on a large tract, and sends his bill to me for my share of taxes, stating that the tax bill is on exhibit at his office. Would I be protected? Is the seller's personal receipt good in law? May I pay direct and demand a receipt from tax collector? What must one do to have land assessed separately? W. S.

In order to be properly protected you should have a receipt from the county officer to whom the taxes are paid. In the situation which you mention there probably would be no trouble for the reason that the taxes are marked paid on the county books, and a receipt is issued which you could obtain in case of dispute.

The safer way is to have a real estate division made by the assessor so that your property is assessed separately from the surrounding lots, and so that you can pay the taxes on your property directly and receive a receipted tax bill from the county officers. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CITY SHOULD OWN IT.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—A schoolboy would know that there has been negligence in treating the garbage question in the past by some person or persons. Any business man will tell us that if it is profitable for a private company to operate a reduction plant that other experiments are useless and unbusiness-like, that the city could do the same and more if business sagacity and common honesty were put behind it. Why cannot Chicago, with its vast resources, have a modern system of garbage removal, with all that this means? Why not have one plant on the west side, one on the south side, and one on the north? Teams can collect as in the past, but bring their loads to a central point and there transfer same into large, covered trucks, which could speedily haul this load out to the reduction plant.

This method would afford quick, thorough garbage removal, and the three reduction plants would pay a handsome revenue for the city. The health of two millions of people justifies the immediate seizure of the present plant, with the understanding that the courts adjust the value at their leisure. JOHN B. BROOKS.

FIRE PROTECTION ON LINERS.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—In your editorial this morning on some of the lessons of the latest marine catastrophe, which was excellent so far as it went, you might well have dwelt upon the fire hazard and its control. Strange to state, our great titans of the deep, although steel hulled and steel framed, yet are veritable floating furnaces. Combustibles enter largely into the construction of their inner works in many places where noncombustible material could be used as well.

Then the automatic sprinkler system which on land has progressed so far and which, whenever installed, has again and again proved its marvelous potency, has hardly been introduced at all on shipboard. Take the latest creation of the deep—the giant Imperator, probably collision proof as the result of the lessons taught by the ill fated Titanic. It was only a few weeks ago that a disastrous fire occurred in its hold.

Fortunately it occurred when the vessel was in port and so outside aid was available in fighting it, but owing to the lack even of an automatic alarm system, they were twenty minutes discovering the seat of the blaze, when one minute should have sufficed; the life of the second officer was sacrificed and thousands of dollars damage done.

Now had the Imperator been equipped with automatic sprinklers the fire almost without question would have been quenched before any one on board was aware of it.

In conclusion, more power to THE TRIBUNE in its efforts to make seagoing travel as well as land life more safe. HARRY FRANKLIN PORTER.

THE GOVERNMENT AND VOCATIONAL TRAINING.

Urbana-Champaign, Ill., Oct. 17.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The following is a copy of a letter sent to each member of congress:

"You have doubtless followed with much interest the widespread and ever growing attention to the subject of practical and vocational education in our elementary and secondary schools.

"Many different bills have been introduced into the federal congress looking toward some form of federal aid for this particular work. The objection to nearly all of them has been that they undertake to prescribe some specific plan which shall be adopted in all the states alike, when educational conditions in the various states are so different that probably no such feasible plan can be worked up.

"The fundamental difficulty in the way of an adequate organization of this vocational and practical education is, of course, the lack of funds.

"I believe that if the burden were distributed, as in the case of higher practical education in agriculture and the mechanic arts, over the entire nation, as well as over the individual states, counties, and towns, it would be easier to bear this burden than if the entire expense must be met by local taxation.

"I am proposing, therefore, that just as the federal government in 1862 made an appropriation of public lands to each state in the union for the support of higher education in agriculture and the mechanic arts, so it should now make an appropriation for the support of practical training in the secondary and elementary schools, and that it shall follow the same plan in this field as it adopted in the other—viz.: leave the expenditure of this money to the states under a general supervision, of course, of the federal authorities to see that they really use the money for the purpose for which it is granted." EDMUND J. JAMES.

TELLS OF WORKING THEORY OF LIFE

The Rev. Marion D. Shutter of Minneapolis Preaches in Orchestra Hall.

AT SUNDAY EVENING CLUB

Says the Mistakes of Infallibility Have Been the Laughter of the Ages.

"The mistakes of infallibility have been the laughter of the ages. A working theory of life is all that we can have and all that we need."

Beginning with these two propositions the Rev. Dr. Marion D. Shutter, pastor of the First Universalist church of Minneapolis, Minn., and president of the Universalist general convention which meets in Chicago this week, unfolded his theme of "A Working Theory of Life" in a sermon delivered last evening in Orchestra hall under the auspices of the Sunday Evening club.

His text was: "We Walk by Faith and Not by Sight." A crowd which filled even the top gallery greeted the speaker.

Cannot Stand and Wait.

"Infallibility in religion," he said, "does not exist, any more than it does in politics. Yet we must act. We cannot stand and wait.

"In life, as in science, we must proceed on the basis of a working theory. Before the planet Neptune was discovered the planet Uranus was seen to act as though another planet were in existence. Proceeding on this theory, the new planet finally was located."

Dr. Shutter named as the three elements in a working theory of life belief that this is a sane and reasonable world, that if the world were a thousand times worse than it is it could still be made better, and that goodness is good in itself, without regard to any other reward that may be bestowed upon it.

Not a Haphazard World.

"There is no inspiration in thinking that this is a haphazard world. The best results are achieved only when we live in hope and courage that the world is more than temporal. The best working theory of life is the one that makes the best men and women and that accomplishes the best results in the uplift of the world, and this is the theory that good work must count at last.

"Some persons try to get rid of the evil of the world by calling it a mere idea. You can't get rid of the ground of stumps by calling them myths or delusions; the plowshare will surely find them just the same. Violence, murder, corruption, are just as real as sunshine and as the virtues of the loftiest soul.

Defines Optimism.

"Optimism consists not in the denial of evil but in believing in the preponderance of good and in the final triumph of good.

"Pessimism is helpless; optimism says that things are not so bad but they can be made better. Pessimism says that the world is going to the dogs; optimism says we can stop this downward trend if every citizen will do his duty.

"Goodness is good in itself. Character is its own highest reward. If one asks the question why the righteous suffer, why Paul spent so many years in prison, and why Christ had his Gethsemane, I cannot answer; but every one will say, 'Better be Paul in prison than be Nero on the throne.'

"We welcome the obstacles that make us work. A teacher is not to do the work for the pupil. Better that the pupil make his own struggle, although he make many painful mistakes. Life was made for victory and victory will be the outcome of every life."

Freeport Physician and His Accuser.

Alta Rosenstiel

U. S. TO PUT DOCTOR ON TRIAL

Freeport, Ill., Physician Accused of Mailing Improper Letters.

TOWN DIVIDED BY THE CASE.

Recalls Acquittal of Defendant on Girl's Charge.

Dr. Benjamin A. Arnold, a physician of Freeport, Ill., today will be placed on trial in the federal court in that city. He will be tried on an indictment charging misuse of the mails in sending a series of letters to Miss Alta Rosenstiel, a farmer's daughter, living five miles from town.

Judge Landis will sit as trial judge and the prosecution will be conducted by District Attorney Wilkerson and Elwood G. Godman, his first assistant.

Dr. Arnold is said to be a leader in the social life of Freeport and widely known throughout the northwestern part of Illinois. Residents are said to be equally divided for and against him with respect to the charges in the indictment.

Handwriting an Issue.

The government is prepared to place on the stand a number of important witnesses, including handwriting experts from Chicago, who will testify that the handwriting in the letters resembles closely that of the physician. This contention will be denied by the defense.

Dr. Arnold's defense will be conducted by Attorney Amos W. Marston of Chicago and Attorney R. R. Tiffany of Freeport.

The letters Dr. Arnold is accused of writing to the girl were written during the period between June and December, 1911, during the progress of Dr. Arnold's trial for assault. In that trial he was charged with having assaulted the girl at her former home in 1908, when she was 15 years old. The trial was held in the state courts of Stephenson county.

Freed on Second Trial.

He was found guilty by the jury, but the case was appealed to the state Supreme court, which reversed the finding and remanded the case for a new trial. The second trial resulted in an acquittal.

FINDS CROW IS NOT A PEST, BUT THE FRIEND OF FARMER.

Department of Agriculture Holds Birds Prove Value by Destroying Worms and Insects.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The department of agriculture has come to the defense of the crow, long libeled by farmers. The department issued a statement today declaring the crow to be of great value to the farmer. This verdict has been reached after a long investigation.

"The department experts," says the bulletin, "have reached the conclusion that the crow consumes enough grasshoppers, cut worms, white grubs, and other injurious insects to make him highly valuable to farmers. There is, however, one bad habit which the crow has, and that is the destruction of young birds and birds' eggs, but this trait is outweighed by the good the bird is doing for the farmer in the destruction of worms and insects.

"The one danger from the crow, according to department experts, lies in large numbers. If the number can be kept down so that its normal food is sufficient, there is every reason why farmers should encourage the bird to remain about their farms."

CANDIDATES MAKE LAST PROPHECIES

Puterbaugh Managers Assert His Vote Will Approximate Majority.

CRAIG RELIES ON SPLIT.

Shay Points Plurality Given to Roosevelt by Progressives Last Year.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Managers for Leslie D. Puterbaugh put out the election eve prophecy tonight that Mr. Puterbaugh will be elected Supreme court justice tomorrow by a total vote approximating that cast for his two opponents, Charles C. Craig, Democrat, and Arthur H. Shay, Progressive.

This position is ridiculed by Col. Craig's representatives in Galesburg, who claim for him a united Democracy and predict a Shay vote sufficiently large to defeat Puterbaugh and to permit Craig to win.

Mr. Shay believes he will be elected, basing his hope on the 6,828 plurality for Roosevelt which was turned out in the ten counties of the district last November.

State Chairman Raymond Robins of the Progressive organization made it clear, however, that every purpose of the Progressive campaign for Shay will have been accomplished by the defeat of Puterbaugh and the revivification of the Progressive party as a factor in state politics. Such a statement was made publicly by Mr. Robins prior to his departure from Peoria to conclude the campaign.

Republicans Rely on Peoria.

The Puterbaugh hope now is based upon the belief that an unusually heavy vote will be cast tomorrow, especially in Peoria county. His lieutenants fear the personal strength of Shay in his home county of La Salle will permit Craig to carry the county by a good sized figure. They are willing to concede that Col. Craig's home county of Knox will give a plurality near the 500 mark.

They claim Peoria county tonight by a plurality over Craig for Puterbaugh of not less than 3,000, upon the theory that the intense interest aroused during the closing week of the campaign makes it a surety that not only the ordinary Republican vote, but a stiff percentage of the Democratic vote and a substantial piece of the orthodox Progressive lineup will be cast for Puterbaugh. They figure the vote cast in Peoria county will be between 65 and 75 per cent of the total voting strength of the county, while the most optimistic figures from over the district indicate a light vote, approximating an average of 50 per cent of the total of 87,000.

Democrats Rely on Split.

The Democratic theory is that there is general apathy in the district and a strong likelihood that the Progressive vote for Roosevelt has been held in line for Shay through the activities of the Chicago flying squadron of women and men. The so-called "river wards" of Peoria, where the big Democratic pluralities usually are furnished, are figured as ready to produce a 100 per cent vote, and the Democratic organization controlled by Lee O'Neil Browne in the five important cities of La Salle county is expected by the Craig leaders to produce results.

It is claimed in Peoria also that Attorney General Lucey, who lives in Streator but who has fought Browne repeatedly in La Salle county and state politics, has stirred up his friends for Craig, and things look doubly good for Craig in La Salle. Last November La Salle county went 118 for Wilson, with Taft a poor third. Reproduction of this vote because of Shay's "favorite son" campaign in the county is expected confidently by the Democrats.

Vote for President Cited.

On the presidency last year not a county of the ten was carried by Taft. President Wilson won these three counties by the accompanying pluralities:

Marshall	805	Woodford	856
La Salle	118

Roosevelt carried seven counties, as follows:

Knox	2,628	Putnam	139
Henry	2,236	Bureau	988
Stark	884	Grundy	539
Peoria	865

Taft was second man in Stark and Grundy counties only. The same territory, however, was carried by Dunne for governor, by a small lead over Deneen, Republican, with Funk, Progressive, running far behind.

The totals for the district on the presidency were:

Roosevelt	36,006	Socialist	3,911
Wilson	29,178	Socialist Labor	279
Taft	16,849
Prohibition	1,217	Total	87,440

Taft polled 19.3 per cent of the total vote of the district; Wilson polled 33.4 per cent, and Roosevelt polled 42.3.

Women Play Important Part.

In its last analysis the result of tomorrow's election depends entirely upon the effect of the entrance of the woman suffragists into the campaign, as the experienced check up the final reports.

Without the fireworks which followed the speech of Mrs. Medill McCormick at Galesburg and the attack upon Judge Puterbaugh's record from the standpoint that the women feared his course on the woman suffrage act, there would have been little more than perfunctory interest in the campaign. There would not have been the bitter resentment occasioned in the ranks of woman suffragists in Peoria and a general uprising through the judicial circuit in which Judge Pu ugh has presided, and a natural tighten the political lines.

Women Issue Final Statement.

A final statement was issued last night jointly by Mrs. Medill McCormick, Mrs. Antoinette Funk, and Mrs. Sherman M. Booth. It follows:

"The time was when the political pirate could, by a personal attack upon a third party, divert the scrutiny of the voters from the record of a political candidate to some personal issue. But that time has passed.

"Even the cowardly attacks and wicked and intentionally false charges against the women who have been campaigning in the Fifth Judicial district made by Senator John E. Dailey of Peoria, cannot serve as a lure to entice the women to wander from the real issues. Being unwilling to descend to the low plane pursued by Senator Dailey, the women are willing to abide by the judgment of the men and women of the Fifth district, as to the integrity as between themselves and Senator Dailey.

Puterbaugh Decisions Attacked.

"In the campaign the women have admitted that, although Judge Puterbaugh's personal life was exemplary, yet his judicial record, as disclosed by his decisions in the Appellate court of Illinois, was hopelessly biased in favor of the great corporate interests and vested property rights and against humanity and the individual.

"They further charged that in more than a hundred and fifty cases Judge Puterbaugh, as an Appellate court judge, had either written or concurred in the opinion of the Appellate court reversing in favor of corporations verdicts rendered for individuals who had lost legs or arms or had been crippled for life.

Women Charge "Mental Bias."

"A careful perusal of these decisions discloses that the judge, owing to a mental bias, ever leans toward corporate interests when they are opposed to the individual; that his construction of the doctrine of assumed risk, contributory negligence, and the fellow servant doctrine is almost invariably construed by him upon a legal technicality in favor of humanity. In short, Judge Puterbaugh has a corporation squint.

"We characterize as intentionally false and dishonest each and every statement made by Senator Dailey, and from the silence of Judge Puterbaugh we are forced to believe that he is not unwilling to profit by the charges made by Senator Dailey."

Detectives H. Fogarty, Cummings, Wolf, Quinn, and Geller made a raid on a flat on the second floor of a building at 2707 West North avenue and arrested sixteen alleged poker players. Detective Fogarty went into the flat and purchased $10 worth of chips and after playing for a time his companions entered and arrested the players. Peter Axelson was booked as keeper. The police confiscated the $10, which was in marked bills, many poker chips, and some tables.

Methodist Episcopal Institution, Left Without Preacher, Secures the Rev. D. I. Roush.

The Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, Indiana avenue and Thirtieth street, which was left without a pastor by order of the general conference at the last session of Rock River conference held in Freeport, Ill., has secured the Rev. Dwight I. Roush as pastor. A homecoming service was held at the church yesterday and twice the usual sized congregation was present at the morning service, which included friends and former members. A welcome address was given by D. C. Alton, one of the trustees.

GIVEN 55 MINUTES FREEDOM TO KISS AGED DYING MOTHER.

Governor Telephones Permit and James O'Connor Is Rushed from Penitentiary to Bedside of Parent.

Joliet, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—James C. O'Connor, former wealthy Joliet financial operator, who was sentenced to the state penitentiary, was temporarily released from the prison yesterday through a special dispensation from Gov. Dunne. The release of O'Connor was obtained by a number of wealthy and influential friends, who appealed to the governor to allow the banker to see his 90 year old mother, who was dying and calling for her son "Jim."

Gov. Dunne granted the request by telephone and O'Connor was rushed to his mother's residence at 12:30 p. m. He kissed her tenderly. A few minutes later she died.

She was unaware that he was a convict. O'Connor returned to the penitentiary at 1:30 o'clock. He was gone only fifty-five minutes.

Physician Dies Suddenly.

Dr. Herman D. Peterson, 4458 Ellis avenue, was taken ill in the saloon of Montague Bros., 5872 Cottage Grove avenue, and died a short time later while being hurried to St. Luke's hospital. A heart attack caused his sudden end.

ETURNS LOCKET; PROMISED A JOB

ut of Work Finds $250 Trinket in Street While Seeking Employment.

SES AD IN 'THE TRIBUNE'

akes Jewel to Owner, Who Gives Him $20 and Assurance of Steady Position.

OCKET—LOST—LOCKET WITH 9 DIAMONDS and picture of boy inside. Liberal reward. Address GEO. GAGNE, 222 W. Harrison-st. West 178.

A man shambling along the street in quest of work kicked something that shone and glittered as it left the tip of his shoe. He picked it up—a locket worth $250.

This was quite a find to a man out of work. It meant food and clothes and lodging until a job was found. A pawnbroker might give him $20 on it! The man opened it and saw the picture of a small boy.

Big eyes, curling hair, chubby cheeks with dimpling dimples. The man looked at it long and earnestly—and sighed! Then he put the locket into his pocket and trudged on, seeking employment.

Sees Ad in "The Tribune."

The next morning he picked up a copy of THE TRIBUNE and turned to the lost and found column. He found the ad.

So he called up George Gagne and made an appointment with him. He met the owner in the corporation counsel's office, in the presence of Edgar Theriault of 2017 West Harrison street.

He said his name was Walter Schoenian of 221 Wellington street, a metal polisher. The work had affected his health, and he was about to give it up. Just now—well, something would turn up.

Promises Him a Job.

"You bet it will," said Gagne, handing Schoenian a $20 bill. "Mr. Theriault is going to get you a real job."

"I am," said Theriault. "This is the best recommendation you could give as to your honesty, sobriety, and efficiency. I am going to ask Assistant Corporation Counsel A. J. Callaghan to do something for you. Come in Monday."

Gagne has lost it twice, but each time, through the medium of THE TRIBUNE, it has been returned.

S LAST THOUGHT FOR STAGE.

orge Edwards, Theatrical Man, Dies After Giving Directions for Production of Play.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—George Edwards, a well known American actor and associate of H. M. Holden in the Holden players, died in the Huron road hospital Saturday evening after an operation for abdominal affection.

Mr. Edwards became ill early Friday and grew worse rapidly despite the care of physicians. He was under the anaesthetic more than three hours and when he regained consciousness he appeared to be in a fair way to rally. After giving directions as to how he wanted a play put on next week he lost consciousness and soon died.

Mrs. Edwards, known on the stage as Gertrude Mudge, collapsed under the strain of her husband's sudden death and is under a physician's care.

OCTOR WEDS; DIES NEXT DAY.

Inventor of Baby Incubator Succumbs to Paralysis of the Heart at New York.

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Dr. Solomon Fischel, who, with his partner, Dr. Martin A. Cooney, has exhibited baby incubators at Coney Island, Atlantic City, Denver, and other places for a number of years and who was one of the inventors of this method of saving lives of prematurely born infants, died this morning at the Hotel Brozell.

Dr. Fischel had been married the night before to Miss Anna Winter of 833 Manhattan avenue, Brooklyn.

Dr. Berger, in making out his certificate, gave the cause of death as paralysis of the heart, together with an ulcer of the stomach and acute indigestion.

KAISER AND PRINCE AT ODDS

German Emperor and Son Argue Over Brunswick Rule.

MEETING ENDS IN HUFF?

Heir Apparent Renews Demands Ernst Waive Hanover Claims.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

BERLIN, Oct. 19.—The fact that Crown Prince Frederick William arrived at Potsdam unexpectedly today, instead of on his mother's birthday anniversary next Wednesday, as had been arranged, is said to be due to the receipt by him of an urgent summons from the kaiser to call to see him in regard to the prince's protest against Prince Ernst of Cumberland being allowed to assume the throne of Brunswick without a full renunciation of all claims to the kingdom of Hanover.

It is said he was closeted with the kaiser for three quarters of an hour. There was an animated heart to heart talk and much plain speaking.

The kaiser did not invite the crown prince to remain for luncheon at which there were present his mother and his sister, the wife of Prince Ernst of Cumberland, and the crown prince of Greece.

Mrs. Paul Kral Beats Man Who Tries to Attack Her While Alone in Her House—Takes Purse.

Mrs. Paul Kral, 8414 Green Bay avenue, beat off a man who attempted to attack her in her home yesterday and drove him from the house. As he ran from her room he seized a purse containing $80 on a bureau.

The man was known to Mrs. Kral as "Andy" Grabrel, who had called occasionally at her home as an acquaintance of her husband.

He called at the house yesterday when Mrs. Kral was alone. She told the police Grabrel seized her and dragged her to a room, where he attempted to attack her. She said she beat him and he fled.

Bosc stricken from the rolls of the Legion of Honor.

FORTY SONGSTERS PERISH IN BLAZE

Pathetic Cries for Help Unheard by Rescuers, Though One Man Is Saved.

ATTACK BOLTED DOORS.

But Then, You See, They Were Canaries, and So Failed to Break Them.

A calamity overtook Sigel street yesterday. It left in its wake the bodies of forty full-throated, sweet-voice songsters. All efforts to save the forty were futile. A man was carried to safety by the police, but the forty soloists were carried out by one fireman—all dead.

Fire broke out in the rear of the building at No. 423. On the second floor was the bird shop of John Scholessman. Charles Baumgarden lived on the first floor.

Carries Smoke Victim Out.

When Policeman Frank Glory saw the fire in the building, he broke open the doors and found Baumgarden half suffocated on the ground floor. He carried the man to safety.

Scholessman and his wife were asleep on the floor above. The cries of the policeman awakened them and they escaped from the burning building.

None Heard Bird's Wail.

But while firemen, policemen, and bystanders were fighting to rescue the persons in the building, forty plumed canaries were attacking with all their might the doors of the cages that held them. They twittered and fairly screamed as the flames singed their yellow coats and smoke crowded into their musical throats. But no one heard.

RAU DISCOVERED IN HOSPITAL.

Business Agent of Steamfitters' Protective Association Refuses to Comment on Attack.

Charles M. Rau, business agent of the Steamfitters' Protective association, it was reported last night has been in a private hospital where his wife acted as nurse, while his friends were making a search for him, in the belief that he had been kidnaped or murdered.

Rau was assaulted last Wednesday, but he would say nothing in regard to the attack last night, except to declare that on the night of his "disappearance" he had left his automobile at the Apperson Motor company's garage. His injuries are not as serious as at first believed, and he will resume his official duties today.

POLICE SEEK LEPER SUSPECT

Young Woman, Ostracised for Alleged Taint, Vanishes.

CAME FROM LEPER COLONY.

Health Department O. K.'s Her, but Gossip Keeps Her Humiliated.

Search is being made by the police and others for trace of Marie Colliers, a young French woman, who disappeared from her lodgings at 1141 South Desplaines street, following a period of depression, the result of ostracism due to a suspicion that she had become tainted with leprosy while employed at the Tracadie colony for lepers in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, off the coast of New Brunswick. It is thought she has committed suicide.

Miss Colliers left only a brief note in her room, which she rented from Mrs. Elma Flanagan. It read:

"Dear Mrs. Flanagan: I do not know how to thank you for all you have done for me. Good-by."

Pins Message to Curtain.

The message was found pinned to a window curtain in her room, and the writer even neglected to take her trunk with her. She came to Chicago last December from the Tracadie colony, and when it became known that she had been connected with the institution, she was reported to the health department. Officials gave her a thorough examination and a clean bill of health. She then sought admittance as a member of a Catholic church organization, but was rejected because of a suspicion that some day she would show the taint of leprosy.

This discouraged her, but she procured a position with the Consolidated Press Clipping bureau.

Story of Taint Follows.

The story of the alleged taint followed her, however, and it is said she was subjected to further humiliation. In this connection Francis T. Von Albade, head of the bureau, said yesterday:

"Miss Colliers was at work last Friday. I knew of her distress, but can say that she was in perfect health and that rumors to the contrary have done her a great injustice. She is clever, having been educated at Notre Dame convent, Paris, and in Germany. It was my intention to call her fellow workers together tomorrow and tell them of the injustice which has been done to her. I regret her disappearance and will do what I can for her if we can locate her."

WOMEN WILL BE WALKING SPECTRA

Fashion Dictators Here Decide Dresses Shall Outdo the Kaleidoscope.

PLAN COLOR VOLCANOES.

Everything Imaginable from Crimson to Deep Sea Green to Be Worn.

When Easter dawns next spring the early churchgoer will have an opportunity of seeing a walking rainbow if he looks at the women's styles.

He will see deep greens, American beauty shades, burnt orange, bright mahogany, and smashing purples in jackets, and he will see the trouserette skirt.

Forty members of the Chicago Designers' association got together on the last day of their convention yesterday and plotted and planned just what the women would wear for Easter.

It was decided to have all the well known colors, and all, or nearly all, of the dreams of Paul Poiret, made into jackets and vests and skirts, and it is thought the woman of fashion will gladly do the association's bidding.

Skirts and Coats Long.

Skirts and coats are going to be very long, 30 to 34 inches in the smaller sizes and 40 to 42 in the larger ones. The suit jacket will measure from 18 to 26 inches and vests will be "compulsory."

"The colors will be rather extreme," said A. H. Kaiser, president of the Western Designers' Association of Women's Apparel, who is the presiding officer. "The brightest tints of nature will be worn—the shade of the gorgeous flowers, the hues of the gayest birds. Springtime needs bright colors, and the minaret and the trouserette and the other gowns which are to be the styles next season demand rich complexions.

"Hats? We have nothing to do with millinery. But the bonnet should match the general effect of the gown."

Dinner to Aid Color Dreams.

After the convention the visiting designers, who have come from Cleveland, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Cedar Rapids, Louisville, and other big cities in the middle west, were guests at a banquet given by the Chicago members at the Bismarck hotel, after which they adjourned to dream of color and line and effect that the early spectator might not be disappointed on next Easter morn.

RULES AID SPORT SHOWN BY GAMES

Supposedly Weaker Elevens Given Chance Under the New Football Code.

RESULTS UPSET CRITICS.

Chicago Must Show Improved Form to Beat Purdue Team, Says Eckersall.

BY WALTER H. ECKERSALL.

One of the chief ambitions of the American intercollegiate football rules committee—that of amending the rules so as to give supposedly weaker elevens chances to win from larger college or university teams—was realized for the first since 1905 with the playing of last Saturday's games.

Teams which heretofore have been considered mere prefaces in the development of the big elevens for the harder and more important struggles at last accomplished what they had fought for year after year—victories over teams which are rated the strongest in the country.

The adoption of the forward pass and the ten yard and four down rule have tended to equalize the difference in weight so smaller college teams are able to combat on even terms with their opponents. This equalization of offensive and defensive strength is a feature of football needed to arouse interest in the popular college sport. There has been no incentive for the small teams to meet the large elevens, with overwhelming defeats a certainty.

Results Create New Interest.

Under the old code the under dog went into the struggle with the one aim of keeping the score as low as possible. No hope of victory was entertained. This course of procedure annually did not tend to stimulate interest in the game. In many cases the beaten elevens were so riddled by injuries that they were unable to make good showings later in the season, even against teams of their own standing.

With the defeats of Michigan and Minnesota by the Michigan Aggies and Nebraska, respectively, the tie games between Purdue and Wisconsin and Ohio State and Oberlin in the west, and the slim margins by which the Army won from Colgate and Cornell from Bucknell in the east, the biggest set of surprises since the new rules were adopted in 1906 was recorded.

The victories of the Aggies and Nebraska are achievements to which those teams are justly entitled. Year after year teams representing the Lansing, Mich., and Lincoln, Neb., institutions have given battle to their larger and stronger opponents, with the same result. On Saturday the goals of their football ambitions were reached. As a result football has taken a new lease of life at each university.

Much Credit for Purdue.

Purdue is justly entitled to all the credit which can be bestowed on the doughty eleven which held Wisconsin, last year's conference champion, to a 7 to 7 tie. The team is by far the strongest which has represented the Hoosier institution since 1905, and its great game against the Badgers entitles it to be considered a strong contender for the conference championship.

Ohio State, which looked upon the annual struggle with Oberlin as a practice affair, was treated to an unexpected surprise when the smaller college held the aggregation from Columbus to a 0 to 0 tie. The game and gritty fight put up by Oberlin, even in the face of overwhelming odds, entitles the team to a lot of credit and as the contest with the Ohio State is looked upon as one of the big games of the year, the season at Oberlin will be a great success.

In the east the Army nosed out a victory over Colgate by the bare margin of one point. Failure to kick the goal after a touchdown robbed Colgate of the golden opportunity, which occurs only once in years, to trot off the field satisfied with holding the cadets to a draw battle.

Coach Sharpe of Cornell had to place all his available strength in the field to win a victory over Bucknell, 10 to 7. Although the Ithacans cannot be considered as strong as in former years, Bucknell, nevertheless, is entitled to credit for its showing.

Boilermakers Play Good Game.

It has been years since such an important early season game has been played in this section as the struggle between Purdue and Wisconsin. The Boilermakers had been coached and developed since the season opened with the Wisconsin game in view. The team was drilled thoroughly in all the rudiments of the game, and an advanced article of football had been mastered. The team was physically fit and in condition to play a great contest. Coach Juneau had to make the best of the situation, and he can consider himself lucky that he got off with a tie score.

The only hard struggle which remains for the Boilermakers is on Saturday with Chicago. If Purdue wins this game it should be victorious in the remaining struggles. This situation would entitle Purdue to be ranked with the foremost colleges in the conference.

In meeting defeat at Lincoln Minnesota was caught unawares, much like Wisconsin. The Gophers cannot be said to have been taught all the advanced football which is expected at the close of the season. Coach Williams was of the opinion his heavy team would win on straight football, and apparently he did not take the care to drill in plays in which the forward pass and other plays of the new game are important factors.

Underdogs Fight Like Demons.

Despite the unpreparedness of Wisconsin and Minnesota, the Aggies and Nebraska must be given full credit, for they played hard, aggressive football, and they fought like demons whenever the Gophers or Badgers threatened their goals. They had been prepared for these contests, and they accomplished what the old warriors had struggled for in former years.

There is a lot of work to be done at Ann Arbor if hopes of a victory over Pennsylvania on Nov. 15 are to be entertained by Wolverine enthusiasts. In all the years that the Wolverines have met the Lansing aggregation, this is the first time the Aggies have been victorious. One of the annual struggles resulted in a tie, but on other occasions Michigan won handily.

The result shows that Yost is not fortified with the material of former years. For the first time in his long career the Michigan mentor is confronted with the task of developing a team from mediocre material. There is not a reliable man on the team and not a player around whom formations can be built.

Chicago's game with Iowa showed the Maroons to be stronger offensively than defensively. Stagg's players made scores when they needed them, but were unable to check the attacks of the Hawkeyes until they were forced against their own goal line.

Gross Star of Hawkeyes.

Iowa played good football, and the team was well versed in open and complex formations. The running and dodging of Gross, the diminutive quarter back, who broke loose for several long gains, shows that the Maroons must be given long drills in open field tackling if the fast and fleet Oliphant of Purdue is to be stopped on Saturday.

Illinois showed improvement by winning over the weak and crippled Northwestern eleven, 37 to 0. Whether the downstaters will be taught enough football to win over Chicago and Purdue is a problem. On the form displayed against Northwestern, Illinois is not strong enough to win these games, but there are so many possibilities to the team that Coach Zuppke will have it in well groomed condition for these contests.

VICTORY NO BOOST FOR ILLINI.

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Despite the large score against Northwestern yesterday, it is conceded that the Illini showed a decided slump instead of displaying an advance over the form exhibited against Missouri.

While the Purple fought hard, Grady's men were in poor shape, and critics declare Illinois will have to go fast this week to beat Indiana at Indianapolis. Jimmy Sheldon is waiting in ambush for Zuppke. The Hoosiers haven't played a game for two weeks and will be pointed for the Illinois contest, while Zuppke must consider the Chicago game on Nov. 1.

Announcement of a popular excursion to Indianapolis means that the Illini need not depart until Saturday, and that they will be supported by at least 500 rooters. A popular subscription to defray the expenses of the band is being discussed. The band will be taken to Chicago, and the rooters want it at the Hoosier capital also.

THE TIRED GOLFERS.

STAGG MAPS OUT HARD WEEK

Purdue's Showing Changes Plans of Maroon Director.

TEAM IN GOOD CONDITION.

Line Shows It Can Hold if Opponents Threaten to Score.

BY MAROON.

An unusually exacting practice schedule will be held on the University of Chicago athletic field this week to put the Maroons in shape for the Purdue game on Saturday. Director Stagg is satisfied with the work which he can expect from his star backfield, but is in despair over the lack of strength in his forward wall.

It developed in Saturday's tussle with Iowa that the Maroon line can hold under pressure, but will not cohere except when there is a strong incentive. When the Maroon forwards held the Iowans for four downs on the one yard line their strength in emergencies was shown, but when the Iowa backs plunged through them for long gains on the open field, the necessity of bringing more coöperation into play was brought home to the Midway mentor.

Results Change Stagg's Plans.

The Purdue-Wisconsin result caused a near-sensation in the Midway camp and upset the training plans for the season. Director Stagg had hitherto considered Wisconsin and Minnesota the two most formidable contenders for the conference title, and had set about to develop a team which would show its best in the last two contests of the season. Purdue, Northwestern, and Illinois had not been considered of the same caliber as the Badgers and Gophers.

Realizing the necessity of bolstering up his line before the contest with the Boilermakers, the Purdue plays will be outlined and drilled into the freshmen, and from real demonstrations the varsity will endeavor to assimilate them. The "spread" plays used by Iowa had been shown the varsity for two weeks, yet they baffled the Maroons in nearly every attempt in which they were used. Stagg will attempt to offset any such repetition of forgetfulness on the part of his pupils by daily drills in the Purdue formations.

Maroon Team in Good Shape.

The Maroon team is in perfect shape physically. Not a minute of time was taken out by Maroon players during the game with Iowa, and they came off the field without injuries. Des Jardien, the giant center, played his usual stellar game despite a wounded shoulder, and retired at the end of the game as well as when he started.

Director Stagg said he found it necessary to conserve his back field regulars, Pierce, Norgren, Gray, and Russell, as far as possible, because the second string men were not able to put up a really creditable performance. Fitzpatrick and Kennedy weakened after a while and exhibited a lack of tackling ability.

"Butch" Scanlan, who saved the Maroons from a second touchdown by tackling Dick, who had escaped the whole Maroon string of players, stepped into fame, and perhaps will have one of the guard positions. Scanlan has been alternating with Leach, but on Saturday his work was superior to that of the regular.

"Pete" Russell by his performances at quarter back eclipsed his rivals for the position and perhaps eliminated them for the crucial contests of the season. He gives promise of developing into one of the best individual stars ever produced on the Midway.

GAIN CONFIDENCE AT PURDUE.

Splendid Showing Against Badgers Makes Players Optimistic Regarding Outcome of Battle with Maroons.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Purdue's splendid showing in the Wisconsin game yesterday makes the Boiler Makers optimistic in estimating their chances against Chicago next Saturday.

The Purdue men went through the Wisconsin game without a scratch. The work of Oliphant, Glossop, and Blocker was remarkable. Blocker, a new tackle, outplayed the great Butler, Wisconsin's all American forward. Glossop in defense was a tower of strength. Oliphant was the star in offensive plays, and gained more ground than all the Badger backs together.

Purdue, with better luck, would have scored at least one more touchdown. Three times the Boiler Makers were close to the visitors' goal, but fumbles and penalties prevented scoring. Purdue's goal was threatened only once, and that was when the visitors made their lone touchdown.

Coach Juneau, Athletic Director Ehler, Capt. Tandberg, and Butler of the Wisconsin team were called upon for speeches at a jollification meeting of Purdue students last night, and all said honors in the game were about even.

Dunne of St. Viator's Hurt.

Kankakee, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—With the exception of Dunne, who was injured in Saturday's game, the St. Viator's squad appeared on the gridiron today for two hours' workout in defense and offense. The line for Wednesday's game with the Eastern Illinois Normal will be weakened considerably if Dunne is unable to play.

LEWIS FIRST IN WOLF SHOOT AT CHICAGO GUN CLUB TRAPS.

Auburn Expert Breaks 163 of 200 Targets in Feature—W. A. Davis Takes Honors in Other Events.

BY JACK PROCTOR.

Bart Lewis, the amateur from Auburn, Ill., yesterday won the Wolf shoot, the feature of the weekly tourney of the Chicago Gun club. In this event each contestant shot at 200 targets from twenty yards. Each clay bird was thrown eighty yards from different angles.

Lewis was returned the winner with a score of 163. Phillip Miller of Chicago was second with 158 and Jesse Young and Dick Clancy, both of Chicago, tied for third place, with scores of 157. Dave Thomas, the only other shooter to finish of the fifteen original starters, had a score of 147.

W. A. Davis carried off the honors in two of the other events. He won the two fifty bird events, but did not compete in the distance handicap contest, which resulted in a tie between A. H. Winkler and P. Miller. Winkler broke 42 targets from 20 yards and Miller made a like score from 17 yards. Scores:

Fifty targets, 16 yards—W. A. Davis, 47; C. R. Seelig, 44; P. Miller, 44; A. H. Winkler, 44; A. O. Davis, 39; C. W. Irrgang, 39; H. Wolfe, 37; George Eck, 36; P. H. Clark, 34; J. Lino, 32; W. F. Johnston, 26; C. F. Seelig, 25.

Maywood, 19; Des Plaines, 0.

Maywood Ripmores defeated the Desplaines eleven on the former's field yesterday, 19 to 0, scoring three touchdowns in the last quarter. Miller intercepted a forward pass and ran fifty yards for the first score. More passes and end runs paved the way for touchdowns by Hinmans and Robbins. Miller's tackling was a defensive feature.

EIGHT CITIES IN CUE LEAGUE

Roomkeepers of Central West Form New Organization.

ONE PLAYER IN EACH TOWN.

W. S. Sweeney Is President and E. Helm Secretary-Treasurer.

BY KEENE GARDINER.

Roomkeepers of eight cities of the central west have organized the interstate three cushion billiard league. William S. Sweeney of Detroit is president, and Edward Helm of Cleveland secretary and treasurer. Each has been elected for a term of one year.

The new organization differs from some of its predecessors in that onlyone player will represent each room. As the octet of players includes such fine performers as Charley Morin of Chicago, Henry Cooler of Indianapolis, Charles McCourt of Pittsburgh, Ed Helm of Cleveland, and F. B. Benson of St. Louis, a strong circuit is assured.

One series will be played in each city, the winner getting the championship emblem and $400 in cash. The second prize will be $250 and the third $150. The champions will hold the emblem one year, and until the conclusion of the next tournament.

Although the schedule has not been arranged, it has been agreed that play will start about Nov. 17 and end about the third week in February.

The makeup of the new league is as follows:

Player.	Roomkeeper.	City.
C. R. Morin	C. Weeghman	Chicago.
F. E. Benson	F. E. Benson	St. Louis.
E. M. Helm	E. M. Helm	Cleveland.
M. Haley	W. S. Sweeney	Detroit.
W. R. Cullen	W. R. Cullen	Milwaukee.
H. Cooler	Harry Cooler	Buffalo.
A. Kickhefer	R. S. Hascall	Indianapolis.
C. McCourt	Harry Davis	Pittsburgh.

WABASH BEATS EVANSTON, 10-3

Suburban Eleven Scores First, but Hoosiers Come Back with Touchdown and Drop Kick.

Wabash, Ind., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—In the hardest fought battle ever played here the Wabash Athletic association football team, independent champions of Indiana, Kentucky, and Ohio, today defeated the Evanston eleven of Chicago, 10 to 3. The first points were made in the third quarter, when Johnson, Evanston's quarter, kicked a field goal from the thirty yard line. In the same period, Reno, Wabash's left end, crossed the line for a touchdown following a series of short gains. Adams kicked goal. In the same quarter Bricker, right end, drop kicked from the thirty-five yard line.

PURPLE COACHES STILL HOPE.

Expect Northwestern to Make Improved Showing When Shepard and Whittle Return to Game.

Despite two crushing defeats, the Northwestern football coaches are still hopeful of making a better showing in the later games. With Shepard and Whittle both back in the game, the team will be stronger than when it met Illinois on Saturday. Coach Dennis Grady will begin the session this afternoon with a lecture to his men on the weaknesses which lost the game last Saturday. Practice will begin at once on new plays and on defensive work for the Iowa game on Saturday.

HYDE PARK BLUES TROUNCE M'DUFFS

Run Away with Game, 7 to 2, After Leading 2 to 1 at End of First Half.

FRASER HURT, QUITS PLAY

Bumps Head Against Goal Post, and Switch in Lineup Helps South Siders.

BY J. G. DAVIS.

Getting a lead of two goals to one in the first half, the Hyde Park Blues added five more goals in the second period and defeated the McDuffs, 7 to 2, in the third round of the Association Football League of Chicago series at Fifty-second street and Cottage Grove avenue yesterday.

Through the first half it was a closely fought battle, with the McDuffs having the better of the play. After six minutes of play in the second half, Fraser, the McDuffs' goalkeeper, left his position to clear the ball. He sent it out to Scott, whose return kick curved over to the left side of the net. Fraser charged over to stop it and struck his head hard against the side post. The force of the blow knocked him out and he had to be carried off the field. The ball went into the net, giving the Blues their third goal.

McDuffs Finish with Ten Men.

Ross went into goal, and the McDuffs with only ten men left Cuthbert alone at full back, and this move proved disastrous, as Cole of the Blues got by three times and scored. Fraser was not hurt seriously, but was unable to resume play. Lineup:

Hyde Park Blues [7].		McDuffs [2].
Birchall	Goal	Fraser
Burton	Right back	Cuthbert
Brown	Left back	Ross
Houston	Right half back	McKay
Parker	Center half back	Patterson
Scott	Left half back	Quaite
Craig	Outside right	Platt
Whiteside	Inside right	Brown
Cole	Center	Halsall
Barlow	Inside left	Monroe
W. Mair	Outside left	Peats

Goals—Monroe, Mair, Cole [4], Scott, Halsall. Goal from penalty—Brown. Referee—McKean. Linesmen—Patterson and Mathiesen.

Rovers, 4; Rangers, 0.

The Campbell Rovers won their third straight game by defeating the West Side Rangers, 4 to 0, at Madison street and Fifty-second avenue. Graham scored five minutes after the start with a fast shot. The Rovers had the better of the play and Crosbie and Graham added goals. Some good defense by Moir kept the Scotchmen out, but later from a throw-in Davidson shot the ball at McHugh, who failed to hold it, and on the rebound Davidson scored the fourth and last goal. McHugh stopped several hot shots after this. Lineup:

C. Rovers [4].		W. S. Rang. [0].
Doig	Goal	McHugh
Stevenson	Right back	Moir
Williamson	Right half back	Seaforth
Paul	Center half back	Smith

Goals—Graham [2], Crosbie, Davidson. Referee—Napier. Linesmen—Leitch, O'Brien.

Pullmans, 7; Calumets, 0.

The champion Pullmans scored their third straight win by defeating the Calumets at Pullman, 7 goals to 0. Shallcross made five goals. Blockley, Sutton, Mackie, and Roberts were the stars of the winning team, Archibald, G. Pollitt, and Buchan doing good work for the Calumets. Lineup:

Pullman [7].		Calumets [0].
Roberts	Goal	Hawk
Blockley	Right back	Archibald
Dixon	Right half back	Sharp
Sutton	Center half back	Gardner
Taylor	Left half back	Gordon
Pollitt	Outside right	G. Pollitt
Mackie	Inside right	Buchan
Shallcross	Center	W. Crowther
Cartwright	Inside left	J. Cartwright
B. Govier	Outside left	Mitchell

Goals—Shallcross [5], Mackie, J. Cartwright. Referee—Morris.

St. Georges, 3; Fram, 2.

The St. George's team maintained its clean slate in section B of the Chicago Soccer Football league, defeating the Fram team, 3 to 2, at Forty-sixth and Fullerton avenues. The Norwegians gave the British players a hard fight, but good goal keeping by McNee kept the home side from tying the score. Lineup:

St. Georges [3].		Fram [2].
McNee	Goal	Nygaard
Walker	Right back	Thorkildsen
Stewart	Right half back	N. Ellingsen
Hyde	Center half back	T. Schang
Short	Outside right	Bakke
Endicott	Inside right	Gabrielsen
Bentham	Center	Brun
Douglas	Inside left	Carling
Gee	Outside left	M. Ellingsen

Goals—Bentham [2], Carling, Ellingsen. Goals from penalty—McNee. Referee—Turner. Linesmen—Ellison and Atkinson.

Lincoln Park defeated the Stonecutters at Peel park, 4 to 0, scoring three goals in the first half.

In section A of the Chicago Soccer league the Thor team played the Ogden Parks a tie at Forty-fourth and Armitage avenues, each side getting 3 goals. The Karkow brothers, who formerly played for the University of Illinois, performed cleverly for the home team.

Western Electric won a close game from the Campbell Rover Juniors at Twenty-fourth street and Forty-eighth avenue by a margin of 2 goals to 1.

Joliet, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—In opening the soccer season here Braceville tied the Star Peerless eleven, 3 to 3. The game was a little ragged, but kept a large crowd interested throughout.

Palmer Park Jrs., 0; H. P. Reds, 0.

The Palmer Park juniors socccer eleven, which holds the junior championship of Chicago, played a scoreless tie game with the Hyde Park Reds at Fifty-second street and Cottage Grove avenue. As the Reds had Jack Evans, Dave McKey, and several other good players on their team it was quite a feather in the cap of the Pullman boys to hold them even.

Easy Win for Ray and Vardon.

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 19.—Harry Vardon and Edward Ray, the British professional golfers, today defeated Frank Lewis of San Antonio and Robert Connerly of Austin, amateurs, by sixteen strokes in thirty-six holes of medal play at the San Antonio Country club. The scores were 148 and 164, respectively.

Local Bowling Standings.

Bowling secretaries from all parts of the city made their first official reports last night and fans at last will be able to get a line on the effect of the abolishment of the dodo and loaded balls. Returns so far show about as many as 900 teams in the running as in former years, while there are plenty of men with better than 200 for the few series rolled. WOLGAST, INJURED, CALLS OFF MATCH

Fractures Rib and Is Forced to Cancel His Bout with White on Friday.

SEEK FOE FOR CHARLEY.

Promoters Now Make Efforts to Land Welsh, Cross, or Duffy as Substitute.

BY KNOCKOUT.

Ad Wolgast, former lightweight champion, who was matched to meet Charley White in a ten round bout before the National A. C. of Milwaukee on Friday night, fractured a rib in training yesterday and was forced to call off the match.

Nate Lewis, manager of White, received this disappointing piece of news from the Milwaukee promoters last night. According to the report, Wolgast received the injury while boxing with Antoine the Greek at his training quarters in Milwaukee. The injury was examined by physicians, who stated Wolgast would not be able to engage in a fight for two months.

The promoters informed Lewis that efforts are being made to substitute Freddie Welsh, Leach Cross, or Jimmy Duffy. White is willing to meet any of these fighters, but none of them would equal Wolgast as an attraction.

"It is my usual luck," Lewis said. "Whenever I get a match which means so much to White, something happens depriving Charley of showing the pugilistic world that he is a worthy opponent for Willie Ritchie. I have no reason to doubt the truth of the report. Wolgast cannot crawl out of the match without a substantial reason, because the boxing commission of Wisconsin would not allow him to box in the state again and it would use its influence to have him barred in other states where boxing is under the supervision of a commission."

Lewis said he would allow White to meet either Welsh, Cross, or Duffy, providing Charley's opponent made 133 pounds at 6 o'clock, the weight which Wolgast agreed to make for White.

It looks as if Frank Mulkern, the millionaire newsboy, is an unlucky promoter. Mulkern attempted to stage a match between Wolgast and Packey McFarland in Milwaukee a year ago. At a time when it looked as if everything was going along nicely, the authorities stepped in and refused to allow the contest.

Eddie Murphy, the Boston lightweight, and manager Mickey McBride passed through Chicago yesterday on their way to St. Louis, where Murphy will box eight rounds with Jimmy Duffy of Buffalo before the National A. C. tomorrow night.

McBride, who also looks after the interests of Cal Delaney, the Cleveland featherweight, who will meet Matty McCue at Racine on Oct. 28, will return to Chicago after the St. Louis bout to look after Delaney's training. McBride asserted Delaney has two victories over Patsy Branigan, the fighter who is credited with a ten round decision over McCue.

The Havre de Grace volunteer fire department made an attempt to reach the scene, but got stalled when about half way.

GIANTS DOWN SOX IN FAREWELL GAME

Two Run Rally, Due to Four Hits Off Russell, Gives New York Verdict, 3-1.

SUITS FEATURE OF P. M.

Crowd of 7,000 Fans Shivers as It Watches Clash and Listens to Patriotic Airs.

BY SAM WELLER.

The world touring White Sox and Giants gave Chicago a farewell peek at them yesterday at Comiskey park before starting westward on the trip around the earth. About 7,000 fans turned out and gave the boys a great send-off with a brass band, flowers, and shivers.

The shivers were most conspicuous, for the wind was off the lake and felt snowy. Only for that the attendance doubtless would have been more than doubled. As it was the boys took in enough cash to pay the bills to the next town at least, and they gave the fans a swell game of ball for their money, too. The Giants came out victorious with a ninth inning clouting festival that netted two runs and made the final count 3 to 1.

Because of the chills the fans were glad to see somebody win in the ninth, for there was no joy in anticipating an extra inning combat with nothing at stake.

Suits Feature of Game.

Long before the ninth inning the crowd had seen all it wanted of the new ball suits with their patriotic trimmings. That was the main feature of the ball game, and made all present feel like singing "The Star Spangled Banner." The band finished off the day with a mixture of patriotic airs, just as it would have done had a regiment of soldiers been about to invade foreign lands.

The Sox wore white suits with a thread stripe in them. On each sleeve was an American flag in a furling design. The stockings of white had a stripe of blue and a stripe of red, while the caps were blue with red peaks and white seam stripes. The suits were finished off with bright red coats, trimmed in navy blue and white, and set off with a national shield on the breast pocket.

The Giants wore suits of gray with a blue stripe in them and shields of the national colors on the sleeves. Instead of coats, they wore sweater coats with another shield on the front. Their stockings were of purple and gray, as worn during the season.

Each Team Carries Two Outfits.

On the whole, the two teams made a swell appearance which should knock the natives of the Orient silly. Each team carried another set of suits too. The Sox have a set of blue uniforms with about the same kind of trimmings while the Giants carry a set of white suits and they will alternate in wearing white suits while on the long tour.

The game itself would have been a corker of a match if it had been a nice day in July. The Sox put up a stiff fight, trying hard to win in order to get even for the victory of the Giants on Saturday. The Giants were determined to get away on this trip with a good lead and refused to allow the Sox to win unless they outplayed them.

"Tex" Russell was on the slab for Chicago and Al Demaree, the well known cartoonist, hurled for the Giants. One may know "Tex" was heaving with some speed when one sees that he fanned the National league champions. That statement is literally true, for those two Philadelphia fellows, Mike Doolan and Hans Lobert, each fanned three times.

Russell Blows Up in Ninth.

Russell went along beautifully until the ninth inning. Up to that time he had permitted only five hits and one run, but in the ninth, the Giants bunched four hits with a sacrifice and scored two runs. A double play prevented more tallies.

The Sox, on the other hand, had great difficulty in hitting the curves of Mr. Demaree. He wasn't as brilliant in his pitching as Russell was, but he kept the blows so well scattered that only one run resulted. In the sixth, when the Sox got their one tally, it looked as if they would get about six, for they filled the bases with no one out. A hit sent one counter home, then two fellows were pegged out at the plate, and the rally was busted.

Another rally was started in the ninth, two getting on with none out; but one was picked off the bases, and then a batter hit into a double play, ending the show.

The Giants scored first when they put one over in the third round. Wingo opened with a single and Demaree pushed a bunt past Russell and beat it for a hit, sending Wingo to third from where he scored on Thorpe's out. Russell got the next two, preventing further damage.

Schaefer Scores Sox Run.

Germany Schaefer started the Sox rally in the sixth that tied the score. He led off with a base on balls and immediately played hit and run with Chase, who followed him. Doolan ran to cover second and Chase poked a hit through that vacant spot, sending Schaefer to third with the speed of a flash. Hal scooted to second on the peg to third. Demaree wouldn't let Sam Crawford get a clout at the ball, although all the Sox fans were aching for the thrill of seeing an outfielder drive in a couple of runs. Sam walked; then Doc White produced a sharp single to center, sending Schaefer home, but Chase stopped at third, because he didn't want to go home and have to slide, as it would dirty his new clothes. Rath fanned, then both Berger and Daly hit to Demaree, and Chase and Crawford were forced out at home.

Lobert, who had fanned three times, opened the ninth with a single, took second on a wild pitch, and scored on Doyle's single, the latter taking second on White's peg to the plate. Merkle sacrificed, then Doolan, who had fanned three times, singled, sending Doyle home. Donlin pulled a single to right, sending Doolan to third. Wingo hit into a double play.

Daly and Russell started the Sox ninth with singles, but Daly was picked off second by Wingo, then Weaver hit into a double play, ending the game. Score:

GIVE BANQUET FOR COMISKEY.

Johnson, Herrmann, and Twenty Other Friends Present at Impromptu Affair to Sox Owner.

An impromptu banquet was given to Owner Comiskey of the White Sox last night before the departure of the Sox and Giants. President Johnson of the American league had some wild fowl served at the Automobile club and after the game he gathered Comiskey, Garry Herrmann, owner of the Cincinnati club, and about twenty other friends of the "Old Roman" and gave them a spread. During the affair, Mr. Herrmann presented Comiskey with a beautiful stickpin, which Herrmann has possessed for years. Comiskey will go to Kansas City for the game next Sunday, returning home before joining the athletes, probably in Los Angeles.

Johnson signed the agreement at Coffeyville, Kas., his home. Mathewson had been announced as the Giants' twirler in the Joplin game.

COMMY'S WORLD TOUR STARTS

Fans Cheer Sox and Giants as They Leave Chicago.

SPRINGFIELD GAME TODAY.

Old Roman Will Not Join Party Until It Reaches Pacific Coast.

BY HANDY ANDY.

With throngs of Chicago's baseball fans cheering, the White Sox and Giants left last night on their trip around the world. The special train of palace cars pulled out of the La Salle street station soon after 11 o'clock, carrying a few more than fifty persons. Thirty of them were ball players and the rest were managers, secretaries, rooters, and brides.

The first stop is Springfield, Ill., where the two teams will exhibit to the down state fans today. For the next thirty-one days the big league tourists will be showing in this country, winding up with a game in Seattle on the afternoon of Nov. 19 and sailing that night from Vancouver for Japan.

Before leaving they will have played thirty-five games before American crowds, providing rain stops none of the exhibitions scheduled. During all that time the athletes will live on the special train, with the exception of two or three nights when they are playing in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Tour Middle West First.

The first week will be spent in the middle west. A game in Peoria will follow the one in Springfield, after which the train will go to Ottumwa, then to Sioux City, Blue Rapids, St. Joseph, and Kansas City. From there they move off to the southwest, touring Texas, and going on to Los Angeles, then up the coast to Tacoma and Seattle.

Owner Comiskey of the White Sox, the man responsible for the great trip, did not leave with the teams last night. After settling up some business affairs here, he and his family will join the team about the time it strikes Los Angeles. Until then, Jimmy Callahan, manager of the White Sox, and John McGraw, manager of the Giants, will be bosses of the party.

On the entire trip around the world, the teams are scheduled to play about eighty-five games, thirty-five are scheduled in this country before the boys sail. The first game in foreign lands is booked at Yokohama on Dec. 3. Three other games are to be played in Japan, after which the teams sail to Shanghai, China, playing one game there and sailing on to Hongkong for one contest. From there they sail to Manila for a stop of two days, then a long sail follows to Australia.

Ten Games in Australia.

In Australia the teams will give about ten exhibitions in four or five different cities, and Jan. 15 will find them setting sail again in the Indian ocean. They will land at Colombo for a day, then sail again, arriving at Cairo about Feb. 1. Games will be played at Cairo and Alexandria, after which they will sail across the Mediterranean sea, exhibiting in Naples, Rome, and Florence, then moving to Milan, and to Monte Carlo, then into Paris by way of Nice and Marseilles.

Five days are to be spent in Paris, then the party will move on to London for a stop of four days, then to Edinburgh and Glasgow for three days, after which the tourists will cross into Ireland for exhibitions at Dublin and Queenstown, sailing for New York from the latter city on March 1 and arriving in New York on March 6.

Twenty-five years ago Capt. Anson took a team around the world, but his tour was not so pretentious as the one planned for the Sox and Giants, which eclipses anything ever done before in the national game.

Speaker Joins Squad Tomorrow.

The two teams were practically completed when the start was made last night. Tris Speaker, the star outfielder of the Boston Red Sox, will join the Chicago club tomorrow. Morris Rath at third base yesterday was a surprise to the fans. Morris had agreed to make the tour while a member of the Sox and is willing to go yet if needed. He will start with the team and perhaps go all the way.

For five of the athletes and one of the magnates the world's trip will be taken as a honeymoon. "Tex" Russell and his bride will travel as far as Bonham, Tex., then leave the party. Three members of the Giants are bridegrooms and are taking their brides with them, and Jack Fournier is expected to join the Sox in Tacoma and introduce them to his bride. The magnate who will have a bride along is Louis Comiskey, son of the old Roman. The three Giants who married recently are Doyle, Tesreau, and Thorpe.

It was stated just before the departure of the special train that word had come from George McBride, shortstop of the Washington team, that he had decided to accept the offer to make the tour around the world and would join the party in a few days. George is at his home in Milwaukee. His addition, with Speaker's, would give the Sox a great ball team.

LEAGUERS FAIL TO AID JOLIET.

Major Leaguers Drop Deciding Game of City Championship, Northeastern Winning, 12 to 8.

Joliet, Ill., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The championship of the Joliet City Baseball league was won before a crowd of 3,000 persons this afternoon, when the Northeastern Athletic club defeated the White Cross team, 12 to 8. On the lineup of the defeated White Cross yesterday were: Cutshaw of the Brooklyn Dodgers, Schuessler of the Pittsburg Pirates, McComber of the Philadelphia Athletics, Camp of the Logan Square team of Chicago, and Trost of the Centerville [Ia.] team. Two other big league players were on the White Cross lineup under assumed names. The lineup of the N. A. C. team was a strictly Will county aggregation. Frank Murphy of the N. A. C. team was the hitting and fielding sensation of the game. "Pipes" Cauley and Jack Lowery of Chicago umpired.

"The Little Brown Box"

In the Wake of the News.

BY R. W. LARDNER.

HOW SWEET!

How sweet to write of Baby,
And know that what I've said
Won't bring a bunch of slams and knocks
From partisans of Cubs or Sox
Upon my poor old head.

For when I write of Baby,
Why, I can come out strong
With almost any kind of stuff,
'Cause you don't know him well enough
To tell me I am wrong.

FANS NOW TURN TO BOWLING

Schoolboy Finds 24 of 50 Quit Baseball for Pin Game.

OTHERS TAKE UP BILLIARDS.

Strange as It May Seem, None Cares for Indoor Baseball.

BY JAMES RAYMOND GIBSON.

What does the baseball fan do for amusement and recreation from October to April? I mean the fellow who breathes, eats, and drinks baseball during the summer months and wouldn't miss a game unless he happened to be bedridden.

To see one of those gentlemen perform at a ball game, especially when his favorite team is winning, is a treat sure enough and would lead to the impression that this fellow could never become interested to any great extent in any other sport.

I had my eyes on a few of those "bugs" during the city series, and after the slate had been wiped clean I began to wonder what they would do to give vent to their surplus enthusiasm during the next four or five months.

Makes Inquiries of Fans.

In order to satisfy my curiosity, I made inquiries among those who were qualified to give me an intelligent answer, and I soon learned that the baseball fan, if nothing else, is versatile and from all outward appearances enjoys life during the "off season" almost as much as when he is out yelling his head off in an effort to bring a victory. The only drawback during the winter months is the fan does not have the same opportunity to give vent to his enthusiasm.

Of the fifty fellows whom I chose to enlighten me, twenty-four declared they were champion bowlers in their various leagues and that any spare time they had during the winter months was passed in making spares and strikes. Thirteen, when not working or sleeping, play billiards until the umpire shouts "Play ball." Six will muffle up and play golf until the snow gets so deep they will be unable to make a tee, then two of those golfers will "swoop her up, Sandy," while McPherson and MacDonald juggle with the "stanes." The other four will abandon the regular links for the little indoor courses inside the loop.

Out of the remaining seven, six are devoted to cards, and while waiting for the grass to get green again will "kill" time playing whist, cinch, or rhum. The other fellow will do nothing—that is, practically nothing. He is a checker player.

Do Not Care for "Indoor."

Out of the entire fifty with whom I talked, I did not find a single fan who cared a cent about indoor baseball. That's strange, too, because here is a game that is nothing if it isn't fast, and it certainly brings out the enthusiasm when played in school gymnasiums. The regular baseball fan, however, apparently knows nothing of this—that is, in Chicago, at any rate.

Talk about speedy shortstops in the big leagues. Just let one of those so-called fast boys try some shortstopping on a good indoor team, and I miss my guess if he wouldn't resemble a truck horse more than a speed marvel when compared with some of the school fellows I have seen play the game.

The baseball fan is looking and yelling for speed all summer. Well, then, if it's speed he is after, why doesn't he warm up to "indoor" and learn what speed really is?

TROJANS BEAT ALL STARS, 5-3

Errors Help Cub Barnstormers Win at Milwaukee.

BAUMAN POLES TWO HOMERS.

Ervin Lange, White Sox Recruit, Holds Evers' Team to Five Hits.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The barnstorming Cubs ran up against a tough combination today in an all star team captained by Luderus of the Philadelphia Nationals. However, five errors gave the Trojans the verdict, 5 to 3. Ervin Lange, who will join the White Sox next spring, allowed only five hits, while Larry Cheney was found for six. Bauman swatted two home runs.

Mollwitz, the Cubs' first base recruit, played against his new teammates and secured one hit. Kroy, a Central leaguer who has been secured by Chance's New York Yankees; Blues of the Jersey City International league team, and Custer of Seattle also performed with the All Stars.

Not a man reached first safely until the fourth inning. Then the Cubs scored twice, and the locals came back with a pair in their half. Ragged fielding marked the game from that point on. Score:

ST. MARY'S NINE ENTERS FINAL BY BEATING ST. JARLATHS, 5-4

Victors in Ten Innings Battle Will Play Paulists for the National Catholic League Title.

The St. Marys of Evanston nine won its way into the finals of the National Catholic Baseball league yesterday by defeating St. Jarlaths, 5 to 4, in a ten inning game at Gunther park. The winner will play the Paulists next Sunday for the title. Joe Ochsner won his own game in the tenth round with a two bagger over the fence after McStevens had singled. It was the fifth hit for the St. Marys pitcher. St. Jarlaths led, 4 to 1, at the opening of the ninth. A batting rally filled the bases for St. Marys, and Keeler allowed his opponents to tie the count by two wild pitches. Score:

EXPERTS PRAISE AQUARIUM PLAN

University Instructors Assert Fish Museum Would Be Invaluable to Students.

SEES COMMERCIAL USES.

Dr. Shelford Asserts Game Protection Laws May Be Made More Efficient.

The prospect of a marine and fresh water aquarium in Chicago, now under consideration for Grant park by the south park commissioners, yesterday roused the enthusiasm of experts in zoölogy. They said the absence of such an institution hampered their research. Dr. Frank R. Lillie, professor of zoölogy at the University of Chicago, said a public aquarium would be invaluable to the university in its work.

"It would be of the greatest benefit to the experts and to the students of marine life," said Dr. Lillie. "Columbia university and the Rockefeller institute in New York conduct their research work at the Battery park aquarium. I have to go to the Massachusetts coast for three months every year in my work. And my pupils can't go there.

Fine for People.

"Physiologists as well as zoölogists would find it of the greatest advantage. Think of all these millions of people who read every day about marine life and never have seen any of it. It would be important to the university, but think what it would mean in an educational way to the public at large!

"President Judson wished to establish a marine aquarium at the university when he became convinced it would facilitate research. The plan is perfectly practical. It has been demonstrated such an institution can be run anywhere."

Yields Many Secrets.

"For a few experts," said Dr. Victor E. Shelford of Chicago university, "the best place to study fish is in the streams, but this is impossible for most students. The aquarium yields secrets which cannot be learned any other way.

"It will make our fish protection laws efficient. Thousands of persons violate the law because they do not know what fish legally may be taken. They don't recognize the baby fish from the minnows. In that way and in the study of disease producing water animals an aquarium will have a commercial value.

"Such an institution would be more valuable than the animals at Lincoln park. They are wholly out of their natural zone. Fish are in their natural zone and their habits can be studied."

Pleasing to Harris.

President Abram W. Harris of Northwestern university asserted an aquarium appeals to him as a valuable asset to a university.

"I really know nothing about aquaria, but on the face of it the project is a good thing," he said.

The Chicago Fish Fancier's club, amateur collectors of fish, will meet in City Hall Square building on Wednesday and pass resolutions favoring the idea. Floyd Young, the president, says he will do everything in his power to forward the erection. Robert McMurdy, an attorney, who first collected the data for the board, is strongly in favor of the revival of interest in the project.

EX-ENVOY WILSON MAKES HIS REPLY; DEFENDS ACTIONS

Former Mexican Ambassador Gives Out Letter in Which He Offered Resignation.

ASSAILS COURSE OF BRYAN

Accuses Secretary of "Tempestous Haste" and "Partisan Zeal" in Apology to England.

ATTACKS POLICY OF PRESIDENT

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Henry Lane Wilson, former ambassador to Mexico, today made good his promise to reply to President Wilson and Secretary of State Bryan concerning the events which led to his recall and withdrawal from the diplomatic service.

Mr. Wilson's answer to the criticisms of the administration took the form of making public the letter in which he resigned as ambassador. This letter was written in Indianapolis, Ind., on Aug. 20, and was addressed to Secretary Bryan.

The letter in several of its passages is a bitter criticism of the attitude toward Mr. Wilson by the president and the secretary of state. Mr. Bryan is charged with "tempestuous haste" and "partisan zeal" in framing the note of apology to Great Britain for Ambassador Wilson's construed attitude toward the Huerta government. In this connection Mr. Wilson says Secretary Bryan's action "inspires me with serious doubts as to your future success in dealing with delicate international affairs."

Assails Policy Toward Mexico.

President Wilson's policy toward Mexico, as made known to him by Secretary Bryan, Mr. Wilson says he regarded as "so startling in character and so at variance with the established traditions and customs of this government that I abandoned all further hope of bringing about a restoration of amicable relations."

In conclusion Mr. Wilson says, concerning his recall to Washington, that he realized that he was not recalled for consultation over the Mexican situation, but was "called home for sentence and humiliation."

Mr. Wilson's letter follows:

"I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your note of Aug. 14, transmitting a copy of a telegraphic instruction of the department of state to the American ambassador in London, directing him to disclaim all responsibility on the part of this government for an interview attributed to me. The closing paragraph of the instruction referred to states that 'the president regrets exceedingly that a diplomatic official of this government should have been guilty of such an impropriety.'

Envoy Calls Rebuke Unjust.

"The last paragraph of your note to me states that 'the president does not go farther at this time because he takes it for granted that the action which he has been obliged to take in this matter will be to you a sufficient reminder of your official obligations.'"

Mr. Wilson calls attention to a memorandum of his, dated Aug. 18, agreeing to refrain from public comment on the instruction to the ambassador in London or the note to himself, but adds that he "must respectfully decline to accept as definite or just the action of the president or the department over which you preside" in this matter.

"There is," he writes, "a just limit to patient silence, and I shall not permit myself to be made the victim of a hasty and unmerited rebuke without placing on record with you my earnest and solemn protest."

Ex-Ambassador Reviews Controversy.

Mr. Wilson then reviews the circumstances leading up to the instruction to the ambassador in London. A London dispatch was published in this country on Aug. 11 stating that one of the factors determining British recognition of the Mexican provisional government was the "congratulatory speech of the American ambassador on the occasion of Huerta's reception to the diplomatic corps."

Mr. Wilson says he did not believe this came from an official British source, and had decided to maintain an attitude of reserve until, on the next two days, he read in the press articles "evidently inspired by administration sources, containing expression of gratification over the supposed proprietory legislation" of the British government.

Denies Interview Was Official.

"It seemed apparent to me that this was the first evidence of your intention to publicly question my official acts," he continues, "and I accordingly gave to the press the interview referred to."

The interview, he declared, could not possibly be construed as an expression of the views of this government, as Mr. Bryan already had announced Mr. Wilson's voluntary resignation. He continues:

"Thereupon, with tempestuous haste, and apparently prompted by partisan zeal, you dispatched an instruction to the American ambassador in London directing him to apologize for language uttered by me which was not in the least degree offensive, and which was based entirely upon the assumption that the supposed expression of the British government was a malicious fabrication.

Charges Bryan Acted Hastily.

"You thus hastily proceeded without ascertaining whether either the supposed expressions by the British government or my comment thereon were veritable; and, as has since been developed, your action caused the greatest possible surprise to the government of Great Britain, which did not know it had been offended, and had no official knowledge of the views attributed to it.

"Thus, through pique, you have spontaneously and unjustly discredited a diplomatic officer of his government and at the same time have exposed to the British foreign office the spirit of hazardous adventure which presides over the department of state, and the possibility of errors at any moment in future diplomatic exchanges.

Criticises Action of President.

"That the president of the United States, whom I know to possess high and patriotic ideals, and whose lofty purpose ought never to be questioned by any American citizen, should lend himself to the hasty criticism of an old and tried official of the government, upon totally unwarranted and since discredited sources of information, convinced me that he was badly advised.

"That you, Mr. Secretary, who have been identified with the movement for higher and better things in this country, should, except as the result of investigation and calm consideration, find reason for the censure of a plain and truthful statement of fact which had to do solely with matters that are of record in the department of state and probably on the records of all foreign offices with representatives accredited to Mexico, by assuming an attitude which involves the correctness of the official procedure of a diplomatic officer under your control, inspires me with serious doubts as to your future success in dealing with delicate international affairs."

Tells Relations with Huerta.

"My relations with the provisional president were brought about by the stress of circumstances," he says, adding that his dealings with Huerta and Felix Diaz were solely to save human life and abate intolerable conditions in Mexico City. His course, he declares, "vastly mitigated the horrors and sufferings of that terrible situation," and was indorsed by all diplomats, foreign colonies, and religious organizations in Mexico.

His formal resignation on March 4 was not accepted, but subsequently, he remarks, "public statements that the administration was investigating the situation through unofficial sources, repeated with disagreeable frequency, affected my official usefulness."

He asked Mr. Bryan for a denial, "and, receiving none, I again requested you to urge the acceptance of my resignation. In reply you clearly indicated your desire that I should remain at my post."

Meanwhile, he says, the attitude of the Mexican government toward recognition became such that he wired for information regarding this country's policy.

Calls Wilson Policy "Startling."

"After a long delay," he comments, "you telegraphed me in the president's name, announcing a policy so startling in character and so at variance with the established traditions and policy of this government for 130 years that I abandoned all further hope of bringing a restoration of amicable relations."

Mr. Wilson next takes up the circumstances of his sudden recall to Washington on July 22 and the chain of events in Washington centering about his return. He complains he was told that his return was to be for consultation and that he left without time to adjust his personal affairs, at considerable expense to himself.

He came to the conclusion that he was going to be removed from office, he says, because of Mr. Bryan's attitude toward him.

"I realized," he says, "that I had been called home, not for orders, consultation, or instruction, but for sentence and humiliation."

HUERTA TO SEEK HIGH OFFICE?

Vera Cruz, Oct. 19.—Local officials are authority for the statement that the eleventh hour candidacy of Gen. Huerta and Gen. Blanquet will be openly announced on Tuesday.

Little Interest in Elections.

Mexico City, Oct. 19.—With the elections a week off and the assurance of three candidates in the field for the presidency, there appears to be no noticeable interest on the part of the general public as to whom triumphs.

Señor Moheno, minister of foreign affairs, is evidently well pleased with the recent declarations of Henry Lane Wilson, the former ambassador of the United States to Mexico. The foreign secretary said in an inteview tonight:

"The declarations of Ambassador Wilson are most grateful to Mexico and most important, coming as they do from one who knows the conditions here so thoroughly. It is a pity that his opinion is not taken into account by his government.

"President Woodrow Wilson has been a disappointment for us, as we expected him to be the greatest friend of Mexico. As for Secretary of State Bryan, we likewise expected to find in him a noble friend to Mexico. His words of friendship while here were regarded as nothing less than inspired. In view of these antecedents you can imagine our surprise at the unbenevolent attitude which these men have assumed toward us in the present crisis."

DIAZ RETURNS TO MEXICO.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

HAVANA, Oct. 19.—The steamship Corcovado with Gen. Felix Diaz and party aboard sailed at 11 o'clock this morning for Vera Cruz. The members of the special mission of Japan of which Gen. Diaz was the head disregarded the orders from President Huerta that they should return to Paris and accompany Senor de la Barra, who has been appointed to succeed Gen. Diaz as chairman of the delegation to Japan. They remained aboard the Corcovado and sailed with Gen. Diaz for Vera Cruz.

PUSH UNIFICATION OF SHERIDAN ROAD

Committeemen Urge Towns to Turn Northern Drive Over to Lincoln Park Board.

NEW STATE LAW CITED.

In an effort to quicken the improvement of Sheridan Road from Chicago to the Wisconsin line, a distance of fifty miles, a campaign committee has been chosen by President Edwin L. Lobdell of the Sheridan Road Improvement association.

The committee will act in line with the recent law passed by the state legislature which enables the various towns bisected by Sheridan Road to turn over all the highway in their jurisdiction to the Lincoln Park board. The committee will present to the various towns a model ordinance drafted [illegible] the Glencoe ordinance, which already has transferred Sheridan Road in Glencoe over to the board.

Road Getting Worse.

The Lincoln park board has governed that part of the highway in Chicago for many years with much success. On the other hand, the condition of Sheridan road from Chicago north continually is becoming worse.

Col. Maurice W. Kozminski has been made chairman of the new committee.

"By virtue of the law enacted in June last, the Lincoln park commissioners have been authorized to take over the control of Sheridan road," he said. "This thoroughfare has as great possibilities for beauty and usefulness as any fine driveway in the country. In the long course all the variety of charm which northern Illinois has to offer is touched. Along its sides are some of the handsomest residences in the section, while unappreciated Lake Michigan, the Skokie, the bluffs and ravines of the north shore with their wealth of woods and shrubs, contrive an agreeable wayside.

Petitions Are Circulated.

"But the road has belonged to every local seat of authority through which it passed, and here as everywhere what concerns all is no one's business. Petitions have been circulated in accordance with the terms of the new law; consent of the majority of the frontage owners has been obtained.

"The model ordinances provide the road always shall be maintained as a fine driveway, and that no permission shall ever be given to any railway to touch it or to build above or underneath it. Active campaigns are being made in Evanston, Highland Park, and Winnetka."

"TRIBUNE" USED IN CHURCH CLASS

Bible Students Instructed by Pastor in Good Done by Honest Newspapers.

PICTURES FOR CHILDREN.

Thirty copies of THE TRIBUNE were passed around by the Rev. Wm. E. Danforth, pastor of Christ chuch, Elmhurst, to members of his young men's bible class yesterday.

Beginning with the first page the class made a careful analysis of the news of the day. Each member carried both a red and a black pencil. The "hopeful" articles were marked with a red pencil and the stories describing crime and immorality were marked with a black pencil.

The pastor then applied the moral to be derived from each story to a Bible text. The students, being given the scriptural reference, would then turn to their Bibles and read from them the lesson of the day.

Explains Paper's Usefulness.

"A great and upright newspaper like THE TRIBUNE far surpasses in interest and usefulness the old fashioned Sunday school paper," said the pastor in explanation.

"We do not need to go back to Jonah and the whale—that's 'old stuff'—we have just as important lessons today in actual life.

"Here is the story of the man who killed another man for revenge. The murdered man had wronged the first man's wife. We turn to the Bible and we find in Romans, 12, this: 'Vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord.'

Moral of the Preacher.

"In the very same column with the story is the little item of the brave preacher, the Rev. Henry Bristoe Hall, who was attacked and nearly murdered by a drunken brute from whom he was trying to protect a small boy. We find in this article that the preacher is leaving vengeance to the Lord and pleads with the judge to spare the drunkard from punishment.

"Again in the same paper on the first page we find the story of the man who murdered his wife in the hotel. In perusing the story we are reminded of the verse, 'The wages of sin is death.'"

The pastor adopted THE TRIBUNE as a Sunday school text book several weeks ago.

During the church hour, when little folks usually become sleepy, Mrs. A. G. Radensel, the "church mother," gathers them into a group on the lawn back of the home of Mrs. C. S. Williston. There they read the stories of the "story lady" and look at the funny pictures while their mothers are enjoying the service. In this manner THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE is entirely utilized in the parish of the Rev. Danforth.

ANOTHER 'MISTAKE' IN PLANS FOR PIER HELPS BYRNE BID

Specification "Error" Makes Difference of $30,000 in Estimates of Cost.

ONE CONCERN WITHDRAWS

Great Lakes Company Serves Notice It Does Not Want $800,000 Contract.

LAWSUIT DELAY BLAMED ON CITY

BY OSCAR E. HEWITT.

Still another error has been found in the specifications for Chicago's new pleasure pier. Unlike the typographical, stenographic, and clerical mistakes, this inadvertence—to be polite—has an estimated value of $30,000 or more.

This "error" is considered so serious by the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company, coupled with the looseness of the plans, that its officials told the harbor commission they did not want the $800,000 job. They made formal demand for the return of their certified check for $30,000 deposited with their bid as an evidence of good faith.

Explanation of "Error."

Eliminating the technicalities, the newest error can be explained in this way: The lake at the shore is fifteen feet deep. Three thousand feet out, at the outer end of the pier, the water depth is twenty-five feet. The specifications provide a mud sill—a board—shall be bolted to the piling in the mud at the bottom of the lake. The plans show that that mud sill shall be placed at a uniform depth of twenty-five feet below city datum, which is practically the lake level. To do that at the shore and for considerable distance out, ten feet of the bottom of the lake must be removed. That means considerable dredging, and the cost comes high. If the harbor commission's plans contemplated that dredging shall be done both inside and outside of the piling, and that the inside filled with "clean sand," the additional cost is estimated at more than $30,000.

Shankland Admits Figures.

That the plans provide that the mud sill must be placed twenty-five feet below the water level is admitted under oath by E. C. Shankland, chairman of the harbor commission. He is one of the three harbor engineers, all of whom are paid $12,000 a year. He also is authority for the statement that the commission has been working on these plans "since about Feb. 7, 1912"—nineteen months.

On the plans are two drawings which measure twenty-five feet, according to the scale. Mr. Shankland scaled them while on the witness stand. Furthermore, the pictures are labeled "25 feet." Mr. Shankland describes that as both a clerical and a draftsman's mistake. The correct length at the shore line, he says, should have been fifteen feet.

Draftsman's Error, He Says.

"It looks to me now, my attention having been called to that, that the draftsman got the wrong figures in there, and instead of 25 he should have said 15," Mr. Shankland said on the witness stand.

"Now, will you scale it?" asked Attorney Rigby, counsel for Robert C. Gehrke, objector to the plans, "and see what the elevation is?"

"It scales twenty-five feet," Mr. Shankland replied.

The attorney turned attention to another drawing and asked where that indicated the mud sill should be located.

"At twenty-five feet below city datum," Mr. Shankland replied. He also said there is no other place in the plans showing the location of the mud sill.

"So it is true," the lawyer asked, "that every place the mud sill is shown on the plans it is shown, either by scale or by indication, or both, as twenty-five feet below city datum?"

"Yes," Mr. Shankland replied.

Later Mr. Shankland said he considered the blunder a "clerical error," and added:

"It is the first time it has been called to my attention."

Different Interpretations Seen.

The significance of the mistake is that all of the bidders may not have interpreted it the same way. Suppose Byrne Bros. Dredging and Engineering company thought it would not be necessary to dredge out of the lake to put the mud sill down in the water twenty-five feet. Their bid of $792,000 for the entire work does not include $30,000 for making the lake ten feet deeper at the shore line.

Suppose the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company thought it would be required to dredge out the bottom of the lake. With that interpretation their proposal of $830,000 for the complete job does include $30,000 for dredging. Subtracting $30,000 from $830,000 leaves $800,000 as the bid of the Great Lakes. Adding $30,000 to $792,000, the Byrne total, the amount is $822,000. The harbor commission has been considering that Byrne Bros. are the lowest bidder, but what they think in view of the testimony of Mr. Shankland has not been made public.

Friends of the Mayor.

The Byrne company has some stockholders who are friendly with the city administration. They contributed to Mayor Harrison's campaign fund, according to the statement he gave out at the time.

The city administration has been complaining about the delay in the harbor construction. The two delays which have occurred in the hearing for an injunction to prevent the award of any contract on the present specifications have been obtained by the city's representatives. Before the master in chancery last Thursday the city asked a continuance until tomorrow. Before Judge Petit yesterday the hearing was delayed a week because the city's lawyers were in Springfield.

Adopted Son of Loop Scrubwoman.

"PETE" PLUTTO

SCRUBS TO FEED HER ADOPTED SON

Woman Earning $7 a Week Works Nights to Support Her Child "Petey."

WALKS TO SAVE MONEY.

Years of scrubbing almost endless offices in the top three floors of the Unity building have not washed the softer emotions out of the heart of Mrs. Frances Plutto. When she goes home in early morning it is not alone to rest, it is to be with 5 year old "Petey." "Petey" is her boy by adoption. Their love for each other makes the casual spectator certain she is really his mother, but that is not the case.

"He's a—a— what you call a-ris-to-crat," she said proudly. "He won't eat dry bread"—and, still more proudly—"he wants jelly."

Walks to Save Jelly Money.

And Petey gets his jelly. His foster mother gets only $7 a week—not a large amount for keeping up her house at 2440 Southport avenue—but she walks to work when it is necessary to save money for Petey's jelly. He has a bicycle, too, and a chest of tools, and two suits.

"I'd rather lose my head than lose Petey," the "mother" said. "It was luck that I got him. My cousin told me about three children in Avondale whose aunt couldn't keep them. I went after the little girl, but some one else had taken her and I took Petey, and I'm glad I did. He has no one else but me. His father and mother are dead, and so are his aunts and uncles, and his grandmother is in the old country.

"I Know What It Is," She Says.

"I have a feeling in my heart for him. I know what it is to live out in the world alone. I know what it is to sleep in a corner on the street, in a hallway, with no place to go. That is why I feel for the poor children. Until I was 16 years old I was out, away from a mother and a home. No one shall ever separate me from Petey. He will never leave my roof."

Before leaving for her work every afternoon at 4 o'clock Mrs. Plutto takes Petey by the hand and leaves him with a watchman at the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul switch. She said she "felt easier" when she knew Petey was safe—away from street cars and bad boys. When she was in St. Elizabeth's hospital at 1433 North Claremont avenue last week, because of the pains in her back from scrubbing to support herself and Petey, the nurses said Mrs. Plutto's thoughts were constantly of the boy.

Chicago Minister Denounces Caricature of Preachers in Sargent Painting in Boston Library.

The representations of preachers in the famous mural paintings by John S. Sargent on the walls of the public library in Boston yesterday were branded as "libelous" by the Rev. William E. Barton, pastor of the First Congregational church, Oak Park.

"When I see the famous panel by Sargent in the Boston public library," Dr. Barton said, "I feel as I imagine Mrs. Pankhurst feels when she sees a fine, large, shining plate glass window. I restrain my impulse, but I feel like reaching for a brick.

"That panel is absolutely libelous. It is as gross a caricature as the stage clergyman—a lean, pale, side whiskered man in a white choker, who would hardly dare to ask for a second lump of sugar in his coffee. The prophets were men of red blood. They were heroic, virile men, not such an anemic lot as Sargent has pictured them."

Three young men, who on June 26 are alleged to have robbed Frank Miller, employed by the Consumers' company, at a branch office at 5214 South La Salle street, were arrested yesterday a short time after they had returned to Chicago. Those arrested are James Woodworth of 1243 West Seventy-third place, Frank J. Holstein of 6820 Normal avenue, and Wilbur Hard of 217 West Fifty-seventh street.

SEER DISCLOSES TAX PAID BY CRIME TO CHICAGO 'RING'

Captured Clairvoyant Russell Says That He Gave Barney Bertsche $400 a Week.

SLUGGED IF HE REFUSED

Offers Hoyne Clew to Heads of Police "Protection" Gang Who Shared Money.

OTHER INDICTMENTS EXPECTED

Details of the inner workings of the "clairvoyant trust," its profits from victims, and the amounts it paid for "protection" were made known yesterday by State's Attorney Hoyne. Mr. Hoyne intimated he was in a fair way to expose the heads of Chicago's elusive system of public "protection" to whom, he said, Bertsche paid much of the tribute he wrung from his victims. Quoting from the confession of "Old Doc Russell," the head of the "trust," Mr. Hoyne said he has sufficient evidence finally to break up the "ring" and also to bring about the indictment of several men, part of the inner circle.

Russell was arrested Friday in Columbus, O., after Mr. Hoyne, Detective Sergt. Sheehan, and Chief of Police Carter of Columbus had broken down the doors of his "spook parlor," where he was operating under the name of "Prof. Barr." Russell was hurried into a taxicab, and despite his demands for time to talk to his attorney in Columbus was placed on a train with his wife, Louise, and brought back to Chicago. Here, after being promised immunity from prosecution on five indictments against him, Russell confessed.

Features of Confession.

The salient features of Russell's confession, outlined in THE TRIBUNE and later corroborated by Mr. Hoyne, are as follows:

Barney Bertsche, now under indictment, acted as the "protection go-between" for the clairvoyants and absolutely dictated who should be permitted to operate in Chicago.

Protection payments ranged from $300 to $400 a week and 10 per cent of the profits.

Bertsche, his brother, Joe, and another man raided a "spook parlor" owned by Russell and beat the clairvoyant so severely for "holding out" he was in a hospital for weeks.

Protection is paid by the clairvoyants in every town they operate. At the time of his arrest Russell was paying $250 a week to a Columbus politician.

Heard of Bertsche System.

Russell is 65 years old and came to Chicago in August, 1911, after being told, he said, that Barney Bertsche would give the required protection. At that time Frank Ryan and Harry Wade were doing the "cream" of the clairvoyant business in Chicago.

"I came here and opened a parlor at 1128 Michigan avenue," said Russell in his confession. "I was known as Dr. Stone and had as my assistant W. H. Stone. My wife was known as 'Mme. Wayne.' My real name is William R. Russell. Willie Shea and 'Old Jeff' Tuthill were also working in Chicago paying protection to Bertsche. The price I agreed on was as follows:

"Three hundred a month and 10 per cent of profits for first month.

"$350 and 10 per cent for second month.

"$400 and 10 per cent thereafter.

"I made all payments to Bertsche personally, usually at his saloon in Randolph street, next to the temporary city hall. We decided just what men might operate and any one who tried to break in without our permission was run out of town by the police at once.

Finds Place Ransacked.

"After running about five months, Bertsche telephoned me one day to 'beat it.' I told him to go to——. He came up to my place in a taxi a short time later. I was out, but when I got back the place was ransacked.

"Three weeks later after this raid I opened a place at 1706 Michigan avenue, but I paid no protection. Bertsche sent for me but I would not pay. A few days later Bertsche, his brother Joe, and a man named Meyers came to my place. They were armed with brass knuckles and revolvers, and attacked me in my office. Bertsche knocked me down and took $40 and a diamond stickpin I had.

"They then tied me in a chair and got out a set of hair clippers and cut half of my hair from my head. They told me I would have to get out of town or they would come back and 'finish me.' As they left Joe Bertsche kicked me in the side, and then they took a diamond from my assistant, who was in the next room, and also took one from my negro attendant. I got out of town.

"Protection" in Columbus, Too.

"I left Chicago on Feb. 14 and went to Columbus. I arranged there for protection, and if my man had been in town, you never would have arrested me.

"This money paid to Bertsche was to get to the police, and I never asked who got it. All we cared about was to avoid prosecutions. Some was used to 'hush' up cases where the kicks became too strong. I have dealt with mayors, detectives, and chiefs of police in every town I operated in. I had to do it as part of my business.

"My trouble with Bertsche was caused by Frank Ryan, who had a monopoly on the graft in Chicago until I broke in. He told Bertsche I was giving him the 'double cross,' that I was not splitting the profits fairly with him. That made Bertsche tell me to close up and get out of town and then go to my place and beat me up and put his 'mark' on my head because I thought I was strong enough to fight him."

"This confession," said Mr. Hoyne, "closes our case against Bertsche. Russell has shown us the 'system' used, and I will be able to catch a few more in the net before I am through."

New Yorkers Plan Fight on Race Suicide Menace.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Some striking facts regarding "the unborn dead" are brought out in the New York Medical Journal by Dr. Lee W. Thomas, physician to the committee for the reduction of infant mortality of the New York milk committee.

He finds that the question of stillbirths is one of the most serious factors in the problems of infant mortality and the conservation of the race. How much this phase of suicide is shown by Dr. Thomas' estimate that one in every twenty-eight births is a stillbirth. This estimate, he believes, is a low one.

In New York City, in 1912, he finds that one in every twenty-two births is a stillbirth. Out of 784 cases among tenement mothers, investigated by the New York milk committee, one in every fifteen births was a stillbirth. The high rate of mortality of this class, he finds, is entirely unnecessary and a method of checking it has been worked out and put into practice in New York City with signal success.

"Out of a total of 1,867 stillbirths reported in Manhattan for the period from June 1 to Dec. 31, 1912," he says, "1,331 were reported as occurring during the viable period (seven months). This shows that 71.39 per cent of these stillbirths had a chance to be born alive had the mother received proper natal and prenatal care."

Dr. Thomas points out that the law on the subject of stillbirths is inadequate and uncertain, and, as a result, not only is there a large loophole left for criminal practices but vital statistics of American cities are made hopelessly inaccurate. There is not even any agreement among different localities as to the definition of "stillbirth," the law regarding registration of which is hopelessly lax.

How to Earn Money at Home

Why Summer's Work Went for Naught.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

HAVEN'T you succeeded with your work? Have you given up trying because you haven't been able to make as much money as you think you ought to be making? Have you tried to get along without the help of all of the other home workers and without the aid of the market place?

There are some such sad little letters come to me sometimes from women who want much to work and to make a success of their work, but who feel there isn't any use trying, because they have already invested much time and money trying, with no success whatever.

To bring success out of a failure is truly hard, but there is a wonderful advantage in having a failure behind you, in knowing the things you have learned not to do. In the days when we used to write "sentiments" in our copy books we copied many times, "Experience is the best teacher." Many of us remembered it and went ahead trying to profit by our experiences and our failures. And when we do that success is sure to come finally.

But what so many people do is to take for granted because they have failed once there is no possible success for them in that kind of work. Isn't that true?

Are you feeling that way? Have you made up your mind that because you weren't able to make a great deal of money the first time you tried to dispose of your home work there is no possibility of your making a good deal of money ever?

Here is a letter that came to me. It isn't a cheerful letter, so I'm not going to let you read all of it, but a wee bit of it may help you to see your own mistakes:

"It isn't as though I hadn't worked. I spent all summer finishing a beautiful bedspread. It is as handsome a one as I have ever seen, and it surely is worth more than $50. I said to myself I'd rather sell it for that than not to sell it at all. So I put the ridiculously low price on it. But I couldn't sell it. You can know how disappointed I am when it means a whole summer's work to me."

Can't you see plainly why she failed to make her summer work profitable? It's the old tragedy of putting all of your eggs in one basket. If you don't sell a summer's worth of work in one piece you can't sell it at all if you have that work in a bedspread or in a beautiful luncheon cloth. That sort of work is only for women who don't really need the money they want to earn. There are many risks in every sort of work. If you can scatter those risks about over twenty articles which you are offering for sale each article will have just that much more chance of being sold. But if you concentrate all of the risks in one article the chances for getting returns from your investment aren't large.

I have advised every one who has written to me and asked what sort of work to do to make the lovely, expensive things if they want to, but to make small, inexpensive articles for the foundation of their little home businesses. It's much better to sell many articles that bring in a small profit than not to sell one article that brings in a large profit. Don't you think so, too?

Has that been the trouble with your work? Have you invested too much time and energy in one thing? Why don't you begin right now, then, to make some little things you can sell for less than a dollar and that will be so attractive and so pretty they will sell right away?

Would you like to own a little booklet that tells of the successes of a hundred women? I shall be happy to send it to you if you will send me your name and address. Will you?

Don't forget about the party on Friday afternoon, when Miss Doris Keane, Miss Elsie Janis, Miss Emma Dunn, and Miss Gladys Hanson will be waiting to say how do you do to all of the home workers. They will be in the exhibit room, 512 Tribune building.

The purpose of this department is to find profitable employment for women in occupations which they can carry on at home without interfering with their domestic duties. To stimulate suggestions The Tribune will award $1 each for every help published.

Address—Sally Joy Brown, care The Tribune, Chicago.

The exhibit room in The Tribune Building is open from 9:30 a. m. to 4 p. m. except on Saturday, when it closes at 1 o'clock.

Ginger Boys for Christmas Trees.

A friend, when Christmas time comes, makes decorations for the Christmas tree out of cake dough flavored with ginger, placed on the cake board and formed into little boys, then covering the ginger boy with frosting made from confectionery sugar diluted with water and colored with either cherry juice, which will make a pinkish tint, or with lemon juice, which will make a yellow tint After this is done she attaches colored string to the head of each one. Putting all her little pink and yellow ginger boys in a basket, this girl goes to her many friends and neighbors and sells them at 10 cents each. Last year she sold thirty. She also makes other forms in the same way, such as hearts, animals, baskets, initials, etc.

Portieres from Wall Paper.

A woman of my acquaintance is adding to her income by making portieres out of wall paper scraps, and she has orders ahead for several months. The expense is for a half roll of wall paper and a bowl of glass beads. The portiere sells at $2.50, is quickly made, and readily sold.

Select a dark green paper with figured design, remove the white marginal edges, and cut strips two inches wide crosswise of paper. Nearly all paper is twenty inches wide, so the strips will be two by twenty inches. Then with sharp scissors cut these strips pennant shape or tapering one end to a sharp point. Now begin at the end which is two inches wide and roll on a knitting needle over and over until, when the tip end is reached, you have an oblong bead; remove the knitting needle and glue the end down.

About 200 of these paper beads will be required. Give them a coat of shellac and they are ready. String on heavy twine with glass beads betweeen and you have a portiere that is beautiful.

Her Best Seller.

I do all kinds of fancy work, and what I find the best seller is pads for trunks or dresser drawers, made either of soft silk or silkoline. Take two pieces of your material the length of trunk or drawer, lay a piece of sheet wadding in between, well sprinkled with sachet powder, and sew four sides together. I also, when ordered, edge the four sides with lace, which makes it good looking. They can be sold at quite a profit.

Makes Children's Bibs.

Bibs suitable for children up to 12 or older can be made for 3 cents for the material and little labor and sold for 15 cents in a ready market. One woman who makes them bought barber towels at 2½ cents each, measuring nineteen inches in length and already hemmed, and linen tape in bolts three-eighths inch wide and eighty-one inches long (enough for three bibs) at 1½ cents, making the cost for each bib 6c for linen tape. She folds the barber towel lengthwise down the middle. On one end she places a medium sized tumbler, so that half the tumbler rests on the fold and then runs a pencil around, marking a semi-circle on the folded cloth, and cuts out. When the towel is spread there will be a circular opening at one end for the neck. She then binds the edge of this opening with twenty-seven inches of the linen tape, leaving the ends to tie, and the bib is complete—durable, efficient, and marketable at 15 cents, of which 12 cents is profit.

SUFFRAGE STORE TO OPEN SOON.

Philadelphia Women Launch Project —All Articles to Be Wrapped in Literature of Cause.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The first suffrage store on a large scale to be started in this country will open here next Thursday, under charge of Mrs. George A. Peirsol, wife of Prof. Peirsol of the University of Pennsylvania. It will be in the nature of a miniature department store on the first floor, with tea and rest rooms on the second floor.

Every article in the store, from soup to soap, will be wrapped in suffrage literature and stamped with suffrage slogans, arguments, and principles. Stamped upon white toweling in big black letters is this argument:

"Taxation without representation is tyranny. Votes for women. Watch the movement grow."

The store is an undertaking of the Woman's Suffrage party of Pennsylvania, and much time, money, and planning have been spent to insure the success of the venture. Suffragists will be in charge of all departments.

Of gifts for the autumn bride, sterling silver, as always, heads the list. The reason for its unfailing popularity lies not alone in its substantial character but also in its ever-broadening field of design, purpose and usefulness. There need never be monotony in gifts of sterling silver.

We now have on display an unusual collection of silver—duplications of early English museum pieces. As there is but one copy of each article, they are very desirable additions to any collection, and any one in search of a valuable and unique wedding gift should see them.

NEWS OF THE DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL WORLD.

Miss Farrar's Public Disposed to Reticence.

BY GLENN DILLARD GUNN.

CONTRARY to custom, the 3,800 persons assembled yesterday afternoon in the Auditorium theater to enjoy the art of Miss Geraldine Farrar, Clarence Whitehill, and Fritz Kreisler, elected to honor the participants in the concert according to their artistic deserts, rather than in proportion to the publicity they have enjoyed. Mr. Kreisler was acclaimed the master violinist. Mr. Whitehill was received with great cordiality. But Miss Farrar, heretofore an idol of the public, who seemingly could do no wrong in their eyes, had to work and to wait for the recognition which for many years has been accorded her instantly.

If she was pained by the reticence of her listeners during the earlier numbers of the program she may derive satisfaction from the knowledge that her final group was all that her most ardent admirers could wish. Vocally it was glorious in its ease, in the full, pure resonance of the tone, that with all its capacity for varied quality and all its amplitude in power, range, and volume, has retained its girlish freshness.

The breadth and scope of interpretative art disclosed was no less admirable. She knew how to invest the oriental melody of Mussorgsky's "Little Star" with all the glamour of the night. She exulted with Rubinstein's "Lark," and was whimsical and capricious with his "Willful Child." "He Loves Me," by Tchaikowsky, and "Dedication," by Strauss, were lifted to splendid heights of dramatic eloquence, and Sinding's "Sylvelin" became an exquisite fragment of tone poetry, long to be treasured gratefully in the listener's recollection.

The vocal shortcomings observed in previous divisions of the program that were entrusted to Miss Farrar must explain in part the coldness of her audience. For it must be recorded that the tone was not always perfect; that it occasionally was attacked somewhat uncertainly and sustained unevenly and with evident effort; that there were few niceties of diction, because the enunciation frequently was unclear; that, finally, several of the songs selected were ungrateful and others seemed to lie beyond the range of the singer's musical and dramatic powers.

In the latter category must be listed the two ballads by Loewe, which concluded her second group. They are old fashioned, but a master of interpretative resource like David Bispham has shown that they still can be made to develop more than mere historic interest. Miss Farrar succeeded in making them tedious, and the demand for an encore at their conclusion was not as insistent as she seemed to believe. However, she used it to efface an unfavorable impression with an exquisitely poised and controlled delivery of Massenet's "Ouvre tes yeux bleus." After the beautifully sung final group Miss Farrar also was constrained to add two encores, Chadwick's "The Maiden and the Butterfly," to which she supplied her own accompaniment, and Hugo Wolf's "I'm Not as Other Lassies Are."

If the explanation for Miss Farrar's comparitive lack of success on purely artistic grounds is incomplete, that admission is made reluctantly because it involves the further admission that in certain matters the Chicago public still is provincial. When the singer stepped upon the stage the outburst of applause which greeted her was lost in the gasp of astonishment which welcomed her gown. Even those whose eyeballs have grown callouses admiring the promenade on Michigan avenue admitted that it was a daring garment. Some of her listeners were too much embarrrassed to follow her song attentively. But there were moments when that condition was not a disadvantage.

Mr. Kreisler chose to recall himself to his friends in Chicago with a Handel sonata, three of his revisions of old French and Italian masterpieces, his "Caprice Viennois" and "Tambourin Chinois." The sonata was not heard, but in the remaining numbers he displayed an art which must be described as the most satisfying known to the concert hall today. Mr. Kreisler's violin is even more eloquent than Mr. Busoni's piano, and if its limitations are more definite its prerogatives also are more wonderful. To its tone belongs a glamour, an illusion of greatness, a searching, penetrating appeal, rich in feeling and in sentiment. Its song is the poised and finished expression of a musical nature dowered with a wealth of poetry, great in its capacity to reveal beauty.

Mr. Whitehill's contributions to the program were made significant first of all by the splendid attributes of vocal art displayed. The tone is massive but wonderfully pliable, yielding to every expressive impulse, underscoring each melodic inflection with well considered emphasis. Furthermore, it is as faultlessly sustained as the tone of a 'cello, and as rich in color and in feeling. As a notable example of sustained and eloquent song his delivery of the "Sapphic Ode" of Brahms must be especially remarked. Equally admirable was his version of Strauss' "Dream Through the Twilight" and the same master's "Caecelie," given as an encore, made successful excursion into more dramatic realms.

Miss Maggie Teyte, as dainty and as pretty as ever, her voice as clear and pure, and perhaps a bit more powerful, made her first appearance this season in Orchestra hall before an audience of goodly numbers, that was cordial in its applause and insistent in demand for encores, graciously given. Fleeting impressions of the recital confirm the verdict of former seasons. Miss Teyte is still most to be admired as an interpreter of Debussy.

Her voice, slightly cold in the less congenial offerings which opened the program, warmed and softened to the delicate mezzo tints of "C'est l'extase langoureux" and the succeeding airs of the French master. "Fantoches," particularly familiar from last year's program, was repeated. "Romance" and the characteristic "Femmes de Paris" were followed by "J'ai pleuré en revant" as an encore. The group was marked by the precise enunciation, the clarity and beauty of tone and thought and the devoted interpretive powers of the artist, essential to Debussy, of which Miss Teyte has all in great abundance.

Equally worthy of commendation was the air from "Louise," "Depuis le jour," which closed the first group and gave full promise of the beauties that were to be revealed in the Debussy numbers. There were further the melodious "Heimliche Aufforderung" of Strauss, Schuman's "Ich grolle nicht," and the graceful but not particularly important "Invocazione a Venere" of Attilio Parelli, that pleased.

An impression of the pianistic art of Sidney Silber obtained from the performance of one work must necessarily be incomplete, the more so since that composition happened to be MacDowell's "Sonata Tragica," the least important of his four sonatas. When, however, the impression records a masterful grasp of the composition plus a faculty to exalt its advantages and to minimize its shortcomings by a comprehensive command of the resources of the instrument it suffices to proclaim Mr. Silber a recreative artist of rare gifts and a virtuoso besides.

It is evident that he has studied his instrument faithfully and his art to as good purpose. But it is evident, also, that he is a pianist by native talent; that he discovers in the instrument that medium of expression best fitted to his natural inclinations, and that he plays it because he has a great deal to say that can be said in no other way. One is persuaded that anything which Mr. Silber may have to offer to the public will be well worth hearing; that in years to come he will be heard widely, and that his art will reflect much honor upon the land that gave him birth. His recital was given in the Joe Howard theater before a small audience.

The gathering that listened to Oscar Deis in the Fine Arts theater also was numerically unimposing. The comparison need not end there, for Mr. Deis likewise proved himself a pianist well equipped with the mechanics of his art and admirably endowed with an appreciation of its beauties. He gave a well planned reading of the Bach D minor toccata and fugue in the wonderful Busoni transcription, wherein was displayed a nicely balanced scheme of tonal contrasts. Beethoven's quaint and charming studies on Scotch folk-tunes—also revised for concert performance by Busoni—served to display the pianist's especial talent for dainty effects. Less fortunate was the G minor rhapsody of Brahms, which was delivered without decision and rather inaccurately.

Clarence Whitehill will be heard in recital next Sunday afternoon in the Studebaker theater. His program will represent France with songs by Frank Chausson, and Massenet; Italy with a song by Zandonai; Germany with lieder by Schubert, Kaun, and Strauss; America with songs by Schindler, Carpenter, Borowski, Alnaes, and Harty.

The Paulist choristers of Chicago, Father William J. Finn, musical director, will give a concert at the Studebaker Sunday afternoon, Nov. 2, at 3:30. The choristers will have the assistance of a string quartet.

Plan Two Concerts.

The Marshall Field & Co. Choral society will give two concerts this season. The first will consist of part songs and will be given on Dec. 4. The second, to be given on April 14, will consist of Sullivan's "Golden Legend" and Grieg's "Olaf Trygvason." Members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra and prominent soloists will assist.

BY PERCY HAMMOND.

THE longing for news concerning Mr. Chauncey Olcott's identity in his current play, "Shameen Dhu," will be appeased at once, despite the temptation to withhold, for a time, the surprising information.

He is, oddly enough, a blithe Irish patriot, somewhat of a troubadour—jocund of speech, cheerful of raiment, brave, tender, kind, and true, though not averse, at frequent intervals, to sounding the tinsel clink of compliment.

Also is he in love with Peggy O'Dea, a lovely maiden, and kept from her white arms by a misunderstanding. Opposed to him in the events of the play is a gaunt marplot, McGleesh, who, in the dead of night, steals the papers and makes chill plans to send him to the gibbet. Expert at discomfiture in the nick of time, he turns the tables by a pretty trick, and is unharmed. His sentimental adventures result as felicitously as his political ones, and at the end he leaves the story with a song on his lips, a smile in his eyes, and the lady of his heart safely enchained.

Composition of a report of Mr. Olcott's soothing exhibitions is always interfered with in this quarter at least, by an urgent passion to whistle "My Wild Irish Rose." Like the bands in the cafés, when Mr. Olcott enters, one is impelled at sight or at thought of him to strike up that caressing melody and let the prose of other affairs wait until the final insidious minor has been reluctantly sounded. After the second act of all of Mr. Olcott's plays Mr. Olcott comes before the curtain. As his snowy ruff appears from behind the proscenium a dozen eager voices shout, "My Wild Irish Rose!" "My Wild Irish Rose!" Whereupon, the orchestra having the music ready, Mr. Olcott sings "My Wild Irish Rose," and sings it again while rapture beams from the faces before him. Usually Mr. Olcott says: "My only hope is that I shall live in your hearts as long as has this little song." He did not say that last evening at the Olympic, for one of his auditors had slumbered during the proceedings and had to be graciously reprimanded, as did an industrious water bearer in the center aisle.

But he sang it sweetly, and no one, not even the admonished slumberer, seemed to regret the expenditure of his time and his dollar when it was finished. Mr. Olcott is a classic. He renews himself. He is as fresh and as joyous this year as he was last, and as he will be next. His song is clear and certain; his laugh is soft and melting; his manner easy and ingratiating, and his appearance sprightly and youthful. There are moments in "Shameen Dhu" when one is disposed to lose patience with the lady who wrote it, because it is so sheerly shoddy. You have suspicions about it from the first, when you see the actors overworking, trying to crank it up, with much physical and vocal exertion. Not much happens at any time, and that little is even more trite and inconsistent than usual. All but Mr. Olcott's ballads. They are alluring. "My Little Dhudeen," for instance, is an epitome of all the irresistible harmonies in minor Irish ditties, and "Dream Girl o' Mine," sung in the moonlight, is nothing for one to hear if he wishes to preserve the austerity of a chaste musical judgment.

The telephone rings and futile inquiry is made as to the meaning of "Shameen Dhu." That important bit of detail is not explained on the playbill, and none of Mr. Olcott's executive retinue possesses the information. However, Mr. Olcott is a patriotic journalist in the play, writing odes and editorials for the American revolutionists under the pseudonym of "Shameen Dhu." The heroine, impersonated with few affected languors by Miss Constance Molineaux, is an American girl, called to Ireland by the necessities of the revolution, and she has fallen in love with the literary output of this Irish bard. But he is otherwise and unwillingly affiliated with Sheila, a rich widow, and thus are the romantic impediments provided. The players know their Chauncey Olcott, and the performance is, therefore, expert.

Miss Nethersole's appearance in Chicago will be at the Palace during the week of Dec. 1. She will present the high lights of "Sapho's" third act and a playlet called "The End of the Honeymoon" by Mrs. W. K. Clifford, the English writer of fiction.

Acting with Frank McIntyre in 'Oh, Oh, Delphine" are Scott Welsh, Frank Doane, George A. Beane, George S. Christie, Alfred Fisher, and the Misses Grace Edmond, Octavia Broske, Stella Hoban, Helen Raymond.

Happenings In and About the Theaters.

THE departure of Mr. Bennett and "Damaged Goods" from the Blackstone yesterday was taken regretfully, after two performances of Mr. Brieux's helpful horror before two "capacity" audiences. Both in the afternoon and evening hundreds were turned away. Some of those bereft thus of their pleasure beseeched the management to give a performance beginning at midnight, but plans for transportation to St. Louis prevented. So they fortified themselves by the purchase of volumes of the "Know Thyself" literature in the foyer and arranged to have the warning bestowed at home. It is not betraying a confidence to state that Mr. Bennett's receipts last week were in the neighborhood of $13,000.

Strife in the Polaire-Richardson-Hoffman combination is reported to have reached such an acute stage that the tour is in peril of dissolution. Among the causes for turmoil are cited the predilection of Miss Hoffman's husband, the leader of the band, to give her the preference in the matter of encores; the impossibility of retaining a crew in the private car; differences of opinion about closed windows; the warring scents used by the ladies; the assignment of dressing rooms; and Mme. Polaire and Lady Constance's habit of disguising their thoughts from Miss Hoffman by speaking French, which she does not understand.

Announcement is made that Miss Edna May pines to return to the stage and that she will do so in November via the varieties. She will sing alone.

William Collier, it is said, will join William H. Crane next month in the performance of "The Henrietta," taking the late Stuart Robson's rôle of Bertie the Lamb.

The rumored marriage of Miss Ethel Levey and F. Ziegfeld Jr. appears to be the most enthralling item in the week's gossip of that large part of humanity which finds interest in the private doings of persons of the theater.

George Bronson-Howard, who says that he wrote all of "The Double Cross," is to publish a new play of his making called "The Red Light of Mars."

Owen Johnson is to make a play from his novel called "The Salamanders."

Miss Maire O'Neill, who is come to this country to play the chief feminine character in "General John Regan," wishes to go back with the right to act Miss Laurette Taylor's part in "Peg o' My Heart" in London. Miss O'Neill is the sister of Miss Sara Allgood, and was the latter's predecessor as leading actress with the Irish Players.

"The Money Moon" is not to be ventured with in New York City, although its author, J. Hartley Manners, remains firm in the belief that its Chicago fiasco was due to the radical action of the theater's manager placing a flat price of 50 cents on all seats remaining unsold after 7:30 o'clock.

Here's one reason playwrights do not give more seats to their friends on opening nights. After the first performance of "Today," one of George Broadhurst's intimate friends wrote him:

"Dear George: I forgive you for disgusting me, but not for boring me."

"Angels Without Wings," a comedy by Laurence Eyre, is soon to be acted by Miss Alice Brady, Charles Milward, Miss Florine Arnold, and others.

Marion Harland's Helping Hand.

By Marion Harland

More Wrong Addresses.

MAY I ask that Mrs. S., requesting from us information respecting kindergartens involving the publication of the names of business houses, will favor us with another address than that new in our hands? A letter containing the information we hoped would be helpful to her has been returned to us for "more explicit directions." As the envelope bore the name of the town taken from her communication we are utterly at a loss how to get at her. And will E. L. G. oblige us with her name in full? It is not enough to say: "Please let me hear from you," or "Kindly refer those interested in this matter to me," when we have no signature except initials. Correspondents who observe and comply with our rules respecting letters have our grateful affection. I do not put this too strongly in recalling the thrill of satisfaction that pervades the editorial being when we receive a letter written in ink, upon one side of the sheet, signed with name in full, the number of street and house, and the name of the city from which it is written. Easy rules—all of them. Yet we get every day scores of letters written in pencil, on both sides of the sheet—sometimes crossed—and bearing initialed signatures with the abhorred word "city" in place of the name of the town in which the writer lives. If I recur often to the topic it is because the infliction is continuous and galling.

Problem of Living.

"I am writing for an answer to our long and weary problem. What can we do and live? My husband and I have been 'doing' ever since we were babies, and now just over the threshold of 30 we are old and still dependent upon drudgery to keep hunger from our household of babies. Now for the third time we have put the greater part of our earnings—since the husband got his last job, a little more than a year ago—into a home. The effort has been too much and we can't pay the balance and doctor's bills, and he can't hold his job if he doesn't gain in strength. How can we add to the $500 already in our home, live, and gain in health?

"MRS. M. N. D."

The address is at the service of any one who can think up a way of relieving the perplexity of the devoted wife. This is not a call for charity but for practical counsel. The saying that "the world owes every man a living" is lightly quoted by those whose "withers are unwrung." Will our business men show a way out of the slough in which the worthy couple, who are more than willing to work, are sunk? It is a too common problem. How may this particular pair wrest an honest living from the world?

Truss Would Help Old Man.

"I know a deserving old man, nearly helpless, who, if he could get a double truss (or, if his luck must not be so great, one for the right side will do), may continue to do light odd jobs to keep himself alive in his dollar a week room with bread and coffee. If you wish to investigate, I give you the address of the one on whose behalf I ask it of you, and thank you very much, without regard to the outcome of my request.

"J. S. S."

A steady friend of the Corner and a co-laborer whose communication must be read with thought.

Would Give Lessons for Work.

"I wish to inform the Corner I have a go-cart that will be better than none to some poor mother. Any one who can make use of it may have it for the asking. I should also be glad to give lessons in elocution, physical culture, and oil or china painting in exchange for doing my washing, ironing, or any kind of housework.

MRS. W. A. B."

The go-cart will not be left long in your keeping. Mothers know too well the advantages of fresh air and exercise to babies and to themselves to overlook the gift. And there is many a girl who would like to exchange her skill in housework for one of the accomplishments you enumerate. The opportunity may be a step in the ladder that leads to a higher sphere.

Wants to Be an Architect.

"I have a son in a soldiers' orphans' home. He will be 16 this month, and, of course, I want him to come to me. His father was killed in the Spanish-American war. I am doing private nursing and just room here. This young man wants to be an architect, and the men with whom he has been working under at the school say he has broad ideas in that line. Some of the furniture he has made, including an office desk, has been inspected by the state board. Will some one please gives me some insight as to how I can get him a good position that he may be able to take up the work of his heart's desire?

MRS. E. F."

We have in our constituency architects of merit and standing, and the corner in all its membership delights to encourage young men to develop talents that may lead to usefulness to their generation. I commit this mother's story of her boy's abilities and her ambitions to these men. How may he most surely gain the education and practice he craves?

Book of Quilt Designs.

"I should like much to know where to get a book of quilt designs for a dear old lady friend who pieces quilts. Perhaps some one knows and will be kind enough to tell me through the Corner.

MRS. L. W. H."

Referred. I hold the applicant's address.

Roses and Ribbons Add to the Glory of Dress.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Marvelous and costly fantasies are being wrought these days with brocaded ribbons and jeweled roses of all descriptions. Drawn into use on practically every article of the modern woman's attire, their vogue has never before been so tremendous. From the frivolous touch of the beaded ribbon on the latest cothern slipper to the exquisitely jeweled rose on the filmy skirt of the newest net combination suit these delightful accessories are penetrating every nook and cranny of feminine apparel.

Huge ribbon sashes and girdles of startling variety are being shown on some of the latest models. Novelty ribbon beltings four inches wide and of such exquisite and intricate design as to resemble hand embroidered bands more than ribbons are popular from their daring combination of colors. Violet, green, pink, rich browns, and tan are mingled together to form a witching tout ensemble, the perfect color note to strike with the somber shadings of some of the fall evening gowns.

The gorgeous hues of the Roman stripings are revealed in almost infinite combinations, moiré ribbon being generally used for these Roman effects. These same Roman silks in the stripings are effective also in the making of waistcoats and elaborately draped girdles. One particularly handsome ribbon pattern is that of a sapphire blue satin, embroidered in gold, which has been made up into a striking waistcoat model.

A rose and ribbon combination which figured strikingly at a recent smart function was a gown of rich blue silk splashed over with Marechal roses in two tones and supplemented by wonderfully shaded foliage on the impressionistic order. At the corsage was a single large rose, made up in the same shade chiffon and silk, and glittering with rhinestones. About the train of the gown and edging it for nearly two yards was a wreath of the same color rose buds. Considering the riot of roses in the gown, it might seem to present rather of a medley, but the exquisite harmony of the color scheme saved it from any such opprobrium.

Jeweled roses are being drawn into service in catching the lower edge of the frilled lamp shade tunic to the skirt proper. Other extremists are wearing the rose directly in the middle of the back, in the place of the ribbon butterfly bow, which is trying to the woman who is out of her 20s, and which women here refused emphatically to adopt with any enthusiasm or interest.

Buried in the fur depths of Poiret's "muff sleeves" are to be seen tiny rose buds peeping out, while again the suggestion of a rose is to be glimpsed in the scalloped edgings of some of the newest wired tunics, outlined to give the impressions of delicate rose petals.

A handsome sash of emerald green and gold ribbon finishes this evening gown of white and gold brocade. Double tunic of gold lace.

Doris Blake's Advice

Pre-Marriage Confessions.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

IT is one of the curious characteristics of human nature that when two people fall in love with one another they almost invariably feel jealous of each other's past.

Correspondingly, it is one of the curious conventions of life that when two people become engaged they seldom dream of going to the altar until they have made a confession to one another of all the misdeeds, great and small, all the flirtations and follies and indiscretions of which they were guilty before they made one another's acquaintance.

Now, there are a good many human instincts which are better suppressed than humored. There are a good many conventions which it would be wiser to ignore than to obey.

Confession may occasionally be good for the soul, as the proverb alleges. But more often the confession of lovers is bad for their future life together.

To a large extent the girls and women of the world are responsible for the convention of confession. They like to marry with nothing on their minds. They feel that the man who loves them should know all about them, that marriage should begin with a confidence which is mutual and complete. Their motives are excellent—but a bit misguided.

Confidence can exist without confession, because confidence is born of love—not of knowledge.

Confession, moreover, very often involves the betrayal of secrets in which other people are concerned. This is an important factor which does not seem always to strike a woman.

It is not even as though confession were a sign of strength. On the contrary, it is generally only a proof of weakness. We confess not so much because we want other people to know the worst as well as the best of us, as because we are afraid that our misdeeds may find us out.

We reveal—just as we conceal—through fear. And the fear that reveals is the more contemptible when it sacrifices others.

The average layman is not qualified for the part of father confessor. He has had his own little so called love affairs. He has indulged in his own escapades. He has committed his own indiscretions. And he knows well enough that it is inevitable, if his girl has any attraction for other men, that she should have had her own escapades and committed her own indiscretions also. Why confess when the past may be taken for granted?

Lovers' confessions may embitter the future. They cannot obliterate the past.

Does She Love Him?

"Dear Miss Blake: I am 20. I have been keeping company with a nice young man for almost a year now. He is 22. He says he loves me very much, and I admire him very much, but don't really believe I love him as I should to become his wife, as that is his desire. How shall I prove to myself that I do or do not? I do not want to marry, as I am the only girl at home, and get most anything I want. I go with other boys and he never goes with other girls. He often says I'll be sorry for the way I treat him. What does he mean? My mother does not like him very well. Is that the cause of my indifference? He often tells me he does not think I love him. I have told him I do not know. Is it right for a girl to go with a young man when she knows he is engaged to another girl?

MARIE."

If you loved the man I am sure there would not be any question in your mind about it. I don't attach any importance to his remark about your being sorry for the way you treat him. That is rather a childish thing for a man to say! It is most unfair for a girl to go about with a man whom she knows to be engaged to another girl. This is one of the cases where the golden rule well may be applied. "Think of the girl he is engaged to, and don't try to make her unhappy," is the nice girl's maxim.

Is Engaged to Another.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a young girl of 19 and am in love with a young man eight years my senior. He has taken me out for six months, and now I find out that he is engaged to another girl in a small town. I inherited quite a large sum of money about the same time he began paying attention to me. Do you think he only cares about my money? My mother wants me to give him up and is making life miserable for me. I cannot give him up. What would you advise me to do?

ETHELYNE."

Knowing nothing at all about the young man, it would be extremely difficult for me to say whether or not he is attracted by your money. But if he is engaged to another girl and is trying to make you believe you are "the only girl," he certainly is a deceitful unprincipled creature, and the sooner you break with him the better.

Public Manners.

[Copyright: 1913: By Lillian Russell].

If you prefer to have your question answered by individual letter please send stamped envelope.

WHY some women assume bad manners when in public I am at a loss to understand. Surely they cannot be under the impression that they are in any way superior to others who happen to be near them, for they do not know who the others are. And by assuming a superior manner they become ridiculous to every one around them.

I occupied a box at a theater recently and was unfortunate enough to be placed just behind three women who were all stout and who wore large hats. After first removing my hat I asked the usher to request the women to remove theirs, as my party could not see any part of the stage unless they did so. At first they positively refused to comply with my request, but finally two of them ungraciously removed the offenders, turned and looked us over as if we were something offensive, and between the acts they discussed us loudly in anything but a complimentary way.

One of the women, perhaps, had an excuse for not wishing to remove her hat, for she was gotten up most studiously. She wore a violently red gown with a brilliant red hat and gloves to match. She was the real thing in melodrama adventuresses, but only in her dress, for not only by her actions but by the expression of her face it was plain to be seen she had not intelligence enough to fill such a part.

Now, as a matter of fact, she was pretty. I studied her carefully. And had she removed her red hat gracefully and graciously she would have looked really beautiful. In the first place the red hat was not becoming to her. She had brown hair and blue eyes and a good complexion. All color in her face looked faded under the red hat. Not only would her complexion have looked fresher and brighter, but the thought of graciousness in her mind would have softened and beautified her countenance.

I could not help but study that woman; she was a living illustration of my theory that all beauty is from within. Her disagreeable, conceited manner destroyed all womanly beauty and made a sneer distort her otherwise good features. I hope she will learn, without any unhappy experiences, that a smile can change the appearance of any woman in the world, even if she be ugly to look at when in repose, and that a sneer can mar the most beautiful face.

Remember: A few public rehearsals of gracious manners may make a good performer.

Economical Housekeeping

Eating Enough: Rice Croquettes.

WHAT is a delicate eater, and why delicate? The delicate eater is so for one of two reasons (there are hardly likely to be any others except, possibly, a persona idiosyncrasy): (1) From lack of proper nourishment, and (2) from lack of variety in food. It is no credit to a woman to have her confess that she is a delicate eater. It is a misfortune of which she ought to be ashamed, unless she is poor.

Children and women are delicate eaters often, not because they are children or women, but because they have not eaten the right things in the right proportions. It does not take scientific knowledge necessarily, but great common sense and good will power, to eat right and keep up the appetite.

A variety of foods will keep up the appetite when nothing else can, but when a man or woman is properly nourished the appetite will not need pampering in this or any other way.

Thousands of women acquire delicate appetites because they do not eat enough, even when worlds depend on their right behavior in this respect, as well as their own health through a whole lifetime. Think of the women who suffer for a lifetime and spend thousands for sorrow instead of joy, when they might have been both joyful and affluent, instead, by merely eating right. This is no exaggeration.

A fast day once in a while, if intelligently planned, may serve a good purpose, if it is a rest day also. But a woman who goes without her full day's ration once a week, or even oftener, yet tries to do work needing the full energy supplied by the ration, is bound to be a good deal behind on health and endurance at the end of a year.

Any woman knows that she cannot cook a meal without sufficient fire. She ought to know that she cannot do anything but drag through a day unless she has a large surplus of stored up energy, as few women have, if she supplies her system with no more fuel than what in a stove would be just sufficient to raise water to the tepid point.

A rice croquette when well made, and it is mos easily and simply made if one is used to deep fat frying, is a highly acceptable food, and one which will almost always tempt even the so-called delicate eater. It may be made plain or sugar may be added to make a sweet croquette, and to this latter may be added candied orange peel or other candied fruit or fruit flavors.

RICE CROQUETES—Blanch or parboil any chosen measure of rice in boiling and slightly salted water for five minutes, letting it boil rapidly until the rice takes it up, as it usually will in five minutes. Add the same measure of hot milk and steam until the rice is tender in a double boiler. When the rice has taken up all the milk it ought to be tender. Take from stove and add about a tablespoon of butter and one yolk of egg for each original half cup of rice. Spread on a shallow plate, make up into croquettes when cold, dip in egg and bread crumbs, and fry in deep fat.

If sweet croquettes are desired use sugar to taste, or about two tablespoons may be added with the egg and butter. If it is sugar in which vanilla beans have steeped all the better. Some people like a little nutmeg. One-third of a cup of rice boiled in two-thirds of a cup of water, then in two-thirds of a cup of milk, will make four croquettes, but with more rice, the liquids should be scantily doubled.

Geneva Home Inmate Confesses and Deputy Plunks Sweetheart with Bullet—A. L. Kanter Later Arrested.

One of the girls in the State Home for Girls at Geneva tearfully informed the superintendent Saturday night she had arranged to elope with a man who was to stand outside the building late in the evening. She said four other girls were going to run away, too.

The superintendent telephoned the Kane county sheriff, and Deputy Warren M. Andrews crept up and hid in a clump of bushes. A young man appeared, gazing at the windows. Andrews stepped out and ordered him to stand. The stranger drew a revolver and fired twice, then ran down the lane with the deputy sheriff after him, both firing.

The stranger escaped, but on Andrews' declaration he must have hit him. There was a search yesterday through the town of Geneva. Arthur Lee Kanter was found abed with a bullet wound in his leg. Despite his denials he was looked up and will be arraigned today, when the penitent girl will be on hand to identify him.

STREET CAR TAKES JOY RIDE.

Thirty-first Street Trolley, Left by Crew, Decides to Make the Trip Alone, but Passerby Spoils Jaunt.

A Thirty-first street car went for a little run all by itself yesterday. No one was hurt. The car was left at the east terminal at Lake Park avenue by its crew. They were no sooner out of sight than the car started west. It had nearly reached Cottage Grove avenue when J. R. Hackman of 545 East Thirty-first street jumped on the car, put on the brakes, and stopped it.

The conductor reached the car after it had been stopped. He told spectators he had fallen off the rear platform.

BAREFOOT DANCES ON LAWN GIVEN BY NEW YORK WOMEN.

Outdoor Festival Presented at Lewisohn's Country Place—Dancers Brave Raw Day in Scanty Attire.

New York, Oct. 19.—[Special.]—A spectacular festival dance was given on the lawn of Adolph Lewisohn's beautiful country seat back of Ardsley yesterday afternoon by Florence Fleming Noyes, assisted by a number of young society women.

Miss Noyes, who designed the dance and costumes, danced barefooted on the lawn. It was a raw afternoon but the other young women, although scantily attired, braved the chill elements to present an entertainment of rare charm. The setting was perfect, the lawn used as a stage offering trees in autumn dress as background.

About 500 men and women witnessed the spectacle. Among the young women taking part were Mrs. J. Wood Rutter and the Misses Eva Ingersoll Brown, Margaret Bernard, Florence Farley, Marjorie Wiggin, Frances and Alice Judson, and Frances Montague Ward. Miss Beulah E. Hepburn, who took the parts of Flora and Diana, was particularly charming and graceful.

The festival was for the benefit of the Dobbs Ferry forum.

MOTH COLLECTION FOR NATION.

Largest Variety of Specimens in the World Being Mounted for Exhibit in Smithsonian Institution.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—A swarm of 200,000 butterflies descended on Washington some time on Saturday and lighted at the Smithsonian institution. No damage was done.

The national museum is to be their permanent home, and they are now being mounted and classified by William Schaus and a score of assistants.

Mr. Schaus and J. T. Barnes have spent a lifetime collecting these 200,000 butterflies, and have visited the wilds of Patagonia, the jungles of Costa Rica, the forests of Cuba, the shores of Africa, the barbaric countries of Asia, and have scoured the American continents and Europe and Australia in search of obscure varieties of moths.

FLEET OF NATIONS PLANNED FOR 1915

Seventy-five Big Warships Expected to Anchor at Hampton Roads.

CANAL TRIP THE PROGRAM

Japan Finds Its Commerce Will Be Greatly Benefited When Ditch Is Opened.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—Anchored in Hampton roads early in 1915 will be the greatest international fleet ever gathered in American waters, assembled in answer to the invitation of the United States government to celebrate the completion of the Panama canal by making a voyage to the Pacific through the new waterway.

The precise number of vessels which will be in the famous roadstead is not yet known to the officials of the navy department in charge of the arrangements for rendezvous, as so far there have been no formal responses received to the invitations dispatched by the state department to all of the nations of the world.

Squadrons from Some Nations.

Some of the nations with great navies may be represented by squadrons of four or more warships; others by only one or two, and some of the countries practically without navies including vessels of the first class will be represented only in the personnel of their legations and commissions to the Panama-Pacific exposition.

The exact date of the rendezvous probably will be announced within the next two months.

The formal invitation of the United States was dispatched to all the diplomatic officers of the United States abroad on Sept. 17 last by Secretary Bryan.

Great Ships to Gather.

It is expected that the American invitation will meet with general acceptance, and the result will be the gathering of a fleet of perhaps 75 or 100 warships of the best type, for the reason that slow and antiquated vessels would be unable to keep pace with the rest of the fleet in the cruise from Hampton roads to the Golden Gate.

The ceremonies at Hampton roads and the time required for a visit to Washington by the foreign visitors will consume about a week or ten days, and then, headed by the American fleet, probably with the superdreadnaught New York at the right of the column, the great armada will take its way southward for Colon.

It is estimated that about four days will be required to pass the fleet through the locks and the canal, and about twice that length of time will suffice to replenish the coal bunkers and oil tanks of the ships before they resume their cruise, this time steaming northward for San Francisco.

CANAL TO HELP JAPAN.

TOKIO, Oct. 19.—Japan expects to make long strides in its foreign commerce as a result of the opening of the Panama canal. The ports on the eastern coast of both South and North America are at once opened up to its export trade, and everything possible will be done to find markets there for Japanese goods.

The present trade routes from Japan to European ports by way of the Suez canal will not be affected by the operation of the Panama route.

New lines of steamers eventually will be sent to New York and to the eastern coast of South America, where Japan hopes to find big markets for its china and lacquered ware, its straw mattings and straw braids, as well as its teas, and at the same time increase its markets for raw silk.

Another important benefit to Japan will be the canal will be diversion of much of the freight which now is transported to points on the Pacific slope of the United States, and thence shipped by rail to eastern states.

Another important benifit to Japan will be that of permitting it to send direct to Brazil, and later possibly to other countries, Japanese emigrants, who are expected to go to South America in increasingly large numbers.

CANAL NOT READY TILL 1915.

The general impression that the Panama canal is completed and that the ships of the world are about to use the same is wrong, according to Ray L. Smith of the Washington office of the Isthmian canal commission, who is returning to Washington tomorrow after a short stay in Chicago.

"While the spectacular part of the work of completing the canal is about over," said Mr. Smith, "much still remains to be done, and the commerce of the world probably will not be able to use the canal before the official time for opening Jan. 1, 1915."

Mr. Smith has been in Chicago recruiting wiremen for high tension electrical construction work.

STATISTICAL REVIEW OF FINANCIAL WEEK THE WORLD OVER

An almost steady decline in level of Wall street security values, under persistent selling. Railroad and industrial stocks move downward on every day until Friday, leading issues losing from 2 to 5 points. Southern Pacific falls below price at which Union Pacific sold its holdings, to lowest record of the year. Weakness of that issue one of most striking features of the stock markets. Foreign bourses depressed, with lower range of prices. Money and exchange rates show little variation.

"TRIBUNE" REPORTER TAKES BOX OF TOOLS TO "WILLIE."

Boy "Electrician" at Oak Forest Tuberculosis Hospital Pleased with Gift of "Mechanic."

A TRIBUNE reporter yesterday delivered to "Willie" at the Oak Forest Tuberculosis hospital the box of tools given him by "a mechanic."

There was everything that "Willie"—or Rinehardt Katz—could use, and everything he wanted, except a mouth organ, green lamps, and a few other trifles.

"Hello, old fellow," he yelled to the reporter, "I've been waiting for you. What d'you bring me this time? A mouth organ? I want a hammer and a pair of pliers to cut wire with."

Then there was the opening the box, the inspection of the new treasures—and when he opened a letter inside the box there was a quarter and some good advice "from your friend, A Mechanic."

But Willie also has a tale of woe. They make him go to school out there, and it breaks up his day. He wants the reporter to use his influence to have this foolishness stopped. He wants to work, and he has no time when he has to learn lessons all day.

District Attorney at Green Bay, Wis., Will Seek Court Order Placing Six Babies in State Institution.

Green Bay, Wis., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Acting under orders of the district attorney, Sheriff Kolocheski this afternoon closed the home for infants conducted by Mrs. Olive Murphy, who was arrested yesterday charged with placing a baby in a home for adoption without authorization by the state.

Six babies were taken from the place and placed in the care of trained nurses. Tomorrow District Attorney Davis will ask the court for an order to have the children placed in the state children's home at Sparta.

"It is apaprent to me," Davis said, "that some of these children have been neglected, and from our investigation we find that there was no one competent in Mrs. Murphy's home to care for the babies.

FUNK TRIAL STARTS TUESDAY?

Attorneys for Both Sides Predict Big Case Actually Will Begin Tomorrow Morning.

With eight jurors selected and sworn in, attorneys for the state and the defense in the prosecution of Daniel Donahoe and Isaac Stiefel, accused of conspiracy to defame Clarence S. Funk as punishment for his testimony in the Lorimer expose, expect the actual trial to start by tomorrow morning.

Judge Pam expects to have the four remaining jurors chosen today, so that the opening arguments can begin at once. It was decided yesterday by Assistant State's Attorneys Bell and Barnhardt, who are conducting the prosecution, that a special venire call would not be necessary, as it is hoped to complete the jury from the men now on hand.

John C. Henning and his wife will be the first witnesses called by the state.

ACTRESS CLAWED BY LEOPARD; FACE DISFIGURED FOR LIFE.

Keepers of Animal Used in "Movie" Pose at Rome Unable to Avert Attack from Danger of Shooting Victim.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ROME, Oct. 19.—Adriana Costamagna, an actress, was badly bitten and clawed by a leopard while posing for a classical scene in a bioscope picture today.

The keepers, standing by, did not use their revolvers, as they were afraid of hitting the woman. They turned the hose on the leopard, but without effect. Finally they succeeded in getting a chain around the animal and dragged him away.

Miss Costamagna was taken to a hospital, where it is said she will recover. Her face and arms, however, will be disfigured permanently.

SMOKE ATTITUDE OF PENNSYLVANIA

Opposition to Electrification of Terminals Declared; Cost Held Enormous.

OTHER FACTORS BLAMED.

Motive Power Head Says Engines Are Only Partly Responsible for Evil.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Opposition by the Pennsylvania railroad to electrification of terminals, as proposed in Chicago, was disclosed in a statement issued by the railroad company today. The statement is an article dealing with the abatement of locomotive smoke. It was written by D. F. Crawford, general superintendent of motive power on the lines west of Pittsburgh.

Mr. Crawford intimates that steam locomotives have been singled out unfairly as producers of the smoke nuisance. He says locomotives are responsible for only 20 per cent of the smoke evil, and inquires why electrification of plants producing the other 80 per cent is not more strongly urged.

Holds Electric Cost Enormous.

"The cost of everything electric is enormous," he says. "It is true that the demand is rarely made that an entire cross country line be operated by electric power, but that such operations be confined to the larger cities.

"Such an installation, however, except under favorable conditions, involves not only a proportionately heavier investment for the electric plant, but requires the establishment of two locomotive terminals, one each side of the city, and an additional stop at each of the terminals for an exchange of the steam for an electric locomotive or vice versa.

"While, of course, with an unlimited expenditure of money much might be accomplished by electrification of the railways to reduce the proportion of smoke now produced by them, it would seem wise to first provide for the transportation and terminal facilities required to meet the growing needs of our country's commerce, and the elimination of grade crossings, etc., before devoting any considerable sum to eliminating a comparatively small amount of the smoke in a particular community."

Tap Line Abuse Considered.

The interstate commerce commission is preparing to deliver another blow to the tap line abuse which is responsible for railroad rebating to the extent of from $60,000,000 to $100,000,000 a year.

The commission has decided that most of the tap lines maintained by steel companies in the territory east of Chicago are rebating devices and that the corporation owners should be prohibited henceforth from receiving a share of the through rate on shipments. The decision, it is said, will be promulgated within the next fortnight.

This case involves twenty-nine tap lines, nineteen being incorporated and ten unincorporated.

Following the disposition of this case the commission will investigate tap lines in other parts of the country, either on complaint or on its own motion. The tap lines maintained by the steel and other corporations in the Chicago territory will be included in the inquiry.

CURB ON EXPENSE ROILS RISK MEN

New York Ruling Stirs Writers of Liability and Workmen's Compensation.

COMMISSIONS ARE CUT.

Western Underwriters Undertake to Launch Independent Company.

BY C. M. CARTWRIGHT.

Insurance men that write liability and workmen's compensation business are still greatly agitated over the action of the New York insurance department in limiting the expense ratio of companies, thus causing a reduction in commissions along the line. The insurance men are not so much aroused over the reduction in commissions on compensation insurance, for they believe that the compensation law should be administered by private companies at just as low an expense ratio as possible, thus warding off any tendency toward state insurance. The companies themselves had voluntarily reduced commissions on this class. The New York department notified casualty companies that the total acquisition expense for compensation insurance must not exceed 17½ per cent of the premium for workmen's compensation insurance and 20 per cent for liability insurance.

Conference Companies Pay Low.

In Chicago, for example, the conference companies have been paying brokers 10 per cent on compensation business. Most of the outside companies have been paying 12½ per cent for this business. On other classes of liability insurance brokers have been paid 15 per cent.

What the casualty men object to is the limitation of expense on other forms of liability insurance outside of workmen's compensation, such as public liability, automobile liability, teams insurance, elevator and contingent liability insurance. The insurance men say the public has made no complaint as to the expense ratio on these classes, and that the New York department is taking a dictatorial stand in endeavoring to lay down the law to the companies in this regard.

They claim Supt. Emmet of New York acted on his own initiative and did not consult the other insurance commissioners.

Concerns Hold Commission Reasonable

The insurance people say the commissions on other forms of liability insurance, outside of workmen's compensation, have been very reasonable and that the public had no cause to complain.

The fact that there is a general revolt on the part of the producing casualty men is seen in the organization of the National Association of Casualty and Surety Agents at Cincinnati during the week. This organization is understood to be more or less a protective one that will fight any attempt to hamper the normal growth of the business. When a high and mighty stand is taken by a state insurance commissioner, the casualty men feel that they should be united to protest against it.

Wade Fetzer of the Fidelity and Casualty at Chicago was elected president of the new organization, and John A. Morrison of the Massachusetts Bonding of Chicago was made secretary.

New Body Strong in West.

The strength of this new organization will no doubt be found in the west, where the feeling is strong against eastern supervising officials attempting to control affairs over the entire country.

The western casualty men do not go so far at the present time in saying that they will organize a big company of their own that will not operate in New York, but they do intend to see what they can do to get some relief and to ascertain whether the New York department will be allowed to have the word of command in all other states. Finally, if the New York department remains immovable, it may be found desirable to organize a large company, with headquarters probably in Chicago, which will not be under the supervision of the New York insurance department.

Object to Eastern Domination.

If this project comes about it is the plan to have all the big casualty men rally about it and give it a large business. This company would pay the same commissions that have been paid in the past before the recent New York ukase.

Casualty men are doing much thinking on the subject these days, feeling bitter about their livelihood being curtailed and their business exposed to the danger of disintegration because of this action in New York. The companies not operating in New York are still adhering to the old commission scale, but the larger and country wide companies all do business in New York, and hence are affected.

Supt. Emmet has been emphatic in his public expressions on the commission question in casualty insurance, and it is thought he will go still further, now that he has decided what to do as to workmen's compensation and liability lines. It would not be surprising to see him set a limit on the production cost for personal accident insurance.

Emmet Opposes State Insurance.

Supt. Emmet prepared a paper for the annual convention of the National Association of Local Fire Insurance Agents, which was held in Cincinnati during the week.

Mr. Emmet is opposed to state insurance of all kinds and especially so far as fire insurance is concerned. He called attention to the uncertainties and extraordinary hazards which attach to the fire business and says that this element in that class of underwriting seems to require that it shall remain in competent and private hands.

The insurance men are especially interested in the position that Supt. Emmet took on rating. He believes that rates should be made in the first instance by rate making bodies or bureaus as at present and submitted to the insurance department together with the classified experience of the companies. These rates and schedules would be approved by the department upon the basis of a study of classified experience, by qualified experts in employ of the state.

Judge Mahoney Continues Policy of Releasing Prisoners on Own Recognizance, Calling It Success.

Cell doors at the South Clark street station were opened shortly after sunrise yesterday to free five prisoners, who signed their own bonds when Municipal Judge John Mahoney called them before him in his "sunrise" court. They had promised to appear before him this morning in the Criminal Court building. The judge, at the conclusion of court, expressed himself well satisfied with its operation so far, and declared that since he had moved to the north side the number of arrests had been reduced 50 per cent.

LIKE CHICAGO PENAL IDEAS

Prussian Investigators Approve System in Vogue Here.

VISIT MISS JANE ADDAMS.

Foreigners Decline to Comment on U. S. Institutions.

Many features of Chicago's penal system will become a part of a new penal code which is to be adopted soon by Prussia. The features, which a committee of four from Prussia found to be interesting and in advance of the Prusisan method of punishment of offenders, are juvenile courts, indeterminate sentences, parole, and probation.

The Prussian committee is composed of Privy Councilor Schlosser of Wabern, Privy Councilor Plaschke of Berlin, Dr. Remppis of the reformatory at Wabern, and Dr. Nickman of Werl. They spent all day yesterday studying conditions at the county jail and bridewell.

Go Into Every Detail.

The investigators are thorough in their work, spending three or four hours at each place and asking innumerable questions of the attendants and officials. It is on their report and the recommendations with it that Prussia will base the new code.

The delegates refused to discuss local conditions or to comment on American methods. They replied to interviewers that their government had ordered them to make no public statements on the American institutions.

The delegates are being shown through the United States by O. F. Lewis, general secretary of the New York Prison Reform society. Mr. Lewis also stated that he could not discuss the comments of the Prussians.

Here to Observe Reforms.

"Their object in visiting the United States," Mr. Lewis said, "is to observe results of the continual experimenting in this country. Many plans are tried and discarded here, while in Prussia tradition has kept the old system almost continuously in vogue.

"The delegates are noting the defects and the proficiency of the various systems here and no doubt we will be able to obtain their report after it is made."

Three of the delegates will go to Stillwater, Minn., today, while Dr. Remppis will remain in Chicago to inspect the police stations. An informal reception was given last night at the Hull House by Miss Jane Addams and other social workers in Chicago.

CANDLE GLEAM LEADS TO RAID.

Detectives See Men Playing Cards by Light of Wax Tapers and Arrest Six.

The flickering light cast by six small candles attracted the attention of detectives in search of gamblers early yesterday as they were passing the barber shop of Joseph Scharoski, 3292 South Halsted street. They saw six men seated around a table in the basement and raided the place. Scharoski was booked as the keeper and the others were charged with being inmates of a gambling house.

ISAACS NOW CHIEF JUSTICE.

Appointment of Sir Rufus to High Office Announced in London—Succeeds Baron Alverstone.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The appointment of Sir Rufus Isaacs, the attorney general, as lord chief justice was officially announced today. He succeeds Baron Alverstone, who recently resigned. Sir J. A. Simon, solicitor general, is appointed to the attorney generalship. Stanley Owen Buckmaster succeeds to the solicitor generalship. Baron Alverstone has been created a viscount.

FUTURE FOR ARGENTINE BEEF

Dr. Melvin, U. S. Expert, Tells South American Impressions.

ALFALFA IS CATTLE RATION.

Landowners Abandon Grain Growing for Stock Pastures.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Although Argentina is now slaughtering cattle up to her present supply, Dr. A. D. Melvin, chief of the bureau of animal industry, who has just returned from a trip to South America, predicts a great development of the stock rearing and meat industries in Argentina and surrounding countries in the near future.

Dr. Melvin visited Argentina, Uruguay, and Brazil. The former two are larger exporters of beef and mutton, for which Great Britain is the chief customer. Brazil exports no refrigerated beef, although it supplies Central America and Cuba with cured beef known as tassajo.

Great Future as Cattle Country.

Dr. Melvin is impressed with the great resources of Argentina for the production of cattle and believes it will be possible for the stockmen there to bring about a large increase in the meat output if present prices are maintained.

The cattle slaughtered for export in Argentina, Dr. Melvin says, are fed no grain whatever, but are reared and fattened entirely on alfalfa pastures.

In a general way the cattlemen estimate two and one-half acres of pasture per head for growing cattle and three to three and one-half acres for fattening cattle. These pastures support the cattle the year round without any further feeding, except in occasional times of drought or invasion of locusts.

Alfalfa Grown for Cattle.

Alfalfa, he says, is not being grown nearly as extensively as it could be. The extension of its growth, he thinks, will depend largely on prices the cattlemen receive. Because of present satisfactory prices the tendency now is to convert the grain lands into alfalfa pastures.

SURVIVORS OF VOLTURNO HERE.

Four Men Rescued from Wreck Arrive in Chicago, Dazed and Almost Penniless.

Listless and dazed, four immigrants sprawled on benches at the Park Row station last night waiting for a train to take them to their destination in the west. They were survivors of the Volturno tragedy. Their clothes and scanty money had been given them, as the shipwreck left them entirely penniless, and the immigration authorities had to stretch a point to admit them to the country. They were Dura Seatovic, a Slav, and David Meilstein, Isaac Zatz, and Wevel Landel, Russian Jews, seeking refuge in this country, and barely reaching here with their lives. They said they were so stupefied at the wreck they felt neither cold nor exhaustion.

HUNDREDS AT PAUL FUNERAL.

Butcher Boy Slain by William Keith Buried in Arlington Cemetery.

Walker Paul, the butcher's boy slain by William Keith as a result of Mrs. Keith's confession involving Paul and eight other men, was buried yesterday in Arlington cemetery. Two hundred men who had contributed to the funeral fund raised by the saloonkeeper in whose café the man was shot, followed the casket. Only one was related to Paul—a half brother from Cleveland. Keith still is locked up in the county jail.

BANK BOND FIGHT STIRS M'ADOO IRE

Secretary Denounces Methods of 'Big Fellows' and Calls Claims False.

SAYS 2 PER CENTS ARE O. K.

Asserts Demand Will Hold Up with Value Unchanged if Currency Bill Passes.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—Efforts of large financial interests to frighten bankers and investors in government bonds into opposition to the impending currency measure were denounced today by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo.

The secretary charges that the effect of the proposed measure on United States 2 per cent bonds is being deliberately misrepresented by certain banks. He contends that these bonds will suffer no depression in market price as a result of the legislation, which, he adds, will confer additional advantages on the possession of these securities.

Mr. McAdoo also says that he has not found a single banker who actually intends to quit the national banking system if the bill becomes a law.

Denounces Methods of Banks.

The statement given out by the secretary is in the form of a letter he wrote to Vice President R. D. Duncan of the State National bank, Little Rock, Ark. The letter in part follows:

"I have you letter of the 13th instant, in which you inclose copy of a circular issued by bankers of St. Louis, in reference to the 2 per cent bonds. The statements of this circular are inconsistent with the provisions of the pending currency bill. I am surprised that a reputable banking house would sponsor a circular disclosing such a lack of information upon such an important matter. I think you may take it for granted that no currency measure is going to be passed which deals unjustly with the 2 per cent bonds.

"I cannot understand why any national bank should sell its bonds at present quotations. Certainly there is nothing in the pending legislation to justify such action.

"If a banker sells his 2 per cent bonds upon the mere apprehension that enough national banks will go out of the system to force a large volume of these bonds on the market, he is simply taking counsel of unreasonable fear.

Demand for Bonds Assured.

"Even if a number of the banks should retire from the system, a very much larger number will undoubtedly remain in it, and since the banks that remain will require a larger amount of bonds to supply the deficiency of circulation caused by those which may retire, it is reasonable to believe that there will continue to be a large demand for government 2s to meet the needs for circulation.

"The bill does not deprive the 2s of the circulation privilege. It leaves it undisturbed. Every national bank may continue to buy the 2 per cent bonds and take out circulation against them to the full amount of its capital stock, as provided by existing law."

LACK OF BANKS AND PUBLICITY LOSES SOUTH AMERICAN TRADE.

Consular Agent Points Out Laxity of United States and Suggests Solution of Problem.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—[Special.]—The United States is losing out in the world race for the South American trade chiefly because of the lack of an American banking system and the lack of a proper news service between the two continents, in the opinion of Charles Lyon Chandler, a consular official now stationed in Washington.

Mr. Chandler also believes the Panama canal will result in a great aggrandizing influence in South America. This influence will be due largely to the immigrants carried through it to South America and not wholly to increased commercial facilities.

"There are many barriers against American trade expansion in South America," Mr. Chandler says, in a report printed by order of the senate, "and many handicaps which American investors today have to overcome. But perhaps the most important are these: We need in South America, American banks, American young men, a better informed press, and our investors there need better labor—that is, cheap, dependable labor."

There is now no American bank south of Panama. England, France, Germany, and Holland have banks which have been established as long as fifty years. He says of the news service:

"Another of the greatest handicaps against the American in South America is, I think, the lack of good news service between the two continents, and of sound knowledge of South American history and economic conditions."

"FEAST OF APPLES" TOMORROW.

Oct. 21, Set Aside as "Apple Day," to Be Celebrated 197 Different Ways by Lovers of Luscious Fruit.

Apple dealers around Chicago have given up trying to estimate the number of apples that will be eaten tomorrow, Apple day. They have scattered broadcast a recipe book showing 197 different ways of preparing apples in an apple-tizing way, pies, puddings, cakes, dumplings, salads, and plain.

The "feast of apples" was started a few years ago by James Handley of Quincy, Ill., and has spread through the principal apple producing states. In New Hampshire many of the schools are closed in order to let the pupils go into the ochards and see demonstrations of the best ways to grow the fruit.

For the benefit of those who cannot afford to buy, some of the shipping associations arrange to send wagon loads into the poorer sections, and vast quantities are sent each year to hospitals and asylums.

POPE FOUND GREATLY IMPROVED

Welsh Bishop Told by Pontiff That Two Hundred Pilgrims from Wales Will Be Received Thursday.

ROME, Oct. 19.—During the last fortnight the condition of the pope has improved greatly. He has resumed his audiences and today received the Rt. Rev. Francis Mostyn, bishop of Menevia, Wales, who found the pontiff looking better than ever before—bright, alert, and keen. The pope informed the bishop that he anticipated the pleasure of receiving on Thursday 200 pilgrims who came to Rome under the charge of Bishop Mostyn.

"Occasional Wants"

In the Way of Service And Who Supply Them

Under this heading The Tribune prints a personal and household "want filler" that is novel, unique and very useful.

Each of the tradesmen whose notices appear below performs the kind of service that all of us need at some time. A glance will show that their trades are unusual, out of the ordinary. Being unusual and little advertised, it was difficult to find these workers when most wanted.

"Occasional Wants" supplies the desired name and address at a moment's notice. It is good to consult and to keep by you. It appears, with additions, in The Tribune on Monday mornings.

Special Ten-Day Offer of "Ease All" Shoes to Prove to 1,000 Men and Women That They're the World's Greatest Shoes

To introduce "Ease All" Shoes to 1000 new wearers this month, we will give a pair of highest quality storm rubbers FREE with each pair of "Ease All" Shoes purchased during the balance of October. Clip the coupon NOW.

The price of "Ease All" Shoes is $6.00 for Women's and $7.00 for Men's

And there's full value in every pair. The prices are so reasonable that they never can be sold at "cut prices."

"Ease All" Shoes are scientifically made with a built-in-leather arch support that continues right around the shoe and forms a counter support that shapes the foot into nature's intended position and gently keeps it there. This support relieves all strain and distributes the weight of your body over the entire foot, thus putting your nervous system at rest.

Do not use metal braces which boost the foot up one side and force it against another part of the shoe.

Inflated or soft padded insoles afford no support to the foot muscles. You need EASE ALL leather supports built right into the shoe for real lasting comfort.

"Ease All" Shoes prevent and immediately relieve tender, aching feet, corns, bunions, callouses, broken down arches, weak ankles, strained ligaments, pains in the limbs and many other foot ailments that result from wearing shoes improperly fitted—shoes that pinch one spot—strain and wrinkle in another. Let us prove it to you during this Special Sale.

Except in rare instances special lasts are not necessary—neither are cripples' braces or bandages—just plain shoe sense of real shoe men.

We have hundreds of testimonials from people who wear "Ease All" Shoes with comfort. Many of them suffered for years with their feet—paid exorbitant prices for "made to measure" shoes that did not measure—tried metal braces, padded soles and many other so-called reliefs, but never knew real foot comfort until they put their feet into "Ease All" Shoes.

Here are a few from a bundle. We will gladly show you more—

"I finally bought a pair of the 'Ease All' Comfort Shoes, and I am pleased to say that they are just what I have been looking for for years."
MRS. A. WILLIAMS,
7023 Stewart Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

"I can recommend it as the easiest and most comfortable shoe that I have ever worn."
MRS. L. S. HALL,
5520 Monroe Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

"I will say without reservation, and emphatically so, that your shoe is an 'Ease All' Shoe in ease, weight, size and construction."
C. W. BALDWIN,
709 Blackford Avenue, Evansville, Ind.

"For several years I have been troubled with enlarged joints, and this is the first pair of shoes that I have been able to wear with perfect comfort."
MR. H. S. GATES,
213-219 W. Monroe St., Chicago, Ill.

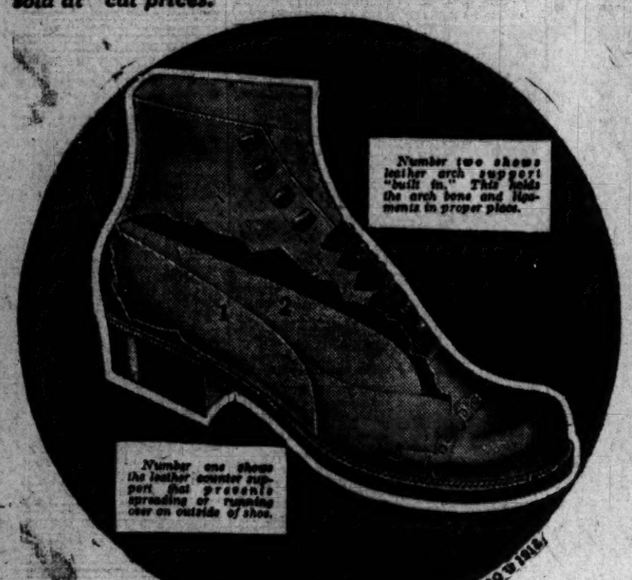

"If I could tell you one part of the pain and trouble I went through in the last year you would believe me when I say I wouldn't sell these 'Ease All' Shoes for $1,000 if I could not replace them."
JOHN M. HESS,
106 N. La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.
